SIX U-BOATS SUNK IN FOUR DAYS

WIDOW TELLS LIFE AND DEATH OF DE SAULLES

Story of Sorrow Is Given by Witness in Murder Trial.

Mineola, L. I., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—In a low toned, slow spoken narrative, not more than a couple of hundred words long—all the more impressive because of its brevity and repression—Blanca De Saulles, toward the end of today's court session, told of her visit, on Aug. 3 last, to the home of her husband, John Longer De Saulles, which resulted in his death at her hands.

Of the actual killing she said not a word. Of having a pistol with her, of firing five shots, she mentioned not a syllable. These things, it is being contended on her behalf, she did not recall at the moment.

What she told, in a soft, throaty contralto and in words whose accents were half Spanish and half Londonese, was why she went to his house, what she said to him and he to her, and that how there was a hiatus in her existence—a blank space between the time Jack De Saulles uttered his last words to her and the time she awoke to sensibility again, as a prisoner in the Nassau county jail, charged with murder.

High Value of Dramatics.

Had the story been written and memorized, critics would have paid tribute to the author for his sense of dramatic construction and to the speaker of the lines for her histrionic ability. For the words vividly suggested the tragedy, but did not tell of it, and the delivery was of that sort whose quiet tensity was far more striking than exclamatory rant would have been.

Yet the narration was unrehearsed and entirely impromptu—the result of an unexpected request by the court that Blanca proceed in her own style, uninterrogated by her lawyer. All day before that she had simply been answering questions from the attorney and had volunteered nothing.

Thought De Saulles Absent.

"I went over to 'The Box' [De Saulles' home at Westbury] that night, because I had been told that my —my boy's father was not there," she began her description of the episode. It was curious, the way she spoke of her victim. Usually she referred to him as De Saulles, without the "Mr." She never said "my husband." Only once, through the whole day, she let slip the name Jack.

"I left my machine at the edge of the lawn," her story went on. "I wanted to take my baby and run. I did not want any one to know I had come. As I got to the door I saw my baby coming downstairs with Caroline, his aunt."

There was a long pause between Mrs. De Saulles' sentences. She was facing the jury and each man in the box was leaning far forward with his hand cupped about his ear to catch her words, which were scarcely more than whispers. Justice Manning was on the edge of his chair, beside hers, likewise bending toward her. Out in the body of the room 300 auditors, literally breathless, held strained attitudes as they listened.

Her Request for Baby.

"Jules, the valet, came to the door," the little defendant continued. "I asked where De Saulles was. Then I saw him, just behind Jules. I said: 'It is not very nice of you to keep the baby away from me.' I don't know what he said to me. I said: 'I have come to take him home with me.'

"He looked at me——"

There was again a lengthy spell of silence. Blanca lowered her eyes and with her small hands gripped the arms of the big chair upon which she sat.

"He said (and her words became slower and slower) 'you—cannot have him! You—can never—have—him.'"

She stopped now for a quarter of a minute or so.

Thinks She Was Stunned.

"I think I was stunned then," she went on without the least rise in the pitch of her voice. After another halt she said with a pause between each couple of words: "I had—a frightful pain—in my head."

The longest silence period of all fell upon the courtroom after she spoke of being stunned, of having the frightful pain in her head. For nearly a full

INVASION PERIL IN ITALY NOW BELIEVED OVER

Hold on All Fronts and Vast Allied Army Arrives.

(By the Associated Press.)

Apparently the peril of the Italian troops guarding the Piave line and the hill country in northern Italy against the Teutonic allies is at an end.

Large numbers of British and French reinforcements—infantry and artillery—have arrived upon the scene, after days of anxious waiting in which the Italians have borne the brunt of terrific fighting on both fronts solely on their own shoulders and kept back the enemy from a further invasion of the Venetian plain.

Although faced everywhere by superior numbers of men and guns, the Italians have valiantly defended every foot of ground in the hills and along the Piave. In the former region in recent days they actually have taken the offensive against the invaders and pushed them back from strategic points gained under terrific sacrifices in lives.

Marched Eight Days.

For eight days the allied reinforcements marched to the rescue, bringing along with them large numbers of guns and huge supply trains. All the troops are declared to be in fine fettle and eager to test their strength against the enemy.

Just where the British and French forces will be thrown into the fray has not been made known, but doubtless large numbers of them will be used to strengthen the Italian front on the north, from Lake Garda eastward to the Piave, where the Austro-Germans have been making their strongest efforts to pierce the Italian line.

FIERCE MOUNTAIN BATTLE.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 25.—The correspondent was on a tour of the northern fighting front, where the great battle is continuing with unexampled violence. Maj. Gen. Di Giorgio was found commanding the extreme left of the fourth army at the point where the fighting was heaviest.

Along the route northward long lines of Italian infantry, decimated in the last few days, were reforming to return to the fight. They showed the fearful strain, but there was no trace of wavering, and all breathed a spirit of eagerness.

Allied Host Arrives.

In another zone solid ranks of allied reinforcements crowded the roads. Already they were within sound of the rumble of the guns.

The French reinforcements were first seen in force. They were splendid looking young men.

For miles the party passed through endless lines of French. There were squadrons of cavalry in the road and in the nearby fields, and long lines of troops with artillery trains and supplies. Field kitchens had been set up at one point. The men did not show a trace of fatigue from their long march. Just beyond here the color turned from blue to khaki as long lines of the British came into sight.

The whole appearance of the British and French gave a feeling of great power because of the perfect organization and ardor of all ranks, accentuated by the timeliness with which they are arriving in the vicinity of the battle front.

Italian Spirit Rises.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The splendid showing made by Italian troops of the line against some of the best picked troops of the German armies in the last week not only has caused a new spirit to sweep over Italy but has given an opportunity for a most important reorganization, reports reaching here say. In the last few days the severest fighting, some of it with knives, has brought only insignificant changes in the line in the Mount Tomba sector, where Austro-German forces hope to drive a big wedge, thereby taking Venice and a large stretch of country.

Rumors continue that the Germans will, if they get in front of Venice, send an ultimatum threatening to blow it to pieces unless it is quickly evacuated.

It has been learned that the Germans have lost no time in putting to work thousands of able bodied women and children in recently occupied territory.

Baker and Daniels Glad to Have Red Cross Aid

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Another appeal to the women of the country to keep on knitting or in other ways making comforts for soldiers and sailors was made today by Secretaries Daniels and Baker through the Red Cross, where the following statement was issued by the war council:

"Secretary Baker and Secretary Daniels wish the people of the country to know that under no circumstances do they want to discourage our good women from knitting or otherwise voluntarily providing through the Red Cross comforts for our soldiers and sailors."

LENINE WINS AID OF SECOND RUSSIAN ARMY

Votes to Fight for Rebels; Deposes Officers.

BULLETIN.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 26.—If Russia enters into separate peace negotiations the ministers of the allied powers at Petrograd will demand their passports, according to a dispatch from Haparanda.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 24.—A congress of the second army, with one dissenting vote, has adopted a resolution approving all the measures promulgated by the Council of National Commissioners, including the decree for an immediate armistice and peace and favoring the government of the Workmens and Soldiers' delegates.

The resolution appeals to all soldiers not to support Premier Kerensky and the provisional government generals "against the people." The most striking passage in the resolution follows:

"The second army, with arms in its hands, will defend the authority of the Workmens and Soldiers' delegates and the national committee. At the first order of the military revolutionary committee of the second army, which is clothed with full power, we will advance as one man against counter revolutionists in the rear as well as at the front.

"Democratizing" the Army.

"On our part we are taking all measures for the removal of counter-revolutionary movements from the commanding personnel of the army, for the immediate democratization of the army and in particular for the transfer of the higher authority in the army to elective bodies."

Rear Admiral Verdervsky, in announcing his resignation as minister of marine, gives as his reason lack of sympathy with the course of the government of the Workmens and Soldiers' delegates relative to an armistice. He, however, exhorts his subordinates to continue to carry on the work of the department.

Peasants Fight Land Grab.

The peasant congress of the Tomsk government [West Siberia] has sent a message to the All-Russian conference of the peasant council at Petrograd, expressing disapproval of Premier Lenine's land decree. The congress declares that supervision of land affairs must be left in the hands of the peasant congress until the constituent assembly meets.

The Maximalist commissioners have proclaimed the abolition of class titles, distinctions, and privileges. All persons henceforth are citizens of the Russian republic. The corporate property of nobles, merchants, and burgesses, according to the proclamation, must be handed over to the state.

TALK TRUCE BY WIRELESS.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Petrograd and Berlin are in wireless communication. The Russian northern armies are reported to be becoming short of food, and it was rumored in Petrograd that another government had been organized by Socialists somewhere near the capital city.

These facts were contained in advices received by the state department from Ambassador Francis at Petrograd today.

It is assumed that the wireless communication relates to the proffered armistice and indicates that the Bolsheviki administration and the government of Germany are discussing the Maximalist proposal. Officials, however, declined to comment on Ambassador Francis' report.

New Danger for Russia.

Danger for Russia was seen in the reported shortage of food in the northern armies. Should foodstuffs not be supplied, it was feared there would be great pillaging, but some authorities expressed the view that the soldiers, following the example set by thousands of others, would go to Petrograd, if driven by hunger from the front, and constitute a most serious menace to the Bolsheviki power itself.

The northern armies are stationed chiefly in the Baltic provinces, close to Petrograd. It is believed other Russian armies also will feel any shortage of provisions.

Consider Bolsheviki Note.

President Wilson has under advisement the action to be taken by this government in respect to the proposal by the Bolsheviki administration in

MRS. WILSON SAVES A GIRL POSTAL WORK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Intercession by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will enable Miss Edith Strand of Princeton, Ill., to resume carrying the mail on a rural route in place of her brother, Harry A. Strand, who is now in a training camp in Texas.

A brother of Harry Strand is in the American army in France, having enlisted early in the war. When Harry went into the aviation service Edith remained the sole support of her parents. She obtained a temporary appointment as rural carrier, succeeding her brother.

Then the civil service commission ordered the postoffice department to replace Edith with a man, because, under the law, women are not eligible to such appointments. An organization of women brought the matter to the attention of Mrs. Wilson, dwelling upon the injustice of a situation which permits the government to accept the ablebodied sons for war service and forbidding the daughter to take the place of one of them as sole support of the parents who have given their sons to their country. As a result President Wilson will issue an executive order appointing Miss Strand rural carrier as an exception to the civil service regulations.

BACHELOR HALL NO PLACE FOR A FINE LITTLE CHAP

He was such a cunning little fellow as he stood before Judge Arnold yesterday in Juvenile Court, was Frank Carr, a motherless waif whose father, Thomas Carr, lives in bachelor quarters. Frank has been living with an older brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Carr, but Mrs. Carr is not well enough to care for him. The father took him to live at his apartment, but a court attaché felt that the boy needed a woman's care and so brought him before Judge Arnold.

After learning the points bearing on the case the judge said to the father:

"To put this little boy in gray bachelor quarters without a woman to care for him would be worse than shutting a beautiful plant away from the sunlight. If we find him a place where you can see him Saturdays and Sundays, won't that be satisfactory?"

Mr. Carr agreed and the little chap will be given a home with a kind woman who is waiting to welcome him.

THE WAR

Rome reports furious Teuton attacks between Piave and Brenta crushed by Italians. Berlin claims victory in local fighting.

Berlin reports Bourlon, near Cambrai, in German hands. London reports no new attacks on British in Bourlon position.

Paris reports troops consolidating positions won in attack on hill 344.

Russian second army votes to support Lenine government. Hunger spreads through armies and may bring bloody civil war.

STONE AND SONS PLANT BURNED; 100 CARS LOST

The Mary Thompson hospital was endangered last night by a 4-11 fire which wrecked the C. Stone & Sons company building at 1658-66 Ogden avenue. The hospital is directly in the rear of the building, and while the flames were spreading the lights in the hospital flickered out.

One hundred automobiles were destroyed in the blaze, among them cars of J. Ogden Armour and Miss Lolita Armour, which were being fitted out with new bodies. Including the loss to customers, Frank Stone of the company estimated that the loss would be between $150,000 and $200,000.

Pulmotor Saves Life of Woman Who Sought to Die

A pulmotor from an undertaking shop—C. Kampp & Son, 218 North Central avenue, Austin—saved the life of Mrs. Josephine Rohe last night. A brother, August Hess, returned to the home at 1029 North Leamington avenue and detected the odor of gas. He forced the door of the bathroom and found Mrs. Rohe unconscious. The police revived her with the borrowed pulmotor after an hour's work. She has two sons—14 and 16 years old—and when questioned said she thought they no longer loved her.

Secretary Wilson, Ill, Denies Self to Visitors

Portland, Ore., Nov. 26.—William B. Wilson, secretary of labor, remained in his car and denied himself to all callers today after his arrival here at the head of the presidential mediation commission, seeking the adjustment of labor disputes in the northwest. Felix Frankfurter, secretary of the commission, said Mr. Wilson was ill, but that his indisposition was not serious.

CAPTURE BY U. S. OF DIVER'S CREW GIVEN IN DETAIL

Americans Jump Into Water and Rescue Several Foes.

BULLETIN.

New York, Nov. 26.—(Special.)—"Well, boys, you'll be glad to hear the good news from the sea," Ambassador Jusserand said, turning to a group of French officers and American soldiers and sailors at the Hero Land bazaar at the Grand Central palace tonight.

"We have sunk six German submarines in the last four days."

(By the Associated Press.)

BASE OF THE AMERICAN FLOTILLA, IN BRITISH WATERS, Nov. 26.—It now is permissible to give the details of the capture by Americans of the entire crew of a U-boat that was sunk by depth charges. The explosives had disabled the U-boat and forced it down, bumping along the bottom of the sea, and striking terror to the hearts of the crew. Then the commander, in order to lighten the boat, emptied the tanks.

To the great relief of the crew the U-boat responded and arose to the surface with such a rush that some of the Germans were thrown about and injured. The U-boat appeared on the surface within several hundred feet of an American destroyer. The submarine's hatch flew open and the Germans scrambled out of the conning tower, coatless and shoeless, ready to swim. They lined up along the narrow deck with hands in the air, shouting "Kamerad!"

Germans Open Sea Cocks.

The U-boat remained stationary and the destroyer moved close up and heaved a line, which the Germans made fast. This was no sooner done than it became apparent that the crew had succeeded in opening the sea cocks, for the submarine began to settle, at first slowly, then more rapidly. As it did so the Germans leaped into the water and swam toward the destroyer. Some of the American sailors jumped into the sea to rescue the injured.

As the last German was lifted aboard the destroyer the hawser attached to the U-boat parted under the strain and the U-boat disappeared.

Americans Bury One Victim.

All the Germans were given steaming hot coffee and dry clothing and were otherwise made comfortable for the run to the base. But one of their number, a machinist, had suffered greatly from shock and exposure and died on the way. He was buried with full military honors from the deck of the destroyer, the American commander officiating at what was the first funeral service so far held in this war on an American destroyer.

When the destroyer reached its base the prisoners were almost wholly clad in American naval outfits. They appeared especially fond of the American shoes, which were the first they had ever worn.

Three Hundred Boys Flee Fire at Parental School

Three hundred boys, inmates of the Chicago Parental school, Foster and North Central Park avenues, were routed from their beds early this morning by a fire which broke out in the laundry of the institution.

The fire drill which is gone through by the boys at the school proved efficacious in the moment of need, and the entire 300 were marched out of the building in one minute after the fire was discovered. Fred E. Smith, superintendent of the school, and his assistants supervised the removal of the boys.

They had hardly reached the street when the entire building was filled with smoke. The cause of the fire was not discovered.

WILSON CUTS BEER ALCOHOL TO 3 PER CENT

Lets Breweries Run to Bar Greater Whisky Use.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—President Wilson decreed today that beer brewed henceforth in the United States shall be less intoxicating.

He approved a recommendation by Food Administrator Hoover reducing the alcoholic content of beer to 3 per cent and also reducing the amount of grain used in brewing to approximately 70 per cent of the volume now consumed.

Brew Same Volume.

With the alcoholic content reduced from the present average of 4 per cent to 3 per cent it will be possible to brew the volume of beer now consumed from 70 per cent of the amount of grain now employed. Therefore, there will be no diminution in the supply of beer, but it will be less intoxicating.

While the action of the president and Mr. Hoover is primarily a measure for the conservation of cereals needed to expand the food supply, the administration takes occasion to declare itself against the prohibition of beer at this time and otherwise to announce its stand on the liquor question.

Attitude of Administration.

This is the way the question appears to the administration:

Although the distilling has been suspended for the period of the war, perhaps never to be resumed, there is a two or three years' supply of whisky, brandy, and gin in the country.

Although the president has authority to commandeer the stock of distilled liquors to turn into alcohol, the supply of industrial alcohol from other sources is ample.

Prohibition of brewing, therefore, would divert tipplers from the consumption of the less harmful beer to the more harmful whisky, brandy, and gin.

Therefore, says the administration, advocates of temperance having the best interests of the country at heart should be in favor of continuing the brewing of beer.

Statement by Hoover.

The action of the administration was announced in the following statement by Mr. Hoover:

"The president has approved the recommendation of the food administration that the alcoholic content of beer shall be reduced in the first instance to 3 per cent maximum and that the volume of grain to be used in brewing shall be reduced to an amount approximately 70 per cent of the amount of grain formerly used, enabling the brewing of the same volume of beer.

"Further, provisions are being made to increase the maximum output of cattle feed from brewing establishments.

Liquor Supply on Hand.

"The food bill provides for the prohibition of the use of foodstuffs in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes and the use of foodstuffs for the production of distilled drinks was stopped on Sept. 8. There is, however, in the country from two to three years' supply of whisky, brandy, and gin and other distilled liquors. The food bill provides that these liquors can be commandeered by the government if required for purposes of manufacture of alcohol for munitions.

"On the other hand, the requirements for industrial alcohol, in addition to the normal output from sawdust and other waste products are at present negligible.

Would Increase Evil.

"Those who wish brewing entirely suppressed should therefore bear in mind that if such a course were pursued the country would be placed on a whisky basis entirely and the amount of alcohol consumed would most probably increase.

"The desirability of saving all the grain used in brewing from the point of view of food conservation is therefore limited by the social question involved in the exclusive use of whisky."

Brewers Lose Fight.

The reduction of the alcoholic content of bear and limitation of the amount of grain used in brewing have been under consideration by the food administration for some time. The brewers got wind of the fact and immediately initiated a campaign to defeat the move. The most visible part of the campaign consisted of page

LEST we forget, the United States food administration wishes to remind the public that today is meatless day, as was last Tuesday, and as each Tuesday will be until further notice. The federal authorities are able to check up on the observance of meatless days by restaurants and hotels, but co-operation is needed by every housewife, cook, steward, and other person who has to do with the preparation and service of food in private homes or clubs. Therefore this gentle reminder. Eat no meat, that we may beat the Boche.

display advertisements in the Washington newspapers setting forth the virtues of beer, its food value, its widespread consumption, comparatively small amount of grain used in its manufacture, and other details as viewed from the brewers' standpoint.

Mr. Hoover and his food experts, however, were convinced that a material saving in the grain needed for bread and other cereal foods could be effected by reducing the amount used by the brewers.

Would Bar Imports.

They also were o fthe opinion that it would be inexpedient to curtail the available supply of beer because a reduction of the domestic supply would invite importations, probably raise the price, and tend to encourage the drinking of other liquors.

Mr. Hoover was advised, however, that the same amount of beer could be produced with 30 per cent less grain if the alcoholic content were also reduced to the extent of 1 per cent.

The amount of cereal food that will be saved by curtailing the volume of grain used in brewing has been variously estimated by the food experts. Prof. Irving Fisher says that the grain employed in brewing would make 8,000,000 loaves of bread a day. Calculated upon this basis the saving effected by Mr. Hoover's 30 per cent reduction of the volume of grain ingredient of beer would amount to 2,400,000 loaves of bread a day.

Revenue Report Figures.

According to the internal revenue commsisioner the alcoholic content of beer as at present brewed is 4.05 per cent for malt and corn beer, 4.15 per cent for malt and rice beer, and 4.32 per cent for all malt beer.

The internal revenue commissioner's last report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1916, gives the following amounts of grain used in brewing:

	Bushels.
Malt	52,439,973
Corn, ceralines, and grits	13,573,521
Rice	2,354,000
Rye, oats, wheat, barley	72,355
Total	68,439,849

The Hoover order thus will cause a diversion to food uses of aproximately 20,500,000 bushels of grain now employed in brewing.

Drys Not Satisfied.

The temperance forces are not satisfied with the administration's view of the liquor question. The Anti-Saloon league withdrew its fight for the prohibition of brewing when the food bill was in congress in order to facilitate passage of this emergency measure. The league receded at the express request of President Wilson.

The officers of the league stated, however, that their withdrawal of their contentions was purely a matter of expediency and patriotic desire to further the food conservation legislation as a war measure. They expressly reserved the right to continue their fight for the prohibition of brewing through other measures.

This fight is to be renewed by the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., and other temperance organizations at the approaching session of congress. The Sheppard bill to submit to the states a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor in the United States has been passed by the senate and is pending in the house.

Round Up in House.

Every ounce of influence possessed by the drys is now being exerted to round up a two-thirds majority of the house in favor of the Sheppard bill. Efforts will be made to bring up the measure in the house before the Christmas holidays. Chairman Webb of the house judiciary committee is a dry and has promised the temperance forces that his committee will facilitate action by reporting the measure to the house without delay.

The drys have seized upon the administration attitude, as disclosed in the Hoover statement tonight, as an additional argument for national prohibition. They contend that national efficiency will be enhanced for the war effort by total abstinence and argue that if the administration fears the prohibition of brewing as a food conservation measure would create a nation of whisky drinkers the only sane alternative is to prohibit the consumption of alcoholic liquors altogether.

NO RADICAL CUT IN PRODUCTION OF AUTOMOBILES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Drastic curtailment of passenger automobile production, which has been talked of since the manufacturers were called into conference recently with the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense, has been found unnecessary, according to expert advisers of the commission. Facilities of the plants were said today to be sufficient for handling government work now in sight and steel manufacturers have given assurance that they can supply all the metal needed.

A statement issued last night by Judge R. S. Lovett, priority director of the war industries board, that he did not contemplate an order shutting off freight cars from the automobile industries, was prompted by exaggerted reports of what the government intended to do in restricting the manufacture of so-called non-essential products.

The automobile industries board, appointed by the manufacturers to fulfill their pledge of voluntary coöperation with the government, has placed before the war industries board a plan to transfer overland all cars intended for private sale within 100 miles of the city of manufacture, and it was said there was no reason why the radius of transfer might not be extended as far as road conditions will allow.

The experience gained in sending overland to the Atlantic seaboard all the trucks made for the army will be studied by the manufacturers, who expect that material relief in the transportation situation will result.

Beg Death to End Horror After Blow from Torpedo

An Atlantic Port, Nov. 26.—Eight survivors of the crew of the American steamer Rochester, torpedoed off the Irish coast early this month, arrived here today. They confirmed reports that the vessel was sunk without warning.

Several of the crew were five days in open boats before being rescued. David Caldwell, one of the arrivals, said they suffered so severely that four attempted to commit suicide and a fifth begged the captain to shoot him.

Caldwell's companions who reached here are William F. Eisenhardt of New Orleans; W. B. Thompson, Imlaystown, N. J.; Oscar Gayles, Edward McCausland, Charles Beig, Thaddeus Fellow, and William Foulis.

BRITISH GAIN MORE TRENCHES NEAR CAMBRAI

London Says Troops Hold Bourlon; Foe Denies the Claim.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 26.—The British today were in possession of more enemy trench defenses in the region of Bullecourt, the Germans having been forced to withdraw at several points. A considerable number of German communication trenches had become untenable as a result of the British drive into the enemy front lines last week, and the Germans abandoned these for more favorable ground.

Elsewhere along the new battle front no change in the situation has been reported. Hard fighting still continues for the possession of Bourlon village, with the British holding the upper hand.

Berlin Claims Repulse.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—According to today's official announcement, the town of Bourlon in the Cambrai area is still in German hands. The repulse of minor infantry forces which advanced against the village is reported, and nests of British behind the German lines near Bourlon are said to have been cleared.

On the southwestern end of Bourlon wood and west of Fontaine the Germans gained ground, the statement says, as a result of hand grenade encounters in the night.

CAVALRY SABER ENEMY.

CANADIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 26.—Canada was splendidly represented in the great British advance of Nov. 20. The Canadian cavalry went into action with their horses.

After waiting a long time opposite the village of Masnieres, the "hell-for-leather" Fort Garrys galloped to the attack. They succeeded in crossing the Lescaut canal and penetrated the enemy's country.

What followed equals anything in cavalry exploits in the history of the empire. A single squadron found itself all alone. Racing forward, with the enemy to the right and left of them, the Fort Garrys galloped in section over the crest of a hill concealing the enemy's guns. Advancing down the slope, they found themselves facing a battery of four light German field guns. Charging straight for the battery, sabering everything as they came, the officers and men raced to the guns.

Saber Gun Crews.

In line of troop columns they advanced, coming on so quickly that the enemy had no time to man two of his guns. One other was cut off and put out of action. The gunners attempted to blow up the fourth. The cavalry wiped out that battery with the sword. On swept the little squadron. The retreating enemy's infantry were engaged.

Dusk found the cavalry two miles inside the enemy's territory, commanded by a lieutenant. A defensive position was essential. With sword the horsemen fought their way through to a sunken road. There they dismounted. Two messengers sent back to report their position had their horses shot under them, but struggled back to the lines.

Stampede Own Horses.

Stampeding their horses to divert the enemy's machine gun fire, what was left of the squadron prepared to return. They fought their way back on foot with the bayonet. The retirement was a succession of hand to hand struggles. Four times the little party met enemy working parties with the bayonet and dispersed them. Midnight had passed when they reached Masnieres again, and fought their way through the enemy infantry in the town to a wrecked bridge, where they crossed to safety.

Forty-three of the men came through unwounded, and they brought back their wounded and over a dozen prisoners.

Americans at Cambrai See British Build Roads

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 26.—An American officer in charge of highway construction and maintenance with Gen. Pershing's force has taken advantage of the offensive in the Cambrai sector to study the British method of pushing roads up back of the advancing troops.

The officer was formerly a public service commissioner of New York and was identified with the subway work in New York City. He was accompanied by a member of his staff. Both were deeply impressed by the perfection attained by the British in their road work.

He Got a Raise; Offers to Boost Her Alimony

Mr. Forest Clark was in the Court of Domestic Relations yesterday when Mrs. Clark told how her alimony was no longer sufficient to support her. The Clarks have been separated fourteen years, and Mrs. Clark lives at 5802 Dorchester avenue.

"There aren't any boarders. All the university boys have gone to war, and I haven't a single room rented. Mr. Clark was to pay me alimony of $40 a month, but when I rented this house he paid the rent instead. If it wasn't for the neighbors, I would starve."

Mr. Clark interrupted here with the information that he had just received a raise in pay and that he would give Mrs. Clark $10 more alimony a month if it was all right with the court. It was.

RUSSIAN ARMY BACKS LENINE

Petrograd of an armistice, the text of which has been received by the state department from Ambassador Francis by way of Stockholm.

Allied diplomats declared today that with the United States more than with any other power at war with the central empires rests the opportunity of winning Russia back to the alliance.

It was held that flatly to ignore the Bolsheviki communication might so offend the Bolsheviki as to drive them to further extremes, giving at the same time occasion to Germany to allege through her agents in Russia that America is acting in behalf of the reactionary elements. However, it was contended that to recognize the Bolsheviki would so strengthen their influence as to further their efforts toward the negotiation of a separate peace with Germany.

TO FIX POLICY IN RUSSIA.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Nov. 26.—There will emerge from the interallied conference, unless present plans go awry, a definite understanding as to the policy to be pursued by allied diplomacy at Petrograd. While the officials of the allied powers do not seek to disguise the absence of anything resembling a properly constituted government in Russia, there is no tendency to regard the Russians as a nation unworthy of further consideration.

On the other hand, I have the best of reasons for believing the allied conferees will refuse to treat with the Leninelsts, for to do so would seem to recognize their right to speak for the Russian people—an impossible hypothesis.

For the present the first thing to attain is uniformity of action among the ambassadors of the United States, Great Britain, France, and Italy at Petrograd. It is noted that Trotzky is seeking to use the fact that the American ambassador refrained from taking part in certain conferences of the entente diplomats during the Kerensky régime. Hereafter it doubtless will be agreed that ambassadors to Russia must act together on all occasions. The formation of the constituent assembly will be closely watched, as there is already evidence of attempts to "pack" this body with Maximalists.

Paris Press Irritated.

Considerable irritation is shown by the newspapers over the publication of Russian state secret documents by the Maximalists, who are accused of collecting those which they think most likely to embarrass the allies and supply Germany with arguments. The note of Oct. 9, written by M. Terestchenko, the Russian foreign minister, to Secretary of State Lansing, thanking the secretary for not having had David B. Francis, the American ambassador to Russia, associate itself on behalf of his government with the step taken by the Italian, French, and British ambassadors in demanding the constitution of a firm power to reorganize the Russian army, is considered amusing by the Journal Des Debats.

"If Mr. Francis did not visit Premier Kerensky with his three colleagues," the newspaper says, "it was only because he received his government's authorization to do so, too late."

The Temps refers to the same incident as "seeming, but falsely, however, to put the United States in contradiction with the other allies."

Trotzky Revelations Uncensored.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Trotzky's revelations of the "secret treaties" of Russia have caused such acute disappointment to enemies of the entente that insinuations have been made that the censor had eliminated much of the expected sensational disclosures. This is absolutely untrue, officials here state.

Russian dispatches have not been interfered with in any way and as far as Great Britain is concerned, Trotzky's further revelations are awaited without any anxiety.

Whether the disclosure of German intrigues with Petrograd will be found equally innocuous is doubted here, but Trotzky is unlikely to produce anything reflecting on Germany.

Official news from Russia indicates no arrest as yet of the disintegrating forces, which are paralyzing the energies of the Russian people. Famine seems inevitable unless the country succeeds in creating a real government.

Fears Bloody Civil War.

A Reuter's Limited dispatch says:

"The commanders at the front continue to send in most ominous dispatches concerning the exhaustion of supplies and reports of forthcoming hungry hordes of soldiers invading the centers of population."

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen says advices received from Russia describe the situation as more desperate than ever and assert that the country is on the verge of a bloody civil war.

The Russian newspaper Volka Narodna asserts that the Russian armies on the northern front have for several days been without food and that soldiers daily are leaving the front in hundreds or are dying in the trenches from cold and hunger. The newspaper adds that mutinies, due to hunger, have broken out on several parts of the line.

U. S. GENERALS, CONGRESSMEN, BACK FROM WAR

An American Port, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Two trans-Atlantic liners which arrived today brought back many high army and navy officers. Among the arrivals were Admiral Fletcher and eight major generals, including Gen. John F. O'Ryan, head of the division that was formerly the New York national guard, together with seven members of congress who went to the battle front to see actual war conditions.

As the officers came down the gangplank of a French liner rank was forgotten in their sympathy with an American nurse on crutches, and for whom all stood aside. She is Miss M. F. Jaffrey of Philadelphia, who had spent two years in French hospitals and was wounded in the foot in a German airplane raid near Ypres six weeks ago. Miss Jaffrey determined to come to this country for treatment, as she said she was no longer a help in France.

Maj. Gen. Charles Treat was the only communicative officer. "I've been over getting an idea of just what my troops will need when they get to France," he said. "Mud, cold, and rain are the worst enemies I have seen. During the month I spent at the front, fifteen days with the British and fifteen with the French, there were only two days of sunshine."

The other major generals in the party were James Parker, W. J. Behan, William H. Sage, E. S. Greble, Charles Clement, and Frederick Strong.

Winston Churchill, the novelist, was a passenger. There were also on board forty-five members of the crew of the torpedoed American transport Antilles.

FRENCH HONOR 15 AMERICANS WITH WAR CROSS

Cited for Bravery in Raid; Up to Congress if Men Can Wear Medals.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 26.—The French war cross has been conferred on the fifteen American officers and men who were cited with their company by the French general commanding the sector in which the Americans were stationed at the time of the first German raid on the night of Nov. 2-3.

The men were decorated today and were informed that they must keep the medals in their possession, but must not wear them until congress gives its authorization. The ceremony was an impressive one.

General Tells of Action.

The French general in referring to the action of this American company said:

"On the night of Nov. 2-3 this company, which was in the line for the first time, met an extremely violent bombardment, despite which it seized arms and offered such stubborn resistance that the enemy, though numerically superior, was obliged to retire."

The general specially cited in the order of the day Corporal James D. Gresham and Privates Merle D. Hay and Thomas F. Enright, "who died bravely in hand to hand fighting with the enemy, who had penetrated the first line."

Others Given Honors.

The others cited were Lieut. William H. McLaughlin, Lieut. R. O. Patterson, Lieut. E. F. Erickson, Sergt. John Arhowhead, Corporals David M. Knowles and Homer Givens, and Privates Charles Massa, William D. Thomas, George Hurd, Boyce Wade, Robert Winkler, and John J. Jarvis.

A recent offer by the British admiralty to decorate certain officers and men of two American destroyers for their services in combatting German submarines was declined, according to the announcement of Secretary Daniels, because the laws of this country prevent soldiers and sailors from receiving decorations from foreign governments.

Three Deaths Reported.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Gen. Pershing today reported the following casualties:

Private Joseph L. Boyce, infantry, died on Nov. 11 of pneumonia, with acute dilation of the heart. Emergency address, Lawrence Boyce, 60 Plank street, Pittston, Pa.

Bugler Marion F. Stoddard, infantry, died on Nov. 15, accidental bullet wound. Mother, Mrs. Georgia M. Stoddard, Silver Springs, N. Y.

Corporal Horace Foulds, headquarters company, infantry, died on Nov. 25 of nephritis. Emergency address, Harry Foulds, 348 Clinton place, Newark, N. J.

NONPOLITICAL CABINET, PLEA OF M'CORMICK

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—Speaking before a patriotic meeting here tonight, celebrating the success of the Liberty loan and Red Cross campaigns, Medill McCormick, congressman at large from Illinois, declared that the United States must create a war cabinet based on nonpartisan lines if this country is to do its share in the war.

"Cannon and coalition will win this struggle," he emphasized. "A war council which will call into conference the ablest men of the country, without respect to party lines, is necessary to an efficient direction of our conduct of the war. The industrial talent and the political genius of America will not prove unequal to the task. But we should seek efficiency as we seek victory."

BRITISH HORSE TROOPS CLOSE ON JERUSALEM

Dash by Cavalry Puts Them 3 Miles from the Holy City.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The British forces under Gen. Allenby have advanced to within three and one-half miles of Jerusalem. They have captured Bittir Station, which is about six miles southwest of the Holy City, and Ain Karim, two and a half miles nearer to the west of Jerusalem.

The advance was effected in a strong cavalry dash, the official report given out tonight indicated.

The Turks have chosen the high ground to the west of the city for their final stand, also covering the Jerusalem-Shechem road to the north with strong bodies of troops. An attack by the British forces on these defenses and the actual siege of the city are imminent.

Make Rapid Advance.

Following the fall of Jaffa, the port of Jerusalem, the advance of the British has been rapid. The Turks retreated, hardly contesting the way, evidently planning to reach the advantageous positions on the hills for their last effort to save the city.

The British are in control of the fifty-four mile railroad connecting Jerusalem with Jaffa, including the junction with the north and south line connecting Damascus and Beersheba. Their positions about the city lie from the northwest to the southwest. Practically all of the fighting in the drive of Gen. Allenby's forces has been done by cavalry who have galloped over the Turkish positions, capturing prisoners and large military stores.

History of Campaign.

The modern crusade for possession of the Holy City has been under way for more than a year, but it was not until early autumn that Gen. Allenby, one of the ablest of British commanders on the western front, was transferred to Palestine and launched his great offensive from the line south of Gaza and Beersheba, where the British forces had stood idle through the summer. Since the day the drive was begun there has been no pause in the advance, which has been swiftest along the Mediterranean coast and which consequently has outflanked Jerusalem from the west.

The British move has a twofold purpose—to liberate Jerusalem from Mohammedan rule and to force the weakening of the Turkish and German forces in Mesopotamia so as to prevent a counter thrust against Bagdad.

Military opinion here is that the British will take Jerusalem without much trouble.

PART OF HANOVER PATRIOTIC, ONE VILLAGE INSISTS

There's one end of Hanover township that is right, dead right, and protests solemnly against the calumnies that have been laid to the township's door. That part is the village of Bartlett, which boasts 500 souls.

"With the exception of a few 'copperheads' we are not afflicted with kaiserism, Prussianism, cannibalism, or any more dreadful ism," says a petition of Bartlettonians. "We raised $5,000 in Liberty bond sales and $900 for the Y. M. C. A. fund."

The statement is signed by the Rev. K. Kielhorn, pastor of the Bartlett Evangelical church; H. H. Schultz, deputy food administrator; G. W. Mayer, chairman Red Cross chapter; Ben Schultz, town clerk; and others. It adds:

"We solemnly protest against the insinuation that the whole township is a hotbed of traitors."

The protest comes as the result of the visit to federal officials of the Rev. Adolph Voight, pastor of the German Evangelical church in Hanover. Federal officials said that his church flock and the immediate vicinity had given no money to Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., or had bought Liberty bonds.

WAR MOVE UPON AUSTRIA GAINS CAPITAL FAVOR

Wilson Regime and Congress Hold Declaration Is Imperative.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The movement favoring a declaration of war on Austria is gaining headway both in the administration and in congress.

The administration virtually has given up hope of detaching Austria from Germany, the motive actuating the government in refraining from initiating hostilities against the dual monarchy up to date. That Turkey and Bulgaria might be detached from the Teutonic alliance is suggested by some administration officials who advocate a declaration of war be confined to Austria.

President Wilson's decision may be determined by the results of the investigation of the sinking of the Schuylkill by a submarine so far unidentified. If it should prove to have been an Austrian submarine, a specific cause for war would be furnished the American government.

Stone Favors Move.

Senator William J. Stone, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, said today, on his return to Washington, that it seems "exceedingly advisable to simplify the war problem" by declaring war against the allies of Germany. Mr. Stone opposed the declaration of war against Germany, but thinks now that we should include Austria-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria.

Senator Lewis of Illinois said the paramount issue before congress will be the attitude of the government toward the allies of Germany.

Lewis' Attitude Similar.

"The United States must deal with Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria," said Mr. Lewis. "They are making common cause against our allies. At the same time, in declaring war upon Austria I have no doubt a distinction will be made between the Austrians, and the Hungarians and Bohemians. The Hungarians and the Bohemians are anxious to establish democratic forms of government.

"Any persons who destroy food intended for the army, place bombs, commit sabotage, or destroy bridges, should be handed over to courts martial. After a few of them had been hanged or shot we would cease to have so many outrages."

Socialists of Argentina Vote for Berlin Break

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 26.—The Socialist party in a plebiscite has refused by a large majority to accept the resignation of the Socialist members of the legislature who voted in parliament in favor of a rupture of relations with Germany. The resignation of these men was presented because of certain criticisms on the part of Socialists and advocates of neutrality. The former German minister, Count Von Luxburg, has arrived here from the island of Martin Garcia and the newspapers are criticising the authorities for permitting these comings and goings on the part of the ex-minister.

"Ever since Henry Ford standardized the automobile, every trade and profession seems to be aiming at standardization. The Schoolmaster ran across the advertisement of a printer* in a western newspaper the other day who was featuring "Standardized Catalogues." The advertisement explained that part of the plant and facilities of this printer was concentrated on the production of catalogues in two standard sizes—4x9 and 3½x6. . . . It remains to be seen what a lower price, resulting from specialization in the production of standardized catalogues, will do to speed the cause of standardized sizes for catalogues."

2,500,000 MEN NEEDED TO PUT OUT KAISER'S EYE

Vast Army of Builders Must Back 20,000 U. S. Airmen.

(This is the thirteenth of a series of articles by Mr. Hyde on war activities in Washington.)

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—"Made in America" airplanes will be in France on Jan. 1, 1918. The program is well in hand. Nothing but unexpected and serious events will prevent its being carried out.

The announcement is more important than appears on the surface. The United States is making planes on a big production, standardized basis. That means considerable delay in getting started. It also means that once under way the supply of aircraft should go forward steadily and in constantly increasing numbers.

Too much should not be expected. The actual life of an airplane is only about one hundred hours of actual flying. Not that airplanes are destroyed so quickly by the enemy. But they are delicate mechanisms, at best. They are subject to all kinds of accidents. The engines deteriorate quickly. For each birdman in active service it is necessary to keep five airplanes constantly on hand.

Work for 2,500,000 Men.

To keep one airplane constantly on the battle front requires the constant labor of no less than 125 men at home, in the production of raw material and the actual construction of the planes.

We talk easily about putting 20,000 airplanes into the field—and keeping them there. To do that stupendous thing successfully will keep no less than 2,500,000 men constantly busy in mines and factories and in transportation.

These are the facts, as experts state them. My authority is the best. We can do the job. We may as well understand how big it is.

Germans Have 2,500 Planes.

As to numbers, it is the opinion of men who should be as well informed as anybody, outside the German general staff, that the Germans have on the western front not more than 2,500 airplanes. It is thought that 2,000 machines is near the actual figure and even that may be too large.

It is also known that the Germans are now straining every energy to greatly increase the number of their planes, having recently turned over several great factories to their manufacture. One thing inherent in the air service does not seem to be understood by people generally. Actual experience on the fighting front may and likely to demonstrate, at any time and almost in a day, that a certain make or design of engineer plane is no longer effective as against the improved machines of the enemy and should be quickly changed.

Forced to Change Plans.

That fact sometimes necessitates instant alterations in airplane plans. It has happened already that preparatory work has been well advanced in the manufacture of 'planes of a certain type when cablegrams received from France rendered it wise to stop work on them.

Manufacturers and the public should realize that there are always what at least apppear to be good reasons for sudden shutdowns or shifts in plants busy with airplane work.

In one case that I know of a large factory was badly upset and considerable really unnecessary excitement was caused by such an unexpected and apparently unexplained order to stop work.

Liberty Motor Dependable.

It is revealing no military secret to state that a good many thousands of engines of foreign design have been under construction in the United States for several months. They are to be mounted, of course, in airplanes for service in France. It also is well known that foreign factories are making a large number of complete planes—engines and all—for use by our armies abroad.

How many of these airplanes have been completed and delivered—if any—is not a matter to be discussed publicly.

So far as the Liberty motor—now called, by preference, the American motor—is concerned, the best experts do not claim that it is the best motor in the world. They are certain, and have demonstrated by actual tests, that it is a highly satisfactory and dependable piece of mechanism. It is capable of great development, and that development is constantly going on. It can also be manufactured in great quantities by American methods of standardising production. That production, one may safely say, is well under way.

May Ask $1,000,000,000.

People here in Washington who are at the center of information feel certain that one chief recommendation of the war conference of the allies now sitting in Paris will be that the United States concentrate very largely on the production of enormous quantities of airplanes and the training of men to fly them. It need not surprise the public, therefore, if the congress which meets next week is asked to appropriate $1,000,000,000 or even twice that amount for the air service.

As the construction of airplanes increases and multiplies it will require more and more material and workmen to fill the demands. Inevitably, therefore, the air service will come into competition with the shipping board, with the navy, with many of the other war activities of the government, to say nothing of all the manufacturers of peace time products.

They will all want men, and steel, and wire, and space in railroad cars and on ships.

Who Shall Decide?

At present there is no one with authority to decide among them, to distribute with an eye single to the winning of the war all the available resources of the country.

No doubt the air service is one of the most vitally important of the branches of war preparations. Yet, shall the men who are running the aircraft board, with Howard Coffin as chairman, under the joint control of the army and navy—shall they be permitted to go ahead and tie up all the factories and workmen they can get hold of, while the shipping board does the same and all the rest of the government departments and boards fight among themselves for what is left?

I get the distinct impression that the building of airplanes and all that goes with the air service is going ahead more swiftly than most of the other military preparations. But an airplane, even knocked down, is an immensely bulky thing. The box in which the wings of an airplane are packed measures about 35 feet by 5 feet by 35 inches.

Superior Council Must Come.

I have heard that if the program of the air service is successfully carried out the amount of tonnage it will require to carry its completed product overseas is quite fabulous.

Who is studying the whole situation, with the requirements of all branches of the government clearly in mind? Who has the power to decide among them, and to enforce his decision?

The creation of a superior war council is so clearly necessary that nothing can finally prevent it.

500 Lake Forest School Children Labor for Their Country's Cause.

More industrious than many of their elders are some 500 pupils of the public and parochial schools of Lake Forest, where war service has become, in the minds of the children (i. e.: little tots) more important than school work.

Under the guidance of Supt. John E. Baggott the children of the Halsey and Gorton schools devote time each evening after lessons to knitting, the manufacture of bonnets for the Belgian babies, comforts and pajamas. It also is permitted to knit during hours if lessons have been learned. In each school there is an auxiliary of the Red Cross.

Each day the children hurry to the headquarters of the Navy league and help in winding thread and in packing comfort kits. It is not unusual for fifty children to remain in school after hours to perform war service work.

BILLIONS MORE

Chiefs of Various Departments Tell the Amounts Needed for Fiscal Year.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—It was learned at the treasury department today that the latest estimates from the heads of the various executive departments of the government made to Secretary McAdoo show that $10,000,000,000 will be needed to defray the expenditures of the nation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918. This money will be raised by additional bond issues and short term certificates, and includes loans to the allies which have been authorized up to the end of the present fiscal year.

According to the latest estimates furnished the secretary of the treasury from the cabinet officers, their several departments will require an expenditure of $12,701,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919. This sum includes all ordinary disbursements and war expenditures, but does not take into account any loans that may be made to the allies for the next fiscal year. The estimates do not include any expenditures on account of the postoffice department, as that branch of the government is regarded as self-sustaining, but they do include interest on bonds already authorized.

These estimates of expenditures are made under existing conditions and with the information now at hand. Whether they will be increased as the preparations for the war and navy departments continue cannot be stated at this time.

Two American Soldiers Are Arrested in Mexico

Juarez, Mex., Nov. 26.—Two American soldiers, in full field service uniform, were arrested here today and were placed in the military detention prison, pending an investigation of their presence here. The men admitted having come from Camp Fort Bliss, where they said they had been members of an infantry regiment.

An effort was begun to have them surrendered to the United States army at the international bridge, where they will be arrested on charges of desertion during time of war, a most serious offense.

DELAY OF CALL TO CAMP LEADS TO SUFFERING

Frank Zylstra, 2654 Montclare avenue, has a grievance against the administration of the draft law and not because he wants to avoid service. Rather he desires an immediate call, for only through it, he figures, can he and his wife escape starvation.

According to the story told yesterday by Zylstra to officials of the State Council of Defense he was drawn and called for service two weeks ago. He has, however, not yet been notified to which cantonment he is to be assigned.

Prior to his being called he was employed as an enameler, but upon his being called, he says, he lost his position and has been unable to obtain another, as whenever he applies for work he is asked at once if he has been drafted, and when he says he has been is told that he is not wanted.

Zylstra says he now has only 20 cents in the world to stand between himself and wife and starvation.

"I wish to get into a cantonment at once," he said, "so my pay can begin and I can take care of my wife. I am willing to work at anything until I am sent to camp, but can't get anything to do."

Officials of the state council say that there have been several other cases similar to that of Zylstra, and that in some instances temporary jobs have been found for several of the victims, but that, as in Zylstra's case, there remain others for whom no employment has been found.

MARSHAL WILL INVESTIGATE KANKAKEE FIRE

State Fire Marshal John G. Gamber announced yesterday that a sweeping investigation would be made as a result of the fire in the Babst building at Kankakee, for which two men have already been arrested on charges of arson and held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each. He hopes to obtain evidence that will lead to the arrest of others, he said.

Joseph Clarke, a Chicagoan who was involved in the aron trials, should not be allowed to act as fire adjuster, Mr. Gamber declared.

"I have been informed," he said, "that Joseph Clarke went to Kankakee to adjust the loss on the Babst building. Clarke is a private adjuster, operating in Chicago. I do not know how he learned of the Kankakee fire."

Mr. Gamber was asked about the Kankakee fire investigation, following receipt of a letter by THE TRIBUNE from C. R. Gadsden of the firm of C. R. Gadsden & Co., adjusters, 322 South La Salle street. The letter referred to a story in THE TRIBUNE, in which the statement was made that "Clarke, it is said, arrived on the scene before the fire was extinguished to adjust the loss."

The letter then went on to say that the statement was "incorrect and exceedingly unfair to Mr. Joseph Clarke."

U. S. AGENT OPENS BOMB FOUND IN FAUST'S HOME

H. P. Conreye, special agent bureau of explosives, department of justice, yesterday opened a bomb found in the home of Reinhold A. Faust, 2517 North Richmond street, after Faust had planted another in the Auditorium theater. The one found in the theater contained buckshot, but there was no shot in the one opened yesterday, Mr. Conreye said. He said it contained a quantity of smokeless powder tightly packed and held in place by sawdust and paper wads.

Other explosives found in Faust's home are still being kept in the office of Chief of Police Schuettler. They have not been examined.

It was announced yesterday that Faust will probably be prosecuted by the state authorities, inasmuch as more severe punishment can be administered than under a federal charge. Assistant State's Attorney Edward A. Prindiville is handling the case. Policeman Eisenberg identified Faust as a man he had seen in the lobby of the theater the night a bomb was found there.

Big U. S. Army After War Necessary, Eliot Says

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26.—The United States will have to make the maintenance of a large army after the war a national problem, as Switzerland has, so long as the nation is to be a member of a league to enforce peace, President (Emeritus) Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university, declared at the meeting of the National Federation of Religious Liberals here today.

NO PARTY LINES WHEN PATRIOTS MEET TOMORROW

Both Illinois Senators to Speak at Medinah Temple.

No party lines are to be drawn at the great patriotic meeting to be held tomorrow night at Medinah temple, Cass and Ohio streets. Almost the entire Illinois congressional delegation will be in attendance and the principal speakers will be Senators Lewis and Sherman.

All city and county officials, including Mayor Thompson and the council, and all federal and state judges have also been invited.

State Officials Coming.

It is expected that a large number of state officials will be present. State Auditor Andrew Russel visited the offices of the State Council of Defense yesterday and said that, although his business in Chicago was finished, he would remain over to attend the meeting.

"Every state and county official should be present," said Mr. Russel. "This is a time when cooperative effort—team work—is required in behalf of all war undertakings and we should talk over what is to be done."

Navy Band to Play.

Music at the meeting will be furnished by Lieut. Sousa's band of the United States navy. The hall will seat comfortably almost 5,000 people and it is the expectation of officials of the state council that it will be filled. Doors will be opened at 7:30 and the program will begin at 8 o'clock sharp. Admission will be free.

The neighborhood committee of the state council has arranged for Judge Landis to do more speaking. His next engagement will be on Thanksgiving evening at 8 o'clock at Synagogue Anshe Sholem, Polk street and Ashland avenue, where Rabbi Silber and Max Shulman will also speak.

May Take the Gary System from N. Y. School Program

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The elimination of the Gary system from the schools on Jan. 1 was discussed today by Mayor Elect John F. Hylan and the new board of estimate. It was finally decided to adjourn until Saturday, when the superintendents of public schools would be called in to assist in choosing a substitute system of education.

Certificate of Service for Civilian War Aids

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—President Wilson has approved the form of a certificate of service which will be given to men who have served without pay on local, district, and other civilian boards which are part of the army selective service machinery. Governors of the various states will be asked to designated the men who have thus given their service.

BOMB SUSPECT GIVES CLEW TO POLICE SLAYERS

Milwaukee Pastor Says Blast Was Caused by Anti-U. S. Plot.

BULLETIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—Nearly fifty Italians were arrested in a dragnet thrown out in the Third ward shortly after midnight tonight. They were held for investigation in connection with the bomb outrage here on Sunday. It is understood the action followed a partial confession of one of the men arrested earlier.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—Six suspects are still being held tonight in connection with the explosion of the bomb which dealt death to nine members of Milwaukee's police force and a woman Saturday night in the assembly room at police headquarters.

The Rev. August Giuliana, pastor of the Italian Evangelical church, where the bomb was found, and against whom it is believed the instrument was aimed, arrived this afternoon from Markesan, where he held services Sunday, and went immediately to police headquarters, where he had a conference with Chief Janssen. Later he conferred with the federal authorities. He declared the bomb was the result of an anti-American plot.

Victims Were Aiding U. S.

Police officials said at least three of the slain detectives had recently been assigned to special duty with the federal department. These men, it was said, had worked under direction of Hinton G. Clabaugh in Chicago. The deaths of these men is considered a powerful blow to the government campaign against anti-American activities here.

The pieces of the bomb recovered are of a peculiar white steel of high strength. This great tensile strength was a factor in adding to the terrific blast, the experts agree. Also, the infernal machine was a piece of expert workmanship.

The police say a number of the Milwaukee Italian colony work in machine shops and are recognized as fine workmen. Some of these have been under suspicion as members of the mysterious Milwaukee "Anarchists' club."

More Chicago Police Arrive.

It is believed if the police can locate a factory in which this peculiar white steel is used they will find among the employés the man who made the bomb.

Two more Italian detectives from Chicago arrived this afternoon to assist the local force in rounding up the culprits.

HOUSE CONFERS WITH FRENCHMEN ON WAR AFFAIRS

PARIS, Nov. 26.—The Marquise de Chambrun, who was a member of the French mission to the United States, today visited Col. Edward M. House, head of the American mission. Later Col. House, William Graves Sharp, the American ambassador, and Henri Bergson, member of the French academy, were guests at lunch of Gabriel Hanotaux, president of the Franco-American commission for the development of political, economic, literary, and art relations.

This afternoon Col. House saw M. Klotz, the French minister of finance, with whom he discussed financial affairs. This conference, in effect, was a continuation of that held with M. Klotz during his recent visit to London.

Admiral Benson conferred with Vice Admiral De Bon, chief of the French naval general staff, in reference to the general naval situation, but particularly concerning the disembarkation of troops and supplies at French ports. Admiral Benson and Commander Carter later visited the aviation camp and witnessed tests and flights of various types of naval aircraft.

CHINESE ENVOYS FIND JACKIE SENTRY ALERT

Two weeks ago Capt. Moffett, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, issued an order prohibiting the entrance of any one without the proper credentials. The sentries have followed this order so strictly that President Wilson himself would be refused admittance unless he had a pass.

Two well dressed Chinese accompanied by an American walked up to the main gate yesterday. The sentry curtly told them to get a pass, and they joined the line in front of the information bureau. They were noticed by the chief petty officer, who asked them their occupation. He was presented with two cards and after reading the inscription thereon took them at once to Capt. Moffett. The cards read: "Commander T. H. Lee, royal Chinese navy, and Gen. Chiang, Chinese army."

Gen. Chiang and Commander Lee were shown through the training station, which they pronounced the "most wonderful in the world."

WAR FORTUNES' RISE AND FALL OFFICIALLY TOLD

Reports from the Capitals Give Versions of All Great Battles.

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN.

ROME, Nov. 26.—Yesterday enemy masses, supported by heavy artillery, again attempted to attack our positions between the Brenta and Piave rivers. On our left wing the enemy's efforts were directed against the Monte Pertica area. They were crushed promptly, and a deadly and well executed counter attack on our part was made in answer to every fresh attempt by the enemy. At Tasson, the Monte Rosa battalion of Alpini annihilated its assailants.

At our center, where the enemy's pressure was strongest, the Fifty-sixth division lived up to its enviable reputation. Enemy columns which with stubborn fury attacked from the northwest and north in the direction of Monte Casonet Col del L'Orso, Monte San Lo-rolo and Monte Spinoncia were mowed down by our fire, repeatedly met by furious counter attacks and definitely repulsed, leaving more than 200 prisoners in our hands.

On our right the enemy attack started from the eastern slopes of Monte Monfenera. The assaulting waves were first checked by our artillery and afterward by counter attacks and were finally repulsed by our gallant Alpini. A few score of prisoners were taken.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—In local mountain fighting we achieved successes and maintained them against Italian counter attacks.

FRENCH FRONT

BRITISH.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—On the Cambrai battle front the enemy has not repeated his attacks on the Bourlon position since the failure of his attempt at midday yesterday, and the situation is unchanged.

Northeast of Ypres there was considerable artillery activity on both sides early last night in the Passchendaele sector, but no infantry action developed.

NIGHT STATEMENT.

On the southern battle front there has been no further infantry action.

On the Ypres front we have captured a few prisoners in patrol encounters. The hostile artillery again has shown considerable activity during the day east and northeast of Ypres, particularly in the neighborhood of Passchendaele, where certain of our positions at times were heavily bombarded.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Army of the German crown prince: After a very strong increase in the artillery firing the French attacked on a width of four kilometers between Samogieux and Beaumont. The first waves of the attack were dispersed by our infantry and artillery fire, and the enemy retreated to their point of departure. Many assaults by newly brought up forces collapsed in our defense zone.

Numerous Turcos, Zouaves, and other French troops were made prisoner. Strong firing extended from the battlefield to the neighboring sectors and continued throughout the day with great intensity, especially on both sides of Ornes.

Our infantry and pursuing aviators, in spite of a violent rain storm, successfully intervened in the fighting on the battlefield near Cambrai and on the Meuse supported our indefatigable leadership and troops.

Army of Crown Prince Rupprecht: In Flanders there has been only an increase in the artillery activity at times between Poelcapelle and Gheluvelt. There have been forefield engagements with the results favorable to us. Prisoners were brought in. Northeast of Passchendaele an attack by an English battalion failed.

On the battlefield southwest of Cambrai the enemy obstinately repeated his attacks on Inchy. Our troops, who had been tested there in defense and attack during previous days, completely repulsed the enemy again yesterday. Our destructive fire beat upon assemblies of enemy troops and also on the positions where numerous tanks were being prepared for action south of Graincourt.

Minor infantry forces advanced against Bourlon, but were repulsed. English nests which remained after the recent fighting behind our lines near Bourlon were cleared in sanguinary hand to hand fighting. Eight officers and more than 300 men and twenty machine guns were captured.

On the southwest edge of the Bourlon wood and west of Fontaine very violent hand grenade encounters at night brought us a desired gain of ground. North of Banteux the enemy attacked after violent drumfire, but was repulsed. An English attack east of Graincourt collapsed before our entanglements.

FRENCH.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—On the right bank of the Meuse there was lively activity by the artillery in the region north of Hill 344, where our troops are organizing the positions which they had captured.

An enemy raid upon our small posts in the region of Bezonvaux was repulsed by our fire.

The night was quiet everywhere else.

NIGHT STATEMENT.

Quite violent artillery actions occurred in Belgium and north of the Chemin des Dames. On the right bank of the Meuse our batteries caught under their fire and dispersed enemy concentrations north of the positions captured yesterday. The artillery fighting continued very spirited in this sector.

RUSSO-ROUMANIAN FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 25.—[Delayed.]—Northern front: The fighting was limited to fusillades and scouting engagements.

Western front: There were fusillades. South of Lake Narocz, near the villages of Skrobova and Obokhvshtchina, fraternizations were observed.

Southwestern and Roumanian fronts: There were fusillades.

AVIATION.

On Nov. 23, south of Volotchisk, a French battleplane brought down a German machine. The pilots were made prisoner; south of Husiatyn our aviator, Ensign Smirnoff, attacked two enemy machines and brought down one of them, thus securing his ninth aerial victory. The enemy machine was destroyed and the aviators killed. South of Czernowitz, in an aerial encounter, an enemy machine was brought down in the enemy's lines.

PALESTINE FRONT.

BRITISH.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Our mounted troops have captured Bittir station and Ain Karim, three and a half miles west of Jerusalem. Strong bodies of Turks are holding the high ground west of Jerusalem and covering the Jerusalem-Shechem road to the north.

Gen. Allenby reports that his advanced patrols, which had crossed to the north bank of the Nahr-El-Aujel, four miles north of Jaffa, have been pressed back by hostile infantry and now are holding the southern bank of the river and covering the crossings.

TURKISH FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 26.—Caucasus front: In the seacoast region, southwest of Gumishkhane, our forces repulsed attacks by strong Turkish parties.

MACEDONIAN FRONT

FRENCH.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—In the region of the Vardar, after having carried out a series of bombardments and barrage fires, the enemy attacked at several points along the front with detachments of variable strength. They were everywhere repulsed. In the region of Monastir and along the Cerna our artillery and air squadrons showed lively activity.

SUPPLEMENTARY

GERMAN.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—There is nothing of special importance to report.

HANGING THREAT FAILS TO QUIET ANTI-AMERICAN

Two more men who forgot President Wilson's injunction to hold their tongues fell into the clutches of the federal law yesterday. The men are:

August Trabold, Socialist, 5430 Haddon avenue.

William Meyers, agitator, 1655 West Adams street.

Trabold was arrested and held under $3,000 bond by United States Commissioner Foote as a violator of the espionage act. It is alleged that he endeavored to induce Frank Martin, also a Socialist, from answering his call to the army, declaring "The kaiser will win the war and in six months will be over here."

Last summer Trabold was making an anti-American speech on a corner when a mob seized him and was hurrying him to a telephone pole with crys of "String him up" when the police rescued him.

Meyers, who is 47 years old, had received repeated warnings to stop making anti-American utterances. Recent reports led John J. Bradley, United States marshal, to report his conduct to Washington. It is expected that he will be interned.

JAMESON, CHIEF OF BOER RAID, DIES A KNIGHT

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Sir Leander Starr Jameson, leader of the Jameson raid on the Transvaal in 1895, shortly before the Boer war, died today in London.

Dr. Jameson, as he was then known, led the famous raid on the Transvaal in 1895, fighting the battle of Krugersdorp. It went against him and he surrendered to the Boers. He and his officers were taken to Pretoria and sentenced to be shot, but subsequently were turned over to the British. He returned to England and was tried for leading the illegal raid, being sentenced to fifteen months in prison.

Sir Leander was 64 years old. He went to South Africa in 1878, and after spending several years in the practice of medicine became engaged with Cecil Rhodes in the exploitation of the country. After his release from prison he returned to South Africa and was premier of Cape Colony from 1904 to 1908. He was made a privy councilor in 1907 and knight in 1911.

Word has just been received in Oak Park of the death at Passchendaele on Nov. 11 of Sergt. Herbert Alfred Brock. Brock, who was 25 years old, was the son of Alfred Brock, formerly of Oak Park, who now lives at Port Sarnia, Ont. He was a member of the Fifth battalion, First Canadian contingent, and had been in service since Jan. 1, 1915. He was brought up in Oak Park, attended the high school there, and was a member of the choir of Grace Episcopal church. The Rev. F. R. Godolphin, rector of the church, will hold a requiem service for Brock at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR OTHERS ON U. S. WARSHIP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Osmond Kelly Ingram of Pratt City, Ala., the gunner's mate lost overboard when a German submarine attacked the American destroyer Cassin in the war zone on Oct. 6, sacrificed his own life to reduce the risk to his messmates.

A detailed report from Admiral Sims shows that Ingram, standing aft on the destroyer, where some high explosive depth charges were stored, saw the torpedo coming. Instead of rushing forward to save his own life by getting away from the explosion, Ingram stuck to the spot, throwing overboard the high explosives which he knew would further endanger the lives of his fellows if they were detonated by the explosion of the torpedo. He was the only man lost, being blown overboard by the explosion.

The Cassin got in under its own steam, and the gallantry of the crew in effecting temporary repairs was commended by Admiral Sims in a special report.

7 MEN TO RULE ALL RAILROADS EAST OF CHICAGO

Pool Plans Place Lines Practically Under U. S. Control.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Pooling of all facilities of railroads east of Chicago, decided upon Saturday by the railroads' war board after a conference with war officers of the government, will be directed from Pittsburgh by a special committee of seven railroad officials.

Operating vice presidents of the thirty-eight major eastern railroad systems met here today in response to the call from the war board and appointed the committee which will have direct charge of the consolidated operation of the big systems with a view to meeting the extraordinary war transportation demands.

A. W. Thompson, vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio, was made chairman of this operating committee. The other members are: C. R. Gray, president of the Western Maryland; A. T. Dice, president of the Philadelphia and Reading; P. E. Crowley, vice president of the New York Central; Elisha Lee, acting vice president of the Pennsylvania lines east; G. L. Peck, vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west, and A. J. Stone, vice president of the Erie.

Placed in Full Charge.

"This committee will be in full charge of the operation of the railway pool," said an official announcement by the railroads' war board issued tonight. "The committee will establish headquarters in Pittsburgh at once, and will sit continuously until the entire traffic problem produced by the abnormal war business in the district east of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers has been solved.

"Today's session of the committee was devoted to the organization and making a preparatory survey of the traffic conditions in the congested district. The next meeting of the committee will be held in Pittsburgh on Wednesday."

Reduce Demurrage Time.

While the railroads' officials directed to perfect the big railroad pool were in session here today Washington was filled with revivals of rumors of forthcoming government operation of transportation lines and reports of probable railroad legislation in the next congress. Another important development came from the interstate commerce commission in decisions reducing demurrage time allowances on loaded cars at the principal Atlantic ports.

At the new lighterage terminals loaded cars will be allowed to remain in the yards only two days, instead of five, as heretofore, and demurrage charges will begin on the third day. In other ports the demurrage time was reduced from fifteen to ten days, and from ten to seven days, according to the terminal conditions and facilities.

Practically U. S. Operation.

Inasmuch as representatives of all the government war boards participated in the pooling conference Saturday, inference is drawn that the president has sanctioned the pooling plan of the eastern railroads and that the government does not propose to take any drastic measures tending toward actual government operation of the lines unless the pooling system breaks down. In fact, it is argued, that the eastern railroads under the proposed pooling system are practically under government operation, inasmuch as everything that will be done by the railroad experts, who would have to be called upon to do the operating work even in the event of the government's taking over the roads, is to be done in coöperation with officials of the government in charge of war departments.

Actual government operation which is being urged in some quarters will require legislation for which there may be agitation when congress meets. Officials closest in touch with the situation, however, are inclined to the view that the government is getting as close to railroad operation as it can conveniently undertake in such a crisis without going further and assuming ownership of the roads as well.

Face Tremendous Task.

The pooling committee, obviously has a tremendous task on its hands and its work undoubtedly will result in a curtailment of comforts and convenience for the traveling public. Among steps to be taken will be curtailment of passenger travel, revision of mail train service, embargoes on transportation of luxuries, and curtailment of the shipment of nonessentials.

Some of the railroad men said today that it may be necessary, in order to operate the pooling system most expeditiously, to appeal to the states for waivers on some of the state regulations which would hamper the operating committee in its work.

I. A. C. ELECTION TODAY PROMISES BITTER BATTLE

A war of "democracy against autocracy" will be fought at the Illinois Athletic club annual election today.

Opposition tickets are in the field. A "members" and a "regular" list of candidates will be passed on by the members of the organization. Following are the tickets:

Regular.—President, Frank W. Blakkley; vice president, George R. Linn; treasurer, Ralph N. Ballou; secretary, John Philip Wahlman; directors, [three years], William Hodson, Edward A. Crosby, William P. Kent, S. C. Iversen, Joseph C. Wilson.

Members—President, George Hull Porter; vice president, David T. Adams; treasurer, Harry N. Grut; secretary, Judson D. McCarthy; directors, Dr. Robert R. Bosworth, Ralph S. Baker, Charles H. Gaunt, J. Albert Roesch, Jr., John A. Corboy.

The backers of the "members" ticket declared last night that the framers of the "regular" slate were using old time political methods to win their point.

"They want to say who shall handle the affairs of the club," said one member. "The 'regular' ticket has the backing of the present officers, who want to dictate who shall succeed them."

The pre-election statement of the "regulars" declared that harmony prevailed at the club until a few weeks ago when one of the directors became dissatisfied and declared he would enter a ticket to oppose the one made up by the "regulars."

ONE ARMED MAN DIES ON CAR.

A one armed, unidentified man fell dead in a Milwaukee avenue street car last night. He carried a small black satchel which contained notions. He was between 45 and 50 years of age, was 5 feet, 5 inches in height and weighed 155. The body is held at the undertaking rooms at 2168 North California avenue.

CONTRACT BRIDE NAMES 'LORETTA;' HUSBAND GONE

F. A. Carpenter Sued by Woman He Wed by Agreement.

Frederick A. Carpenter, until last week president of F. A. Carpenter & Co., a tool manufacturing concern at 6 East Lake street, disappeared last week after his wife, Gertrude, of Maywood, had broached the subject of "Loretta's" kisses through an attorney.

Yesterday Mrs. Carpenter, soloist for the Maywood Methodist Episcopal church, filed her separate maintenance suit, charging infidelity and naming "Mary Doe."

A Contract Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter startled convention and society in 1913 by entering into a contract wedding; he promised to love, honor, protect, etc., and she said she "gave herself." This was forced because Mr. Carpenter had been divorced but four months. In 1915 they slipped away to Crown Point and made it legal.

It was a happy home, Mrs. Carpenter says, until Mr. Carpenter came home frequently on the late theater train. So Mrs. Carpenter sought Attorney Seymour N. Cohen, and Mr. Cohen sought detectives. The private sleuths, it is alleged, turned in reports of finding "subject (F. A. Carpenter) with a certain woman, whose name is unknown, in various cafés, theaters, and cabarets."

Going further, Attorney Cohen discovered a "certain young woman who had been promised a fur coat, but had failed to realize" and the young woman gave up a few letters, the attorney says,

Letter to "Loretta."

"There were three or four women in this broken home," said Mr. Cohen. "But I don't feel that we will have to mention them all. Read this letter Carpenter to 'Loretta.'":

Darling: I received your sweet note—I am so glad you are coming to me—I'll be at the train.

So the sweetest girl in the world loves me. It is almost too good, for I don't know how you can, dearie; you see so many wonderful men, but I know they don't attract you. I have been very lonely and I want to see you so much.

I have been thinking and thinking about the last minutes I saw you before you left on the train. The kisses were so very real—they thrilled and thrilled me and left me almost in a trance walking on air——

But after all I had to return to earth.

To the sweetest girl in the world—I love you. FRED.

In 1913 Mrs. Carpenter was awarded $50,000 for breach of promise of marriage from Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis Speedway association. She accepted $25,000 as a compromise.

MRS. MONTANYE'S NEW SUIT AGAINST MAJOR ALL SET

The second Sherman-Montanye $25,000 breach of promise suit will be called in the Circuit court at Geneva this morning.

Maj. George D. Sherman, veteran of the civil and Spanish wars, and one of Elgin's picturesque men of parts—and means—forecast fireworks at the former trial. But just before they got to the big stuff the case suddenly was dismissed because the aggrieved party, Mrs. Loretta Montanye, admitted that the upstanding major promised to marry her after his sister passed away. It seemed that the sister was yet in the land of the living.

Anyway, the suit was dismissed and subsequently a new one started. Attorney S. B. Krohn, representing Mrs. Montanye, expects nothing will interfere with the orderly processes of the unfolding of the "whole story" this time.

Meantime Maj. Sherman was reported at Elgin last night still holding his head high, scorning any suggestion of settling the thing up and insisting that the fireworks would have to come out first.

Mrs. Montanye is the widow of Ike Montanye, Elgin's famous Everyman. She alleges that the major was a story book kind of a lover, despite his 70 years, that he "smothered her with kisses," and said he had a stock left that was piled so high it was toppling over.

The major hasn't told his story yet, but probably will at this trial. There is a cat—feline—in the case. According to the major's attorneys, Mrs. Montanye whispered a secret to the cat one day as it lay in her lap—something about "Easy street," and soon a nifty home for both herself and puss where dull cares would be banished and the check book would be as long as the world in which they cared to live.

LANGMANS HELD TO GRAND JURY AS POISONERS

John Henry Langman and his stepmother, Mrs. Lihse Langman, were ordered held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of having poisoned John Langman and his first wife. Neither was allowed bail.

Coroner Peter M. Hoffman conducted the double inquest at the Fillmore street station and the coroner's jury returned its verdict after hearing a number of witnesses and a part of the confession of young Langman to Assistant State's Attorney John Lowery.

The woman sat throughout the inquest with her grandchild on her knee. Occasionally she sobbed. Young Langman frequently smiled.

John Smith, 3936 West Monroe street, who lived above the Langmans' flat, testified to hearing frequent quarrels. He said young Langman had once threatened to "blow up" the house if his father married the housekeeper, Lihse.

NORTH SHORE'S CHLOROFORM BURGLAR CAUGHT

Drug and Stolen Gems Found in Suspect's Lodgings.

North shore women who have been victims of a "chloroform burglar" yesterday aided in identifying Clarence Brown, a former convict, who is said by the police to have been operating from Rogers Park to Waukegan, robbing the homes of wealthy persons, since May 1.

Brown was arrested in the saloon of "Butch" Carroll, a west side political character, in Madison street. Detectives Smith and Stark of the Rogers Park police station then searched Brown's lodgings at 731 Reese street and found quantities of chloroform and stolen jewelry.

Police Officer a Victim.

One of the burglar's victims was Capt. Patrick Harding of the detective bureau, whose home, at 7614 Eastlake terrace, was robbed. Capt. Harding's description of the methods used gave a clew to the arrest of Brown.

Brown is said to have committed his housebreakings with the aid of a ladder, and thus became known as "the Evanston ladder burglar." He is said to have followed the technique of Charles Prochowski in chloroforming his victims before making a search of the premises for valuables.

Nine persons identified Brown yesterday as the man seen in their homes. Among these are Mrs. J. T. Hackett of 707 Bittersweet place and Mrs. Clarence Marsh of 6757 Sheridan road, both of whom were chloroformed. Some jewelry taken from their homes has been recovered, it was said by the police.

Hyde Park Burglars.

A "burglar trust" said to have been operating in the Hyde Park district during the last five years is believed to have been broken in the arrest of three held as burglars and two as receivers of stolen property. Those suspected of being burglars are Fred Klein, said to have a record; Paul Winters of 1125 North La Salle street, Hugo Reisinger of St. Louis; and the receivers, Samuel Strovitsa of 2636 West Division street, a jeweler, and Michael Kadin of 1156 East Sixty-third street, also a jeweler.

Klein was captured on Nov. 15 after the robbery of the flat of Roger Mullin of 2017 East Seventy-second street. Two women participated in the chase and $1,000 in jewelry was recovered. When Klein appeared in court he was seen to signal to a spectator. This led to the arrest of Winters and they then gave the names of the others.

DUNNE SUSPECTS UTILITIES PLOT FOR FRANCHISES

Private interests are seeking thirty, forty, or fifty years franchises for Chicago utilities, before a constitutional convention for the state of Illinois can be called, according to the contention of ex-Gov. Edward F. Dunne before the public ownership conference at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

Mr. Dunne laid particular stress on the development of water power in the deep waterway route between Joliet and La Salle. He said in part:

"When the water power along the waterway route is developed and utilized as it should be by the public, the probability is that the municipal traction system could be operated in the people's interest at a tremendous reduction of the present cost.

"It is the fear of this and the fear that the people in the approaching constitutional convention will insist on eliminating from the new constitution limitation on indebtedness incurred by cities for remunerative public utilities, such as gas works, electric light plants, and street car systems, that is making the private traction interests so busy at the present time to get thirty, forty, or fifty years extensions.

ROBBED

Stenographer Held Up by Two Bandits on Way to Bank.

Miss Mary Condon

After trailing her from the door of the office of the Garden City Wrecking company, Forty-seventh and Loomis streets, two youthful bandits yesterday held up Miss Mary Condon of 2521 West Forty-fifth street, a stenographer of the company, and robbed her of one check for $400, belonging to her employers, another check of $14, her week's salary, a small amount in cash, and a gold watch, valued because it was given to her by her parents. The girl was on her way to the Depositors State and Savings bank when the robbery occurred.

Miss Condon said several persons were in the street at the time, but no one seemed to notice the proceeding.

Couple Held on Charge of Trying to Stop Enlisting

Stanley Kempinska and his wife, Emilie, were released yesterday on their own recognizance by United States Commissioner Foote on agreement that they would furnish $1,000 bond each today. They were held on the charge that they had sought to discourage enlisting.

A charge previously made that they had threatened the life of President Wilson was dropped. Assistant District Attorney Neill said: "We have a woman in jail. I don't want to keep her there, but I do know that this business has got to stop."

It was testified the Kempinskas had advised Anton Dilenski against enlisting and he had replied: "I am going to join the army because the Germans killed three of my brothers."

Secret Service to Have Office at Stockyards

Department of justice officials, working in the stock yards district, are to have a branch office in the Administration building at the stock yards soon and complaints can be made there. The cause of the action is due to the large number of men employed by the government for the protection of the various stock yards industries. It is said that a considerable army of government detectives, many disguised as workmen, watch the great plants day and night.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

An unidentified man, 40 years old, was killed, and Jacob Phillips, 43, was seriously injured last night when struck by an Illinois Central train at One Hundred and Eighteenth street.

'MOVE ON' ORDER FOR ALIEN FOES ON WATER FRONT

Hundreds of Chicago Germans Will Be Affected.

Hundreds of alien enemies, now holding permits which give them right to work in offices, buildings, and factories adjacent to the Chicago river, the drainage canal, and in the Calumet district, will have to give up their jobs soon and move back from the water fronts. This was revealed yesterday when John J. Bradley, United States marshal, said he had received instructions to that effect from Washington.

Of the 25,000 men in Chicago classed as alien enemies, 12,000, approximately, have received permits to enter the forbidden zones for employment. Not all these will be hit by the new order, which makes these permits worthless only in cases where the employment is within 100 yards of docks or wharves.

South Water Street Hit.

Mr. Bradley gave South Water street as a sample of a district which will be affected. Many enemy aliens work close to the river in the produce distributing section. In speaking of the situation Mr. Bradley said:

"The president's proclamation on water fronts will be rigidly enforced. No enemy alien will be permitted to come into the restricted zone. The first step will be to make a thorough canvass of the districts, and in a few days the aliens will be given notice to move out."

Hundred Miles to Guard.

The two banks of the Chicago river and its tributaries, the drainage canal and the waters of the great Calumet factory district, give Chicago probably more than 100 miles of frontage to patrol. New York, in a report to Washington, shows that it must stand guard over 750 miles of water front.

The work of guarding Chicago terminals will be left to state and municipal authorities and the American Protective league for the immediate present, as the United State's marshal's office force is taxed to its utmost right now, it is understood. Marshal Bradley has prepared a mass of blueprints of the districts and will supply data upon which to work.

Dickson's Date Awaited.

A little later military police, it is probable, will take over the work, though plans for this are not complete. The war department is waiting to hear from Adjt. Gen. Dickson as to the number of home guards and other forces available for guard duty and the anticipated needs of Chicago before deciding what federal forces are needed here.

It is possible that a military police organization will be raised in Chicago as soon as details are worked out.

Two Men from Chicago on Canada Casualty List

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 26.—The names of W. Creighton and A. Linhart of Chicago appear among the wounded in today's casualty list.

'VOCAL, VICIOUS, VENAL' GERMANS OPPOSED BY KIN

Friends of Teuton Democracy Tell of Efforts to Reform Kaiser.

"The loyal Americans of German birth or ancestry—and the great bulk are loyal—need to be protected from the other kind, the kind who are described by what I call the 'three V's,' the 'vocal, venal, and vicious,' who have been doing practically all of the public talking in the past," said Secretary Karl Mathie of the Friends of German Democracy yesterday.

This new organization is progressing remarkably, according to Mr. Mathie and its president, Otto C. Butz. Only a few days ago its first lot of circulars, about 2,500, were mailed out, all to men of German birth or ancestry, and the replies have been more than gratifying.

"In conjunction with an eastern organization, with headquarters in New York, using the same name and closely affiliated with us," said Mr. Butz yesterday, "we now have about 400 members, all of whom pay dues and all of whom are leaders in thought and in their professions and business. We are now mailing an additional 2,500 circulars, and we expect excellent returns from them."

Cities Offers to Aid.

"See here," continued Mr. Butz, "here are offers from men of German blood to start centers for the society in Detroit, Cleveland, and, best of all, in Merrill, Wis., in the very heart of the most pronouncedly German section of that German state.

"The Americans of German parentage or birth are beginning to realize the value of this organization. They are coming to know that it tends to keep the war upon a strictly political basis—making it, in truth, a war for democracy—rather than a war of peoples or races.

Will Cover Midwest.

"We are working in close conjunction with the New York society, at the head of which is Julius Koettgen, organizing secretary, who is a German by birth and who was formerly correspondent of the Berlin Vorwaerts, the great German Socialist organ. The New York organization covers the eastern seaboard as far west as Pittsburgh and Buffalo, and we shall cover the country west of that, principally the great central west, the stronghold of German sentiment."

That the society is able to get its propaganda into Germany without extraordinary trouble was asserted by Secretary Mathie, who said that a great deal in this direction is being done, the printing and distributing being in Switzerland, where there is a strong democratic and revolutionary German colony.

The Wealth of America

AMERICA has the greatest wealth per capita of any country in the world. Our nation has become the treasury of the world but inactive wealth does not bring prosperity. Prosperity is the result of business. It is only through activity in trade that employment becomes abundant and wages good.

The full financial power of our country will be realized by the distribution, through every artery of commerce and industry, of the vast sums, which are being spent here by our Allies and our own Government.

We can offset much of the harm, which has been done by those who would curtail every expenditure, except those for so-called "actual necessities," by making this a real Christmas.

Buy liberally and give of your wealth abundantly.

Santa Claus will be cheerier than ever if you help him to make it possible for those who depend upon employment, to make something more than a living. They in turn can give and invest in the bonds and savings certificates of the Government.

We shall then have business not merely as usual but better than usual.

AMERICAN SECURITY—NOW AND LATER.

It, plainly, will be one of the most difficult things imaginable to persuade the people of the United States to look beyond such an obscuring event as the war. It is itself must seem to be not only a paramount but a final question.

People find their imagination filled, all their activities demanded, their thoughts and opinions occupied and their hopes tested by the present struggle. It is presented as a win all or lose all contest. The stakes are the highest; the effort required is the greatest.

All this must be considered when an attempt is made to carry public perceptions beyond the evident dangers, beyond the problems and perils of the period through which people are striving to come safely. It makes the task of suggesting wise policies for the future harder.

It is necessary to look beyond the period of the war if the United States is to serve its real purposes in the war. We have no purpose to serve other than the security of the United States. We cannot fight the war without conscription and a nation has no right to conscript citizens in a war for other than national purposes.

Our real national purpose is to preserve the security, dignity, and well-being of the people of the United States. The war can only partly do it. Perceptions which do not go beyond the period of the war do not take into account causes and effects which must be reckoned with if the security, dignity, and well-being of the nation are to be preserved.

In fighting the war successfully we have gone only part way toward the end desired. It is even conceivable that for the purposes involved the war would be ineffective. It might even be waste.

The government at Washington apparently has decided not to adopt or urge policies which we think are necessary to the accomplishment of the American purpose. The reasons for this are not explained, but an announcement which reflects government opinion is to the effect that congress will not be urged to pass any laws in furtherance of a proper military policy.

This was the attitude maintained all during the time events were making it plain that the United States was threatened with war. It had a great effect upon the temper and judgment of our present enemies, it influenced their thought and conduct, and, by persuading them that the United States was negligible, it did much to bring the United States to war.

It also brought the United States unprepared into war, and what has happened since and is now happening might be a sufficient lesson to any people who would examine their own condition.

If American experiences are to have any permanent effect they must take the form of a corrected public judgment which will be reflected in policies at Washington. The government will not assume leadership in this. It may be that party timidity is a greater force than national experience and if that be the case the people will have to make plain their willingness to adopt protective measures before the government will present them.

For this reason it is necessary for public vision to go beyond the period even of the present exacting and absorbing activity and for public judgment to be formed with relation to things as they will be found after the war.

This is the time when members of congress, who next month will have the opportunity to give the nation's future its assurance of safety, may be influenced by public demand. The members of congress are at home. They are in touch with the people. They will carry to Washington the impressions they receive from the people.

If the people realize that this war is being fought for the security of the United States they will ask that protective measures be adopted as safeguards after the war. If we need an effective military establishment now, we shall need one after the war. This is the time to create it—to continue it.

A magnificent army will be in being before the war is over. It will have war material. It will be equipped. Shall it be thrown away? When it has served its immediate purpose shall it cease to exist as the defender of the nation's security?

American future is in American hands. It will be controlled in part by what American soldiers and the people back of them do now and it will be controlled in an even larger fashion by what the people of the nation think now.

CONSEQUENCES FOR RUSSIA.

Russia's repudiation of obligations, as it stands under the Lenine-Trotzky government, might lead to the consequences indicated by the proclamation of the committee on the salvation of the revolution. If Germany should win or should even succeed in maintaining the central European, Prussian dominated, alliance without imposing any terms upon her enemies which it would be disastrous for them to accept, it will be the Prussian idea which has won or which has maintained itself.

To that idea Russia under such government as it has now will be detestable. If it is, in addition, weak, it will be treated as another China by another Japan. The Russia which can be ruled by Lenine and Trotzky cannot be protected from the Germany which can maintain itself in central Europe under the kaiser.

The committee on the salvation of the revolution says that Russia will be at the mercy of Germany. The penetration of Russia by Germany would be as thorough as that of China by Japan. Lenine and Trotzky might apply their governmental ideas to a collection of individuals protected from competition, but they could not protect the collection from competition. The Germans would apply the competition.

For this disaster, which might involve the complete diplomatic and economic mastery of Russia by Germany, it is not necessary for the western nations to lose the war. Germany could afford to make a peace which relinquished every gain in the west and even compensated France in territory and Belgium in money if by such a peace the empire of Mittel Europa was preserved and all ways to the east were open.

For imperialistic considerations the war would have complete compensation for Germany. If the allies win, against the handicap which Lenine and his associates have placed in the way, the repudiation of obligations will completely alienate Russia from the sympathies and purposes of the western powers. Russia has been led out into No Man's land to receive the fire from both sides and to lose, no matter who wins or what the outcome may be.

The Bolsheviki idea that the proletariat of any nation will sympathize with the Russian people is akin to madness. The German proletariat will be as anxious to take the cream off Russia as the German exploiting class. The peoples of the allied nations whose sacrifices are increased by the defection of Russia can have no fondness for the cause of their added pains.

There may be sufficient wisdom in the masses of Russian people to make possible a perception of consequences. In that probability is some hope for real Russian regeneration which will advance the aspirations of a people gaining liberty and yet conscientiously meeting national obligations.

THE RAILWAY "MERGER."

It would be hard to overestimate the importance of the decision of the railroads' war board to effect a unity of control over eastern carriers. By the terms of the agreement all traffic and equipment are to be "pooled," and the thirty-eight or more railroads will be operated exactly as if they were one system.

Railroad managers in the past have observed the advantage that could be gained by more effective coöperation among all carriers. Several weeks ago Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania, declared it was his settled judgment that "the pooling of traffic by the railroads is essential for the public service and should be affirmatively legalized not only for the period of the war but for all time."

The proposal might have come to nothing were it not for the constantly increasing congestion of traffic, a congestion so great as to threaten a breakdown of transportation facilities. The situation might be compared to the street traffic in a great city. By stationing policemen at the points of congestion we establish a kind of control that for the most part serves to prevent serious stoppage of travel. But if the congestion became very much greater even that control would prove inadequate. The remedy would then lie in diverting traffic to streets which are only partly utilized and that could be accomplished most effectively by establishing a unified control to direct the movements of all vehicles. It is a like necessity that has brought the railroads to create what is termed, somewhat inaccurately, a "war merger."

The railroads' war board, or rather the council of vice presidents acting under it, will route every locomotive and every freight car so as to develop the maximum capacity of the railroads, relieving some of the overloads they are now carrying and increasing the traffic on others. The railroads' war board has hitherto exercised little more supervision than the traffic policeman, who is called upon to unravel a tie-up after it has become an accomplished fact, and who is without the means to prevent its occurrence or recurrence.

The analogy between the new railroad council and a superior war council is instructive. The creation of the railroad board is, in fact, a step in the direction of more central and responsible control of our war activity. The necessity for unified control is brought home by a significant statement in the formal announcement of the railroads' war board. It appears that the director of priority has issued to railroads numerous "preference orders" that is, orders for shipping certain classes of freight in advance of other traffic. We may presume that he acted with a desire to hasten the most necessary shipments, but the volume of these orders has been so great that it not only has slowed down, to use the words of the statement, "the operation of the transportation machine," but it has placed so much freight on the same plane that it practically defeated its own object. A superior council would of course remedy this situation.

CONSCRIPTION IN CANADA.

Canada's fight against the draft serves again to expose the inequity of the volunteer system. The maintenance of the units Canada has sent to Europe cannot depend upon the free will of the people. The best blood in Canada has responded and the sacrifices have been made. The fine record of the dominion has been written by the finest men she had. When the obligation of carrying on what they have done, of completing what they have begun, is to be imposed upon the men who did not volunteer, the protest takes the form of violence.

This protest is ostensibly in the name of democracy. It is actually in the name of selfishness. It represents the opinion of people willing to be served, but not ready to serve. It is a protest of a favored class which will exempt itself from obligation so long as the acceptance of obligations remains a matter of free will.

The volunteer system penalizes the brave men of Canada just as it would have penalized the brave men of the United States if this nation had been foolish enough and unfair enough to carry the volunteer system into the war.

Editorial of the Day

GIVE.

[From the Canton (Ill.) Daily Register.]

God knows, if God knows anything about war, that this nation has been unprepared for war for years; was unprepared when it was time to fathom this world menace as it loomed up on the pages of recent history.

With the exception of the English navy, whose potent influence for such progress as the allies have made has not yet been fully realized, all of what are now Germany's enemies were unprepard. And now we are paying the piper and the sooner we American citizens realize that we are tooting the flute that much sooner will we achieve victory.

We will win. There is no doubt about that. We are going to win unless the fundamental principles underlying the advance of civilization from the time of Christ to the present are a hoax; but we want to win without unnecessary sacrifice and the only way to win in that manner is to give—

And give now!

THE CHALLENGE.

[From the Kansas City Star.]

Every day it grows increasingly apparent that the war will be settled in the west and that it will have to be settled by the weight of fresh American troops with every possible mechanical appliance developed by the resourcefulness of a nation that has specialized in machinery.

Events in Russia and Italy are simply a challenge to show whether we have the ability and the nerve to do our share.

IT was hardly necessary for Chesterton and Quiller-Couch to emphasize their denials that the English are of Teutonic origin. Of all the many strains the Teutonic is the thinnest; and it may be roughly but confidently stated that from the eleventh to the nineteenth centuries Teutonic contributions to the amalgam were practically nil. The "discoveries" of Carlyle, Coleridge, and others were interesting as material for essays, but the nineteenth century was a rather late day to derive from Teutonia. An ethnological examination of Tommy Atkins and the London busman would fail to find even what the chemists call "trace."

What was the subject of Mr. Marshall's lecture? The Butte paper does not say.

I'll do my best to help you out, so here is my surmise
About some wights who often spout in Pfiffers' Paradise:
Andy's a gay young debutante, so do not be beguiled;
And Mergetroid is someone's aunt who writes in accents wild.
The Ballybunion's tall, severe, moustached like Baden-Powell;
While Laura Blackburn, so I hear, looks just like Amy Lowell.
The wild old Ferus has a phiz quite mild, deceitful creature;
While Double Barrel really is a kindergarten teacher.
Calcitrosus? A haughty elf; let's take him down a peg.
Riquarius, he says himself, has got a wooden leg.
Pan is a doctor, wise and grim, who wards off germ disasters;
Anchusa really is a him, and looks like Edgar Masters.
Say, Mac, if you're a sporting chap, just ask us all to meet
At some good restaurant on the map—A Hoover meal, Dutch treat.
Then we may all gaze, each on each, if woman, or if man,
And B. L. T. can make a speech. Yours,
SOLIPIDIAN.

"WITH one voice the mob yelled back: 'We don't want to hear it; —— —— with you.'"—The Trib.

We take it that what the mob said was "To hell with you." If that is correct, we wish to suggest to the proofroom that there are two letters in "to" and four in "hell," and that the practice of using dashes of uniform length is inimical to clarity. In each case the dash should be the length of the deleted word.

SO far as we know, Fritz Kreisler has conducted himself in a seemly manner, before and after the declaration of war by the United States. As much cannot be said for a female singer, whose declarations of loyalty have not coincided with her private remarks and pro-German activity.

The Motion Is Sustained.

Sir: If some thoughtful friend had sent you a stage ticket for the Medill McCormick talk at Orchestra hall, and on the evening set for the event you headed loopward in a high-powered limousine, pay-as-you-enter model, and you were "bridged" for 17 minutes at Goose Island, and to make matters worse you forgot to ask the chauffeur for a transfer at the next junction, your lapse of memory forcing you to walk 19 blocks through the swishing rain, and upon arriving at the Boul forum you found the lobby jammed with people, the broad sidewalk congested, and motor traffic gummed up, but upon hearing a large emerald voice cry: "Plase open up there, will yese, an' let the paple with stage tickets gif boy," you fell in with the elect, deftly elbowing your way through a crush of envious mortals, and upon hearing the doorkeeper's slogan, "Tickets!" you fished from your fob pocket a screaming red bit of pasteboard good for "One gent and three ladies" at the "Stove Molders' ball," and then and there the sickening thought came to you that the night before you had tucked the Orchestra hall ticket into the fob pocket of your banquet trousers, whereupon, now covered with confusion and humid raindrops, you dejectedly gyrated into the outer gloom, moralizing the while on the slings and arrows and other bric-à-brac of outrageous fortune—gyrated into the pelting rain, I repeat, sans raincoat, sans goloshes—wouldn't you have felt, that is to say, wouldn't you have been irresistibly driven to, or, to invert the hyperbole, wouldn't you—oh, hang it, wouldn't— What's that? Thanks. I knew you'd sustain the motion. Call the next case. C. W. A.

SIGNS OF THE IDIAC.

UNDER the heading "Twelve Signs of the Idiac," the Illinois Health News jousts against twelve superstitions, most of them relating to health. The old fashioned almanacs have made us familiar with the signs of the zodiac. In the picture a man stands with feet apart and abdominal and chest organs exposed. Lines indicate the significance of certain portions of the body in connection with the movement of the stars.

In the Health News picture a man stands with feet apart, with a stocking around his neck. This is an old, foolish remedy for sore throat. Of course, a stocking around the throat is of no service in curing sore throat. The custom does harm in that it permits diphtheria to get beyond the stage where antitoxin can cure it. It allows the pus from quinsy to bore deep and shut off the windpipe occasionally. It wastes time in controlling epidemics of diphtheria, septic sore throat, and ordinary sore throat.

Around the neck is a string of amber beads. These are worn to prevent goiter and to cure it. It will do neither. Most goiters result from throat troubles, digestive troubles, and pelvic troubles. Such goiter can be kept in check by care of the throat, digestive organs, or pelvic organs as the case might be.

Another line points to a bag of asafetida worn to prevent contagion. This superstition has come down from the day when contagion was supposed to be due to devils, which chemicals like asafetida, sulphurous acid, and sulphuretted hydrogen drove away.

A line points to the entrails, among which rests a whisky bottle. The superstition involved is that whisky cures snake bite. Whisky will not cure snake bite. The only good that it does is in paralyzing fear. It does more than enough harm to offset this.

Around the waist a cord or wire is shown. The legend is: "Wire about waist to prevent rheumatism." On the middle finger of the right hand is a ring. The legend is: "Iron ring for rheumatism." On the front of the left thigh in the region of the trousers pocket is a dark object which we are told represents a "buckeye in pocket to prevent rheumatism." In certain sections of the country the buckeye would be an Irish potato.

Rheumatism in the popular mind is a good deal of a mystery and, in consequence, superstition clings about it to an unusual degree. The next generation will keep themselves free from rheumatism, whereupon all the rheumatism fetiches will be rolled in red flannel and laid away.

Above the right knee is a bandage holding a poultice and the sign points to "poultice to draw poison out of wound." Poultices do not draw anything. They do macerate the skin, causing boils and carbuncles.

On the left shin a bunch of hair is placed. The sign for it is: "Dog hairs applied to bite to prevent rabies." A "four leaf clover in the shoe for luck," "a horseshoe above the head for luck," and "a grape leaf in hat to prevent sunstroke," complete the twelve signs.

Had they wanted to plat the superstitions relative to birthmarks they would have been required to use a centipede and to cover every leg with a sign.

WANTS TO ADD WEIGHT.

W. I. P. writes: "I am a high school girl of 16 and wish to gain fifteen pounds. I am healthy and have an excellent appetite and eat good food. I have tried your suggestion of eating rice twice a day. Will you kindly explain: (1) If this should be eaten between or right after meals. (2) Does water, taken in large quantities, help one to gain? (3) Is walking for one hour each day the right amount of exercise for me to take? (4) Is thinness hereditary?"

REPLY.

1. With meals, as a part thereof.
2. No. A proper quantity of water taken both with meals and between assists digestion and assimilation. Too little or too much water may impede digestion and assimilation.
3. Walking is a good but not the best exercise. If you walk for exercise go half a mile at a gait swift enough to cause your face to flush and your breathing and pulse to become rapid. You should cover almost three miles in one hour; that will be enough to keep your leg muscles hard.
4. Yes.

CURE FOR BARBER'S ITCH.

J. D. P. writes: "What is the cause of 'barber's itch'? Can it be cured? Is it a blood or skin disease, and what is best to use for it?"

REPLY.

Genuine barber's itch is a species of ringworm due to a fungus or germ called ectothrix. Some milder skin diseases of the face are sometimes incorrectly called barber's itch. Barber's itch can be cured. The milder so-called cases of barber's itch (really cases of sycosis or pus infections or eczemas) are very apt to get well spontaneously. The superficial forms of the barber's itch are harder to cure. The deeper forms are harder still. It is a skin disease. Sutton of Kansas City advises the following treatment:

Cleanliness is all important. The beard should be kept short. Diseased hairs are removed with forceps or with X-rays. The face should be bathed two or three times during the day and a 10 per cent sulphur ointment applied at night. Or a 5 per cent ammoniated mercury ointment should be applied. The disease is contagious.

NEEDS AN EXAMINATION.

J. G. M. writes: "A year ago I noticed puffiness under my eyes. It has gradually got worse, and my eyes are swelled pretty badly now. Is there any external application to bring down the swelling? Also is there any cure for rheumatism? I was laid up all last winter. I was fairly well this summer, but it never left me entirely. It is worse in the feet. Sometimes I can hardly stand on them."

REPLY.

Nothing in the nature of a local application will decrease the puffiness. Puffiness around the eyes usually means Bright's disease or heart disease. Have a physical examination. You need such an examination to determine why you have rheumatism and what you are to do about it. When a man is "laid up all winter with rheumatism" and is crippled in the feet from it he has some focus of infection somewhere. In many instances this focus is in the prostate gland. Instead of ruining your stomach with medicines try to locate and cure this focus.

ULCERS OF THE STOMACH.

J. A. H. writes: "I would like to have you answer a few questions. (1) What is an ulcer of the stomach caused from? (2) Is there any danger of cancer? (3) Is it bad to eat fruit and vegetables and are apples good to eat? (4) Where can I get a good book on dieting that you consider the best."

REPLY.

1. The cause of ulcer of the stomach is not known.
2. Yes.
3. A person with ulcer of the stomach should eat small meals of plain food several times a day. His diet should be carefully mapped out for him. It is not likely that he would be allowed apples, other fruits, or many vegetables. A friend who has just recovered kept peanuts in his pocket and ate them from time to time. A more frequent plan is to keep bread or crackers at hand and to eat of them frequently.

CANADA CHEERS T. R.; AIDS VICTORY LOAN

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 26.—Tremendous enthusiasm greeted Col. Theodore Roosevelt on his arrival here shortly after noon today to assist in the great Victory loan meeting tonight.

Sir Robert Borden, Canadian premier, who was leaving for a political meeting at Uxbridge, had his train held so that he might shake hands with the former president of the United States.

Among others who welcomed the colonel were Sir William Hendrie, lieutenant governor of Ontario; Sir William Hearst, provincial premier; Mayor Church, and army officers.

The colonel on leaving his car was greeted with three rousing cheers. When he reached the street, the throng burst into continued cheering. The military headquarters band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and the guard of honor from the Canadian officers' training corps presented arms.

Cheering crowds lined the streets all along the route to government house, whither the colonel and his party proceeded in automobiles under the escort of a contingent of the royal flying corps mounted on motorcycles. A luncheon followed at the York club.

Speaking at Hamilton, where he stopped for a short time on the way to Toronto, Col. Roosevelt said:

"Canada has a great future, because it has risen to the level of its mighty dead. Canada has won a place forever at the council board of the world's great people.

"Canada has taught a lesson of vital importance to all who believed in democracy. It has shown what free people possess in vision, organization, and foresight in the hour of peril."

"As regards certain nations," the colonel said, "I am sure that it will prove entirely possible both to provide for permanent peace among them, and also to provide for common and disinterested action along certain lines and within definite limits, to secure a betterment of general international conditions, to diminish the likelihood of future wars, and to restrict their limits if they break out.

"As regards Canada and the United States, I think the time has come when we should declare that no possible question can arise which cannot be determined substantially as questions between the various states or provinces are determined, at Washington or Ottawa.

"Regarding some nations I question whether as yet we can trust the future solely to even the most carefully devised treaties—lest in any real emergency we suddenly discover that they are regarded merely as scraps of paper. Therefore, on the general matter of securing lasting international peace, I feel that we should, as a matter of permanent policy, keep our strength prepared for our own defense.

In order to do this let us insist that every right enjoyed shall carry with it the obligation to perform the corresponding duty. Let us insist that, in our democracies universal suffrage shall go hand in hand with universal service, and therefore with obligatory universal training of our young men in time of peace."

ASSAILS SOCIALISTS.

BY THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

[Published by Courtesy of the Kansas City Star.]

[Copyright: 1917: By Kansas City Star.]

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The American Socialist party at the present time is a thoroughly Germanized annex of the Prussianized militaristic and capitalistic autocracy of the Hohenzollerns.

Honest social reformers have left it. No patriotic American ought longer to stay in it. It is purely an aid to the capitalist and militarist Hohenzollern party of Germany. It is a bitter enemy of the United States and a traitor to the cause of liberty throughout the world.

Its leaders are the supporters of an alien autocracy and are seeking to secure a peace which would be of immense benefit to this Prussian autocracy. They stand beside the Bolsheviki, whose antics have made Russia at this moment a byword both of derision and hope to every believer in despotism and every opponent of liberty throughout the world.

Exactly as the reactionary is in the end the worst foe of order, exactly as the conscienceless and greedy man of wealth is in the end the worst foe of property and of honest and duty performing holders of property, so the anarchist and the wild Socialist, whose doctrines when applied necessarily lead to anarchy and the I. W. W. and the crack brained professional pacifists, inevitably themselves are the worst enemies of freedom, of true democracy, and of righteousness.

It is natural that in this terrible and melancholy world crisis these men should have struck hands with the sordid tools of German intrigue in this country. The masters of Germany find all these men, whatever their nominal differences, united in the evil bond of a common subserviency to German purposes.

The German rulers, who at home trample on the Socialists and dragoon the labor organizations and bully the leaders of democratic thought, cynically profit by aiding in other countries the men who in the name of social reform seek to overthrow orderly liberty and thereby show themselves the sinister allies of tyranny and despotism.

GAVE HER WRONG AGE.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Please answer the following questions: [1] If an organizer starts a lodge and one member states she is 49 years of age, but the organizer puts her in for 35, what can the grand lodge do if it finds out? [2] She has been in the lodge four years, paying for the age at which she was initiated, which is 35. Now it is said that when she dies her heirs will not get her insurance.

Please remember that she said she was 49, but the organizer put her in at 35, so that she would not pay so much. She even asked to change her age in the first few months, but it was not done. The grand lodge knows nothing of this affair.

[3] Is it true that if it finds out after two years it can do nothing? S. G.

The member whose age was misrepresented by the organizer of the lodge should notify the grand lodge at once by letter. The facts should be fully stated. The grand lodge will then have a chance to repudiate or cancel the certificate and return the money it has received, or admit the lawfulness of the membership and the validity of the certificate. The letter should be sent to the grand lodge promptly. If there is any delay the member will be guilty of concealing the fraud and the insurance will be forfeited. There is no two year limit for discovering fraud in lodge insurance.

ASSIGNING A POLICY.

Sidney, Ill., Oct. 31.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Please comment on the following particulars:

A creditor of mine had me insure my life, assigning the policy to him. He has paid all premiums so far on the policy. My indebtedness to him has been paid. If I should die, can my family recover the amount of the policy less the amount he has paid in premiums plus interest? SUBSCRIBER.

Where a life insurance policy is assigned as security for a debt the creditor is entitled only to enough of the proceeds to pay the debt and reimburse him for the premiums paid with interest. The balance of the proceeds will go to the insured's legal representatives unless a beneficiary is named.

BORROWED NEARLY TO LIMIT.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 13.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—I have made fifteen annual payments on a twenty year endowment policy in one of the large companies. The annual premium is $258.60 and the interest on loans brings my annual payment up to $418.55. The policy is for $5,000.

Is it profitable to carry this policy, or should I drop it? I have a dependent family and could not get additional insurance because of age and physical bar.

Is there any law or custom by which this policy could be converted to fifteen year endowment and thus enable me to get the benefit of the accumulated dividends? The fifteenth premium was paid in 1916 and the sixteenth payment is now due. E. S.

It would probably be about as well for you to drop your endowment policy, or convert what little equity you have left into a paid up policy. The heavy interest charge indicates that you have borrowed up to your reserve. Buying an endowment policy and then borrowing against it is a poor form of finance. Apply to the company for the best way of using your equity to protect your family. The heavy borrowing indicates that you are hardly in a position to speculate on the deferred dividend by carrying the policy to maturity. It is unlikely that you will be allowed to change over to a shorter dividend period.

BAKER NOW SAYS: "KNIT."

Chicago, Nov. 20. —[Editor of The Tribune.]—Who is right—Secretary Baker or the Red Cross? Many are waiting for an answer. I know many of the boys at the Rockford camp, and know that were it not for the donations of knitted articles sent to them by the Red Cross and by their friends they would be uncomfortably cold. What will happen later?

If Baker is right the work of the Red Cross is misdirected. Women might then turn their efforts to knitting warm garments for the Chicago poor.

Is it just to call those women unpatriotic who knit for themselves or some one in their family instead of for the soldiers? The wool is in the stores; if the government needed this wool they could confiscate it at its source—not at the counter. J. H. M.

Secretary Baker, who with Mr. Daniels several weeks ago announced that the war and navy administrations were furnishing the men all the "needed" warm clothing and that knitted sweaters, etc., were "a luxury, but a welcome one," has apparently modified his position.

Yesterday Mr. Baker and Mr. Daniels said they "wished the people of the country to know that under no circumstances do they want to discourage our good women from knitting or otherwise voluntarily providing through the Red Cross comforts for our soldiers and sailors."

JEWS FOOD CONSERVERS.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is not generally known that orthodox Jewish people are natural conservers of food. Tuesday is gegerally a meatless day because the Jewish butchers' supply of meat is exhausted or else not fresh, and the fresh meat does not arrive until Wednesday morning. Fresh fish is, therefore, the common food on Tuesday.

Poultry is always prepared for the Sabbath, which begins at sunset on Friday and ends with sunset on Saturday, and, as meat or fowl is never served more than once a day, Friday and Saturday are meatless days. Thus there are three meatless days in the week.

Neither butter nor milk is served with meat or used in the preparation of any meat dishes.

White bread, as well as cake and pastry, is always reserved for the Sabbath, and rye bread is the bread eaten throughout the week, making, therefore, six wheatless days a week. In the absence of pies and pastries for weekday meals there is also the saving of sugar and butter.

THE DRAIN ON FARMING MEN.

Richfield, Cal., Nov. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Wallace's Farmer of Oct. 19 says that in an Iowa county with 49.2 per cent of its population in towns and 50.8 per cent in country, a census shows that of the draft enrollment 39.3 per cent was from town and 60.8 per cent from country. Assuming that such a condition is general and that the young farmer from inheritance and environment is a more desirable man physically than the city man, then the farmer's better physique creates a discrimination throughout the country favorable to city industry rather than to farming.

Hence even with most favorable weather conditions farm production next year must necessarily be greatly reduced under this year's and far out of proportion to the reduction in industrial production. ROBERT D. KELLOGG.

OUCH.

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 19.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I note with some amazement an article in your today (Monday's) issue headed "Kaiser May Win." Dr. George E. Vincent of the Rockefeller foundation admitted as much to the soldiers at Fort Sheridan recently and as there was nothing to the contrary, I take it that George E. Vincent is still "at large." There are some Americans in the army, if this is so, and your paper is some American to print such matter.

Where is the use of all the efforts from our president down to the humblest among us to make the "world safe for democracy" when traitors boldly and openly admit the possible defeat of our purpose through public speech and daily paper. To admit the possibility of defeat is to be already beaten. The smallest kid in school knows that.

Is education or age making this wise doctor a coward? Is the admiration of THE TRIBUNE staff for alleged brain overcoming its manhood? To have any other thought but that the kaiser and his kind are already dead issues, bugaboos to fright children with, is a traitorous act of the worst kind. They were already dead the moment the United States declared war on them and we will see to it that there is no resurrection.

If Washington and his few poorly clad and starving comrades at Valley Forge admitted the possibility of George III. winning, what would the word "democracy" mean to us today? Thank God, they did not admit it, but they were men. THOS. R. FLOOD.

POTATO PROFITS.

Monango, N. D., Nov. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In regard to A. L. M.'s article from Chatsworth, Ill., pitying the poor farmer on the neat little profit on raising potatoes he forgets to mention that the farmer first has to plow and harrow his ground and then cultivate as often as he has time, and when the potato bugs get busy he has to spray them. Paris green costs $1 a pound this year. In the fall there is the digging, picking, and hauling to be done, besides having about $1,500 tied up in machinery. If the profits are so large I think he ought to get out on a farm and be one of the pitied. L. T. ANDERSON, Route 2.

MRS. ALEX BELL.

CANADA WOMEN MAY DECIDE ON POWER TO DRAFT

Must Defeat the Contest Which Is Being Made by the French.

BY RHETA CHILDE DORR.

Ottawa, Canada, Nov. 26.—Canada has just made the surprising discovery that its women, far from being political ciphers, are its most important factors. The next general election, which will take place Dec. 17, will be decided by the votes of women, and as the election goes will very largely depend the future war strength of Canada.

Women, therefore, will carry on the war for Canada or they will spoil the splendid record established during the last three years by the Canadian troops in France.

Draft Is Main Issue.

The one great issue of the general election to be held next month is conscription. Shall Canada proceed along the old, slow, wasteful, and discriminating method of voluntary enlistment, or shall she adopt the rapid, certain, and democratic method of the selective draft as worked out in the United States? That is Canada's big problem just now, and women will have to decide it.

It is well known that Canada's situation, women and all, is complicated by its age old race problem, the struggle between the English and French population, which seems just as far removed from settlement as it was a century ago.

Slowly the French have spread from Quebec into neighboring provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward's Island, and Ontario, until the city populations of all these provinces are said to be at least 35 per cent French speaking and anti-English. One-half of the school population of Ottawa is in the separate or parochial schools. Some of that population is Irish, but the bulk of it is French.

Lukewarm Toward War.

The French Canadians have been lukewarm toward the war. They have no feeling that France is their mother country, any more than the Kansas farmer feels that England is his ancestor. The French Canadian's loyalty is circumscribed. It extends very little beyond the boundaries of Quebec, which he would like to see a separate and independent commonwealth.

Quebec is, indeed, the Ireland of Canada. Quite as rebellious and proud and unreasoning as the Emerald isle of the North seas. Quebec and its citizens who have settled outside its borders see no reason why they should go to war for France or England or any other country. In fact, they see some reasons why they should not.

"Let the English Canadians go to the war," openly advised the leaders of the French Canadians. "The more of them that go and get killed the better for us. We will stay at home and have bigger families than ever and in a few years will outvote the English and rule Canada."

Threat from Laurier.

Both the conscription act and the war time suffrage act were bitterly contested by the Liberal party under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Sir Wilfrid issued a manifesto announcing that in case he was elected to parliament, which means that he would become premier, he would suspend the operation of the conscription act until a referendum to the country could be voted upon. He was wise enough to add he was in favor of full suffrage for all Canadian women, splitting even on this issue with Premier Borden.

The result of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's manifesto has been to halt conscription to a great extent. Of the men drawn a large number claim exemption—sometimes on frivolous grounds. The other day a man claimed exemption on the ground that he operated a poolroom and had no one to whom to confide it. His claim was actually allowed. Nobody knows how the conscription act is going to stand after Dec. 17, and every one is accordingly trying to play safe.

No one knows how the woman vote is going, or even how many women will go on record either for or against conscription. A system of enumeration has been devised, enumerators going from house to house throughout the Dominion enrolling those women who are entitled to a vote. They do not seem in all cases to work intelligently.

Telling the Census Taker.

"Anybody in this house at the front" is the customary form of inquiry. Sometimes the person who answers to the doorbell is a child who does not know what "the front" is. Sometimes it is a French maid who understands no English, or even sometimes one who has been instructed to interfere as much as possible with the operation of the suffrage act. In many cases, it is claimed, enumerators turn away without recording the names of legally qualified voters.

Means are provided whereby women not enumerated may get their names on the lists. The enumerators are obliged to mail copies of their completed roll sheets to the heads of the two parties and to post a third sheet "in a conspicuous place" in their districts. The women of the districts have four days in which to ask to have their names added to the rolls. But, except for that minority of women who read the newspapers with care, no means of knowing when and where to get on the lists have been provided.

More than 600,000 women are entitled to vote under the new war-time elections act. If enough of them get on the rolls and if a majority of those vote for Borden the conscription policy will be established in Canada and the war will be fought by all classes and by French as well as English.

WAR WORK

Woman Bank Department Head Selected for Red Cross Position.

MORRISON PHOTO

Miss Eileen Dougherty, for eight years the head of the woman's department of the Union Trust and Savings bank, yesterday resigned to take an executive position in the central division of the American Red Cross. Miss Dougherty has been greatly interested in the Red Cross work for the last three years and has given her time to the membership campaign and the Red Cross drives in the bank, where she was the organizer of a membership unit.

"I suppose I was picked out because I have been a banker for so many years," Miss Dougherty said yesterday. "I was the first woman in Chicago to be asked to take charge of a department of a bank and my experiment proved so successful that most of the banks now employ a woman to manage the woman's end of the business. I worked hard on the Liberty loan drive and have been speaking on food conservation and Red Cross work for some time. I am so happy to think that I will have the opportunity to give all my time to the work. The thing I have been asked to do first is to assist in the organization of the three weeks' Christmas drive."

Evanston Phone Girls Can't Get 'Em Up No More.

Evanston is no longer a small town in the opinion of the Chicago Telephone company. In small towns it has been the custom of the company to call persons who desired to get up earlier than usual and had no alarm clock. Beginning Dec. 1, the operators will not heed such a request.

MEANS TO STAR AS WITNESS IN HIS OWN TRIAL

Pins Hope Upon Graphic Story of Mrs. King's Death.

Concord, N. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The trial of Gaston Bullock Means for the murder of Mrs. Maude A. King, the millionaire widow, began here today. The court proceedings, however, were overshadowed by the announcement that the defendant will appear as his own star witness unless plans of his counsel are changed by unexpected developments during the trial.

Means, from the witness chair, will tell the jury his story of everything that happened on the night of the tragedy. A plaster cast of the tree trunk by the spring on which he claims to have laid the automatic pistol which he say.. Mrs. King later picked up and shot herself with has been made. It will be produced in court when Means goes on the stand. With its aid Means will graphically illustrate the evidence he gives, using also for illustration purposes the revolver from which the fatal shot was fired.

May Visit Death Scene.

His counsel may request the court's permission to take the jury to Blackwelder's spring and there react the killing of Mrs. King for its benefit, with Gaston himself playing the star part.

The first day of the trial was taken up almost entirely by the selection of a special venire of 150 citizens of Cabarrus county, from which it is hoped to get twelve men who will render a verdict in accordance with the evidence.

Judge E. B. Cline ordered Sheriff Caldwell to have the 150 in court by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and to employ as much help in the way of deputies as needed to get them all there at that time.

Means Appears Cheerful.

Throughout the proceedings Gaston sat smiling and confident beside his wife and brothers, bowing recognition to friends and waving his hand to acquaintances.

When court convened this morning the room was about two-thirds filled. Concordians figured it would take several days to get a jury and, knowing the dullness of such business, stayed away.

Both sides are working overtime looking up the associations and connections of the 150 veniremen. It is believed that it will take two days to get a jury in the box.

Government Agent Present.

An agent of the federal department of justice also was present in court again today. The government's interest in the case has not been disclosed, but New York officials have said that papers taken in a raid on Means' New York apartment connected him with anti-American propaganda in this country.

Begin Distribution of Yuletide Red Cross Stamps

More than 110,000 salespersons began yesterday the distribution of Christmas stamps in aid of the Red Cross battle against tuberculosis. It was announced that 3,000,000 stamps were distributed to salespeople in Illinois as a start. It is hoped to sell 300,000,000 stamps in the state and to realize $3,000,000 from the sale. It is said that nearly 500,000 new cases of tuberculosis have been found this year among the civil population of France and that 200,000 men have returned from the trenches, infected with the disease.

STORM DAMAGES BEACHES.

Commissioner of Public Works Bennett reported yesterday that the lake storm last week had done considerable damage to the city's bathing beaches. He said the least damage was done at the Clarendon avenue beach. He declared this was due to the fact that it partly is sheltered by the Lake View crib.

QUERY: WHEN IS A MINISTER? NOW IN HOYNE'S HANDS

The exact standing of Winfield Scott Williams, who is an attorney and claims to be a minister, may be determined by the grand jury. Judge Brothers in the Circuit court turned the matter over to Assistant State's Attorney Beckwith yesterday and advised quo warranto proceedings against Williams.

Meanwhile the Chicago Bar association, by John L. Fogle, summoned Mr. Williams to prove his standing as a minister. Mr. Williams announced last night he was going before the Bar association with positive proof he had never been dismissed from the cloth.

THEIR FIRST TIFF CAMOUFLAGED BY LOVE AND PITY

Wife Blames Self for Five Months' Flight of Husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Brown of Austin had their first disagreement yesterday during nine years of married life. It was a friendly debate without recriminations and punctuated with endearing terms.

Mrs. Brown won. She insisted that hers was the fault that drove her husband, head of the Austin Business college, away from home more than five months ago, to find, according to his own statement, surcease from business and domestic worries.

The wife did not prevail without opposition. Mr. Brown, slightly thinner and a bit paler than when he disappeared, declared that he does not deserve pity—does not want it.

Must Have Been Unbalanced.

"I must have been unbalanced," he said.

"But you do deserve sympathetic understanding, dear," Mrs. Brown replied.

"I was the one really at fault," she continued. "I was so blind and thoughtless! I didn't realize how hard you had been working and the mental strain you were under."

Later during the course of the interview the husband retired to his study upstairs. After a few moments the sound of a typewriter revealed that he was catching up with belated correspondence.

Calls It Dreadful Mistake.

"Just to think," with a wistful smile, "if, when he came home that night so long ago and threw himself down in a chair, crushed, I had gone to him and put my arms around his neck and told him that I loved him and that nothing mattered he probably would not have gone away. I made a dreadful mistake, but I'll never make it again.

"You know, that is the trouble with wives. They take it for granted that their husbands know they love them. We have never had a quarrel or exchanged a cross word during our married life, but I suppose I got careless in the little things that count so much.

"If women could only know what power they possess to help or hinder their husbands! There is the nagging wife, the gadding wife, and the thoughtless wife, like myself."

Children Bring Him Back.

It was thought of his children gathered about the Thanksgiving table without their father that crystallized Mr. Brown's determination to return to his family, he said.

"There was no mystery about my going away," he insisted. "I seemed to be impelled by a power I could not resist. When I left I intended never to return. I don't know why, but it was so."

BARBER BANK CRASH FOLLOWS OWNER'S SUICIDE

Depositors in Polo, Ill., Will Lose Half, Lawyer Says.

Polo, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The Barber Bros. & Co.'s bank, a private institution owned by Bryant H. Barber, who committed suicide at Grand Detour on Friday, Nov. 16, by leaping from the Rock river bridge, was declared insolvent today in a statement issued by Attorney Robert L. Bracken, who represents Mrs. Lucia Barber, mother of Bryant Barber, and also the receiver of the bank.

The 800 depositors will lose 50 per cent of their deposits, according to his statement.

Edward H. Clopper, head clerk of the Barber bank, and Harry E. Spear, former postmaster of Polo, have been appointed receivers by Judge Frank E. Reed of the Ogle County court under a joint bond of $700,000. The Rev. Luke Stewart of Polo and William H. Higler of Chicago were appointed administrators of Barber's estate on Saturday.

Assets Near $500,000.

The visible assets of the bank in currency and good paper are $500,000. There are liabilities in the shape of deposits to the amount of $800,000. It is impossible at this time to give the exact figures of the liabilities of the institution.

From what is now known the assets are 8,700 acres of land near Albert Lea, Minn.; 600 acres near Polo; the Barber home, which cost $40,000; the garage, which cost $10,000; and the $500,000 assets in the bank.

Investments Cause of Failure.

The story of the banker's downfall lies in Bryant Barber's investments on the New York stock exchange

He was known to be a big holder of United States Steel stocks lately. Mr. Barber held a block of stock in the Railway Exchange building, Chicago, of $150,000 and $40,000 of stock in the Continental and Commercial bank of Chicago.

WIDOW TELLS LIFE AND DEATH OF DE SAULLES

Story of Sorrow Given by Witness in Murder Trial.

minute there was no sound, not even the scuffling of a shoe sole on the floor.

"Can Still Hear Words."

Then quite unexpectedly—for every one thought she was finished—Blanca said, turning until her grave gaze met that of the justice:

"I still seem—to hear—those words."

That was the end of her story. One almost expected a curtain to fall upon the scene and to find it the end of a gripping drama. But Justice Manning prolonged it for a moment.

"Is that all you can remember?" he asked gently.

"Yes, your honor," Blanca said.

"And when, after that, did your memory return?"

"I do not know, sir; my head was hurting me terribly."

"Do you know where you were when you recovered your memory?"

Finds Herself in Jail.

"I did not know then, your honor," she said, looking up toward the justice as she might toward a father. "But I know now that it must have been when I was in jail."

"That is all you can tell us?"

"Yes, sir."

"There is nothing more you would like to say?"

"No, sir."

Then, just as gracefully and naturally as she might excuse herself from a drawing room, Mrs. De Saulles flashed a smile at Justice Manning and inquired:

"May I go?"

"Yes, you may go, Mrs. De Saulles," the justice responded, bowing. And—contrary to all court etiquette at murder trials—the defendant with her well poised head held high and her gaze calmly sweeping the crowded room, walked down to where her woman custodian awaited her, and thence out into the corridor.

Tells Loss of Fortune.

The earlier part of Mrs. De Saulles' testimony bore largely on the alleged dissipation of the $100,000 fortune by her husband. "When he found out how much money I had," she said, "he was very much disappointed and said to me: 'This is not very much.'"

She then told of the many amounts she had given him, ranging from $500 up to $20,000. She told of two blank checks she had signed before leaving on a trip to Europe. These checks were later filled out by her husband for $6,000 each, she said:

"When I asked him what had become of the money he said he had paid it for a house on Seventy-eighth street in New York City," she said. "Later I found out that he had only paid $7,500."

Tells of Duke's Trip.

In one instance the eyes of the witness flashed fire when her counsel asked her to tell what she knew of her husband's association with the Duke of Manchester.

"We were taking dinner one afternoon," she said, "when De Saulles received a note from the Duke of Manchester asking him to go on a yachting trip. He went. Later I saw him on the yacht with the duke, and there were many people with them."

"Who were these people?" asked the counsel. "Were they men or women?"

"Girls," she replied.

Very reluctantly she told of a trip to London, in which, she testified, she went to a hotel to find her husband.

"Who are you?" asked the clerk.

"I am his wife, Mrs. De Saulles," she said.

"Which one?" was the query.

"I felt deeply mortified," she said, "and later, when I barely missed coming over on the Lusitania on her last fatal trip, I said to myself I was sorry that I was not on that boat."

First Met in 1911.

She told of being introduced to Jack de Saulles early in 1911, and of his courtship. She became engaged to him in August, 1911, she testified.

When asked to identify a picture of herself taken on the day previous to her wedding, she smiled for the first time, replying:

"That is mine."

Mrs. de Saulles told of her wedding in Paris, the honeymoon trip to London and America and of the return to Chile.

After briefly describing their return from Chile, the witness was asked to identify a revolver, alleged to have been bought for her by her husband.

She glanced at the weapon, shuddered perceptibly, and turned her head as she told of the purchase.

The pistol was the one with which she shot her husband.

Mrs. de Saulles told of the advice given her by her husband regarding the use of the pistol. He thought she would be alone a good deal. Then, on Christmas day, 1912, the baby came, she said. She told of being at the De Saulles home at South Bethlehem, Pa., at that time, where a nurse, Mrs. O'Neil, waited on her. Her husband occasionally made week end visits to her, she said.

Not Happy in Bethlehem.

When asked if she was happy while at the De Saulles home at South Bethlehem, she smiled and said:

"Well, it was not very nice."

Then came details of a trip to Washington, where, she said, her husband visited her once or twice.

She next visited at Atlantic City, she said, while her husband was busy trying to be appointed minister to Uruguay. (He was appointed, but soon after resigned.)

In halting tones she told of being at Deal Beach in August, 1913, where she spent a month, and where, she said:

"De Saulles came to see me on Sunday with a crowd of friends, including De Saulles' bosom friend, Marshall Wade."

During that visit, she testified, she signed a check on Aug. 28, for $15,000, and gave it to her husband.

"I was overcome by the heat on that visit," she said, "but my husband said I was 'hipped' on myself."

Husband Came Home Late.

This was generally accepted to mean that she was feigning.

In November, 1913, the witness said, she went to live at 18 East Sixtieth street, New York.

"My husband came home very late, as a rule," she said, "many times between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. He never told me where he had been."

On Dec. 9, 1913, she said, she signed a check for $1,000 and gave it to her husband.

When asked if she was happy in the winter of 1913-'14, she replied: "No, I was not."

She then told of her husband's appointment as minister to Uruguay. She went to Europe with the baby to visit friends, on her husband's advice, she said:

"He did not take the position," she said, "because he said he could make more money in New York."

Husband Given $12,000 More.

She returned to America in August, 1914, because her husband had cabled her that he had obtained a country home for her.

"When I left for Europe he had me sign two blank checks," she said. "Later he said he had filled out the checks for the aggregate amount of $12,000 and had paid that amount for a house at 22 West Seventy-eighth street."

The defense claims that De Saulles paid only $7,500 for the house.

A copy of Town Topics detailing the doings of the Duke of Manchester was then introduced because Mrs. De Saulles testified she had read it after having had her attention called to it by friends. The article was a scorching denunciation of the Sunday brawls held in a cottage rented by the duke at Premium Point, L. I.

A New "Lady Godiva."

The story told of how Jack De Saulles assisted the duke in entertaining prominent dancers and devotees of the night life of Broadway; also, of how one woman did the Lady Godiva stunt by a sans clothes plunge into the ocean.

Later Mrs. De Saulles moved into the house in Seventy-eighth street, where she made ready to receive her husband, who was then in Canada.

On his return, she said, he told her he was going to Europe on war contracts.

On another occasion De Saulles showed her a card from a woman who was well known to the lower world.

"I asked him if he knew her well," she said, "and he told me he did.

"Then I asked if he ever kissed her, and he said he did. That made me feel miserable."

The witness said De Saulles drank a great deal and was in the habit of giving parties at home and then absenting himself.

"I was very unhappy," she added, "and asked him if he wouldn't try and do better."

He Could Not Settle Down.

"He said he could not help the kind of a life he was living, as he was not made to settle down."

She told him she wished to go home to Chile, and he permitted it, she said.

She sailed with her baby in 1915, and as she left the United States she "felt very happy to get away," she said. She testified she did not tell her mother or others about the troubles of her married life.

Mrs. De Saulles told of the automobile accident in Chile in 1915 in which she was painfully injured.

"I had terrible pains in my head after that accident," she said, pointing to a place on the top of her head. "I can feel it yet. When I comb my hair I can notice the pain."

The witness told of her return to America, saying that when her steamer docked she saw her husband on the deck.

On Easter Sunday morning of 1915, the witness said, her husband came home and asked to take the baby out walking.

Joan Sawyer Is Named.

"On their return," she declared, "De Saulles seemed delighted because the baby had been frightened by the wild animals."

When she asked the boy what happened, the witness said, the boy replied:

"The lions roared, and Miss Jo and daddy laughed."

"I subsequently found out who this 'Miss Jo' was," she added. "She was Miss Joan Sawyer."

The witness then told of mental suffering following this episode.

Mrs. De Saulles told of a dinner party given by her husband in his bachelor apartments on Fifty-seventh street. Here she related the Joan Sawyer incident.

One night when she went to the Arrowhead inn with her husband, she said, some woman yelled:

"Who is that with Jack De Saulles?"

"Later," said the witness, "the woman asked me 'How is Jack?' as they were leaving.

"When I asked my husband later about his relations with Joan Sawyer," she said, "he asked me if I thought I was the only woman who ever fell in love with him."

Dancer in His Apartment.

She told of a dinner given by her husband at his apartment.

"I asked him to swear on his honor that no woman had ever stayed in his apartment," she said. "He swore it. Later I found this to be untrue. Joan Sawyer had stayed there."

Counsel for the defense by further questioning brought out the statement that Jack De Saulles sold the East Seventy-eighth street property for $51,000, receiving $14,500 after the mortgage had been cared for.

"Of this amount I received $700 through my attorneys," said the witness.

Ruth Shepley Is Named.

The name of Ruth Shepley, the actress, was brought into mention when the witness testified the boy came to see her at a hotel and said:

"I am going to have two mothers. Miss Shepley is going to marry father and be my other mother. Daddy says she will love me just as much as you do."

Asked to give details of her divorce, the witness was prevented from replying by the court.

"The legal papers only may be admitted," said the court.

The witness told of parties at Fifty-seventh street, where De Saulles had bachelor quarters and had entertained the baby.

"The baby came back from one of these parties," she said, "wearing a ring. He told me his father had bought a bracelet for a 'Miss Brown with golden hair, and when he wanted one also his father bought him the ring."

Leading slowly up to the time she entered "The Box" on the night of Aug. 3 the witness told of seeing her boy on the stairway. On entering the house she met Jack De Saulles and said to him:

"It is very mean of you to keep the baby from me."

"You can't have the boy now or ever," was the reply of the husband, according to the witness, and the tragedy followed.

LETTERS FROM MRS. DE SAULLES WHICH SHE ADDRESSED TO HUSBAND

MINEOLA, L. I., Nov. 26.—The following letters of Mrs. Blanca De Saulles to her husband were read at her trial today. She wrote him while in the residence of her husband's parents in South Bethlehem, Pa., while her husband was in New York:

"June 17, 1913.—Darling Dada: I know you will excuse me for writing in pencil, but somehow it seems cooler to do so than to use ink. I hope you are feeling better, precious, and that you have not tired yourself too much. The heat here today and yesterday has been appalling. Yesterday saw me at the tea Mrs. Johnston gave the Brazilians.

"Mrs. Johnston sent her car for me. I missed you very much. I feel so lonely now I don't know what to do. Could you find out from some one of some cool little place with no 'squitos' and nice drives where I could take you in a buggy? Darling, I don't wish to complain, because you are already having such a hard time, but, precious, I'm afraid this heat will really make me sick, and, Dada, dear, I'm doing my best.

"Take care of yourself, darling, and may God grant you success.

"Love and a kiss.

"Your devoted wife, DADA GIRL."

Ready to Forgive Him.

"July 25, 1913.—Darling Dad: I have had a great big heartache ever since you told me to 'Go to your room,' and I had made up my mind that I would not write to you until you wrote to me, or else spoke one sweet word through the phone; but I have relented, and, instead, am going to tell you how harsh and unkind you were. I did not think that ever in your life, even if you lived to a hundred years, you would have ordered me out of the room, much less gone away without saying good-by or where you were going to stay. That—after a thousand and one professions of love!

"Well, I suppose every one's ideals are shattered, and yours probably also, although I have tried not to shatter yours, even when things did seem so hard. I hope you are having a good time in New York. It must be such fun to play bachelor again—in fact, it must seem quite natural, and the last two years surely are but a horrid nightmare—then, so inopportunely, the wife's letter comes! Why don't you race with Maurice and enjoy yourself? You will only get nervous and bored in Bethlehem and lose your appetite.

"Devotedly, BLANQUITA."

Begs Him to Visit Her.

In a letter to "Darling Precious Daddy," she begged De Saulles to come and see her without fail. "I am so lonesome without you," she wrote. The letter was signed, "With All the Love in the World from Baby Boy and Me."

In another letter she said she had put in a telephone call for him and while waiting for him to respond was writing. She said she had decided not "to send him a word" until he sent word to her, because he had ordered her out of the room when he was talking to his mother, but her love overcame her resolve.

On Aug. 6 she wrote she had been unable to get him on the telephone at his club. On the edge of the letter she asked: "Where were you?" Repeating the interrogation mark three times.

Would Pray for Him.

On the same day she wrote, thanking him for a cook book, and said that when she got in her "own little home" she was going to try every one of the recipes. It would be "such fun," she wrote.

"O, what happiness it will be!" the letter read. "Do call me up as soon as you know anything definite. Darling, I am so excited and so anxious I can hardly breathe. I have prayed all day for you and I am sure God cannot refuse."

"It's so lonesome without you"; "please don't disappoint us again. Come Thursday without fail"; "Toodles and I send all the love in the world," were phrases occurring in all her letters. They were signed, "Your Devoted Wife, Dada's Girl."

Letter to Boy's Nurse.

In August, 1916, she wrote the following letter to Ethel O'Neil, little Jack's former nurse:

"Dear Miss Ethel: . . . We are sailing, my brother, sister, and myself, for London, the day after tomorrow, and are coming back in October. The baby will remain here.

"His father, in every visit he makes to him, influences him so against me that he is now very hard to manage, and now Mrs. Mooney has adopted an extraordinary attitude, as though the child belonged to her, and it were a great condescension for her to allow the child to talk to me. . . . I am willing to make the sacrifice of being without him, but, Miss Ethel, it's just eating my heart out and, of course, every one thinks I don't care. . . . Always, BLANQUITA DE SAULLES."

LAURA HANSEN CHANGES MIND ABOUT PETRIE

Laura Hansen, the schoolgirl who was lured away from her home in Elmhurst last July by Henry W. Petrie, composer of popular music, has awakened to the fact that she is not Petrie's first love. Laura might have suspected it long ago, for Petrie deserted his wife and children in Downers Grove when he took her away to tour the country with him.

Laura made the discovery in the Juvenile court. Walter Hansen, her father, had placed her in St. Margaret's home when she returned to Chicago Saturday night, when she refused to go home with him. Yesterday she decided she would go "out and look Mr. Petrie up." Attendants succeeded in holding her while they sent for the father. Hansen at once took her to the Juvenile court.

"I want her committed to some place from which she can't escape," Hansen told Miss Bartelme.

CLERGY DUBBED SLACKERS IN DRY CITY CAMPAIGN

Charges that Chicago preachers are "slackers in the campaign to oust the saloon" were voiced last night at the weekly meeting in Willard hall of precinct workers of the Dry Chicago federation. The workers had gathered to receive instructions regarding the campaign to obtain 106,500 signers to the petition for a referendum on the wet and dry question as it applies to this city.

"Chicago ministers as a body will not join actively in this campaign to oust the saloon until forced to do so by the opinion of their parishioners," said one precinct worker.

Thus far 16,000 names have been obtained.

INJURED IN WAR ARGUMENT.

Jacob Kramer, 1514 West Chicago avenue, a baker, is in a serious condition at the Fort Dearborn hospital suffering from internal injuries caused yesterday afternoon when he was struck by Henry Barbarasa, another baker, following an argument about the war.

SAILOR AND GIRL TAKEN IN RAID ON NORMANDIE

Miss Florence Huter, 18 years old, says she lives in Cincinnati, O., and Jesse Dorris, 20 years old, a sailor at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Joseph Uhlir in the Morals court.

They were arrested Saturday night in the Normandie hotel, 419 South Wabash avenue, when the hotel was raided and twenty-six other inmates taken into custody.

The girl testified that she is a stenographer and had come to Chicago to seek a position. "By accident" she met Dorris, who, she said, she had known for some time.

The judge instructed her to write to her parents and ask them for the fare. She became hysterical and said she would not write to her parents.

Dorris was discharged and the girl sent to the House of Good Shepherd, to remain there until her parents are heard from.

POLITICAL DEATH OF LA FOLLETTE DEMOCRATS' AIM

Nonpartisan Fight in Wisconsin May Be the Result.

La Follette is the factor Washington fears politically, in getting ready for the 1918 congressional campaign and in preparing the foundations for the 1920 presidential battle.

This was disclosed at the conference held yesterday at the Congress hotel, in which the Democratic national committeemen and the state chairmen from twelve states in the upper Mississippi valley participated.

The problem presented to them was that of electing eight Democratic senators in the states in the upper Mississippi valley where senators are to be chosen in 1918, and of assuring Democratic gains in the lower house.

Wisconsin Storm Center.

Wisconsin, with its immediate senatorial situation, caused by the death of Senator Husting, was the axis around which the discussion revolved. The idea was transmitted to the state leaders that a nonpartisan and pro-war campaign, aimed directly against Senator La Follette and any candidate he may be able to put forward in Wisconsin, was favored by Washington.

Fred B. Lynch, national committeeman from Minnesota, who was elected chairman of the conference of the twelve states, went so far as to say that a nonpartisan combination is an immediate necessity in congressional districts and in states where there is any real danger of an anti-American and Socialist combination that might result in defeat of the administration at the 1918 elections.

Tell Truth About Conditions.

Men who sat in the conference made no attempt to disguise real situations that obtain in the several states. Illinois reporting some counties rampant against the war and its conduct, was not behind Minnesota and the Dakotas, where the so-called "farmers'" movement has made an impression politically.

The eight senatorships under discussion yesterday are as follows:

Illinois—Lewis, Dem.
Wisconsin—Husting, Dem.
Iowa—Kenyon, Rep.
Minnesota—Nelson, Rep.
Nebraska—Norris, Rep.
Kansas—Thompson, Dem.
South Dakota—Sterling, Rep.
Kentucky—James, Dem.

So far as Illinois is concerned, the report was made to the conference that the Republican factional differences in the state are such as to give a chance to the Democrats to elect a senator. State Chairman Arthur W. Charles reported that Senator Lewis is an agile campaigner and might be reelected.

Those at Conference.

The men who sat in the conference were the following:

Illinois—Charles Boeschenstein, national committeeman; Arthur W. Charles, state chairman; Mrs. George Bass, chairman women's bureau.
Indiana—Willis H. Thompson, secretary state committee.
Iowa—Wilbur W. Marsh, national committeeman; J. W. Reynolds, state chairman; J. J. Hughes, state committeeman.
Kansas—Hubert W. Lardner, state chairman.
Kentucky—Col. W. B. Haldeman, national committeeman; T. R. Welch, state chairman.
Minnesota—Fred B. Lynch, national committeeman.
Michigan—W. F. Connolly, national committeeman; A. H. Stevenson, state chairman.
Missouri—W. R. Hollister, proxy for E. F. Gaines, national committeeman; Doc Brydon, secretary state committee.
Nebraska—A. F. Mullen, national committeeman.
North Dakota—H. H. Perry, national committeeman; F. W. McLean, state chairman; W. H. Byerly, state secretary.
South Dakota—James Mee, national committeeman; James Coffey, state chairman.
Wisconsin—Joseph Martin, national committeeman.

Yesterday's session was the third that has been held under the new "regional" system planned by Democratic National Chairman Vance McCormick.

QUIETLY WED

Friends Learn of Marriage in Ravinia Week After It Took Place.

Mrs. George K. Dunscomb
TOLOFF PHOTO

A romantic wedding that took place quietly last Tuesday in the home of the bride at Ravinia was that of Mrs. Ruth Coffin Collins, daughter of Charles Henry Coffin, to George H. Dunscomb, with only the immediate families of the couple present. Friends of the couple learned only yesterday of the wedding, as it was the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Dunscomb to steal away from town without the circumstance usually attending wedding ceremonies. The bride was for several years at the head of the College of Rhythmic Art at Lake Shore drive and East Superior street. Mr. Dunscomb is assistant cashier at the First National bank. The couple will return about Christmas time and will later be at home in Ravinia.

Choose Men for Booost in Rank at Camp Taylor

Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Staff officers at Camp Zachary Taylor yesterday forwarded to Washington their recommendations for promotions among the reserve officers who have been here since Aug. 15. Only a few men above the rank of lieutenant will be advanced and the majority of the promotions will be from first lieutenants to captains, and from second to first lieutenancies.

Seek $400,000 to Buy Bibles for U. S. Soldiers

New York, Nov. 26.—The American Bible society announced today the formation of a national finance committee to take charge of the campaign for American Bible week, Dec. 1 to 11, during which time an effort will be made to raise a fund of $400,000 for khaki bound testaments for soldiers and sailors. James Wood, president of the society, heads the committee.

JURY READY FOR MURDER TRIAL.

A jury was completed yesterday to try the case of Pinkey Lee and Fred Ashford, Negroes, before Judge Robert E. Crowe in the Criminal court. They are charged with the murder of Joseph Brill, Aug. 1 last, in an argument at the Edelweiss gardens.

WHY OFFICERS AT CAMP GRANT WEPT AND WEPT

They Got First Practice with Liquid Tear Gas.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Camp Grant, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Tears came to the eyes of many officers of the Eighty-sixth division today. Colonels and lieutenant colonels sniffed audibly and even a brigadier general turned his head away and wiped his eyes.

He turned his head away from a bottle, a small drug store bottle. When it was held under his nose and close to his eyes the invisible vapor stung his nostrils and eyes and the blinding, smarting tears began to flow. He bore it for almost a minute and then was satisfied with the experiment. It was his first taste of the gas being used in the initial instruction given at the gas defense school. The medical officers have had their training now it is the turn of the line officers. Before he is alloked to start for "over there" every officer will have had this schooling.

The Gas House.

The gas house is a little frame building half way down the high bank of the Rock river back of the base hospital. The schoolroom is in one of the hospital buildings. Capt. John Sweeney, division gas instructor, is in charge. With him is Maj. R. J. MacKay, gas expert from the British army, who tells the students the history of gas mask development and relates some of the experiences of the allied forces with gas.

Then comes the drill intended to enable a man to get his mask out and put it on in six seconds, while holding his breath. At this stage they do not go near the gas house. Instead they are permitted to sniff the bottle containing liquid tear gas, or lachrymatory gas. The gas house, a single room with a bench running around the walls, comes in the third day of the course. The students enter it both with and without masks.

Officers taking the course express their implicit confidence in the American gas mask. They believe it the best one so far devised.

Ten Mile March.

The first real practice march on the schedule was taken today by the Three Hundred and Forty-first infantry. Carrying their light packs, the men marched early in the morning to a point two miles beyond the rifle range, and then back to the range, where their noon mess was cooked. They were given instruction in building fires for individual cooking. Their feet were inspected. After mess they marched back to quarters, having covered ten miles in all. Other regiments are to repeat the performance.

There was snow falling late in the afternoon, but the marchers beat it into camp.

Four officers of the Three Hundred and Forty-first were transferred today to the One Hundred and Eighty-third, the colored brigade. It is believed they will be used in organizing the brigade headquarters, as all the company positions of the Three Hundred and Sixty-fifth infantry are filled by colored officers. The four are Capt. Charles W. Reynolds, Capt. Warner A. Ross, Lieut. Eugene Schobinger, and Lieut. Frank W. Haverstick.

Army Announces Plans for Light Motor Truck

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Plans for the manufacture of a third type of army motor truck were announced today by the war industries board, the new truck to be of three-fourths ton rated capacity and supplementary to the three ton and one and one-half ton trucks.

MARY GARDEN 'LOVES CHICAGO'

In an article on "My Favorite City," published in the magazine section of the New York World, Mary Garden makes some comments on Chicago as contrasted with New York. The prima donna finds Paris more to her liking than London and likewise she prefers Chicago to New York. She says of this city:

"I must say I love Chicago. The people are not spoiled. Chicago appreciates and decides for itself. It is not like New York, where every artist in the whole world, large or small, comes and shows his wares; where we are all spoiled and confused. In New York our taste and independent judgment have been ruined.

"So far as opera is concerned, the Chicago organization is far better. There we have all the schools of opera, no prejudice against the modern and no glorification of one country's school against another's.

"In Chicago, I feel, an American singer could get her chance and arrive much more quickly than in New York, where it is almost impossible to begin an operatic career and reach any real height. The people in Chicago are not overfed with celebrities; they are independent enough to know what they like and to say so, and they have a leaning toward our own artists. Most of all, they are not debarred from new impressions by prejudice and reaction.

"And as for the atmosphere and the people, I love Chicago best of American cities. It is true I spent part of my youth there, but that has little to do with my judgment. I like Chicago because of its freedom, its independent and optimistic manner, and its constant reaching out for what is fine in the new art and the new life. The people are subtly different from eastern Americans. They have qualities and potentialities not to be found in the east. Everything is fresher and more spontaneous, more full of life and hope.

"Chicago has many advantages over the bigger, richer, and stronger New York. It is my favorite in America, just as Paris is in Europe."

ILLINOIS MEN TAKE GAS TESTS

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Illinois officers who are in the Sixty-first depot brigade at Camp Bowie today began taking the "gas tests." Each officer, after donning his mask, remained in an airtight gas house until he began to feel the effects of the fumes. Fifty went through the ordeal, led by Gen. Hoffman commanding.

Lieuts. I. P. Doyle and C. A. Banks of Chicago have been transferred to the One Hundred and Eleventh ammunition train.

FORT SHERIDAN STUDENTS GET STRAPS TODAY

In All About 2,900 Men Will Be Commissioned; 500 Fail to Pass.

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock the work of awarding commissions to the men who have been in training here for the past three months will be started. By 2 o'clock the men bearing their commissions and assignment to stations, together with leave until December 15, will have departed.

This morning the candidates were given their last month's pay. Those who failed to win shoulder straps were given their pay and transportation back to their homes. These numbered about 500 and by noon all were gone, greatly disheartened by their failure.

2,900 Win Straps.

In all, about 2,900 men will be commissioned. Of these six will be majors, 132 will be captains, and the rest will be first and second lieutenants, about equally divided.

There were no drills of any kind today, the men putting in the time packing and exchanging farewells with friends in companies other than their own. Tonight the majority are on leave until tomorrow morning, some of the companies going in a body to attend some social function. Although another training camp will not be held here, Fort Sheridan is not to be abandoned, but will be maintained as a regular army post. It will be garrisoned by the Fortieth infantry, commanded by Col. Samuel Burkhart.

A Parting Lesson.

Maj. C. A. Bach, cavalry, assistant instructor, tonight gave each candidate a copy of an essay on "leadership" prepared by himself. Among other things, it tells the embryo officers:

"When you join your organization you will find waiting for you, or you will receive, a willing body of men who ask from you nothing more than the qualities that will command their respect, their loyalty and their obedience. They are perfectly ready and eager to follow you so long as you can convince them that you have these qualities. When the time comes that they are satisfied you do not possess them you might as well kiss yourself good-by. Your usefulness in that organization is at an end."

SPECIAL TRAINING AT CAMP LOGAN

Camp Logan, Houston, Tex., Nov. 26.—Special training for the specialists of each regiment in the Sixty-sixth infantry brigade started today. This training is for the men of the headquarters detachment, which under the new organization contains all the specialists of the regiment. At present, pending the organization of the headquarters company, men will be picked from all the companies of each organization for the work.

Twenty men from each company are being trained for runners and messengers.

Twenty men are to be trained in the finer points of patrol duty. Ten men per company will be trained in map making and reconnaisance. Ten men will receive instruction in estimating distances.

The first figures on the insurance subscriptions of the prairie division were made public this afternoon. Three of the four infantry regiments have not turned in their reports to the division insurance supervisor, M. M. Lemann, special representative of the treasury department at Camp Logan. The total to date is $30,514,000.

Music—a war-time necessity

A famous general once said that the only enemies he ever feared entered the battle with a song on their lips.

Patriotism is three parts emotion and music is the language of the emotions.

Courage is born of the heart and music speaks straight to the heart.

In times that try men's souls, every force which keeps the nation's spirit bright is a great and positive asset. Every means of combating trial with happiness must be carefully conserved and fostered.

A nation at war requires food for its soul as well as for its body. The morale of the fighting forces must be maintained. The mental and moral resources of the people must be preserved at their full vigor. Recreational and cultural activities must provide the needed relaxation, revive the drooping spirits, soften the sting of sorrow, instil new ardors of bravery and determination. The sound of laughter must be heard in the land.

Instinctively men turn to music for entertainment and inspiration. Music speaks a tongue that all can understand, that nothing else can speak. It reaches down to the hidden springs of feeling, replenishes and freshens them. To the mysterious power of music, the pulse responds and hopes run high. Under its healing influence, gloom and despair lose their evil grip.

Imagine, if you can, a nation going into war without the thrill of music! Imagine, if you can, a nation battling through the dark days of a prolonged struggle without the heartening comfort of music!

The Victrola is literally the nation's chief source of music. More Americans—and Americans in the making—have learned "The Star Spangled Banner" from the Victrola than from any other one source. The Victrola is in millions of homes. It is in camp, on shipboard, in the trenches, the hospitals, the schools, and the churches. It is the principal source of cheerfulness and entertainment to the soldiers and sailors of Uncle Sam. "Back home" among the folks behind the army—the farmers, the men and women in the fields and the factories, in city and in country, the Victrola is one of the greatest—if not the greatest—means of diversion.

It is the mission of the artist to create beauty and pleasure. It is the mission of the Victrola to carry them directly to the people, to plant them in their homes and thus to contribute to their mental and spiritual well-being.

The tremendous popularity and use of the Victrola and Victor Records indicate how strongly established they are in the affections of the people, how completely they are fulfilling a national need.

The Victrola performs no mean service to the nation.

U. S. PREPARES TO DICTATE RETAIL PRICES OF MEAT

J. P. Cotton Announces Plan to Name Board to Fix Rates.

Retail prices of meat are soon to be regulated by a consumers' commission which will be appointed by Joseph P. Cotton, head of the meat division of the food administration. Prices which consumers are to pay butchers will be set by the commissioners and the system will be extended until it covers all parts of the country.

The plan to be followed will be similar to that adopted by other branches of the food administration in controlling sales of groceries. The delay in putting this plan into effect in the meat division has been due to the difficulty of determining packers' profits. The inquiries in the meat industry are now to be extended into the retail trade, where the margin of profit will be fixed and the consumer will be told exactly what meat will cost.

Cotton Tells of Plan.

"Now that the packers' profits have been adjusted we have a starting point from which we can work ahead into the retail trade," said Mr. Cotton yesterday. "I shall appoint a consumers' committee soon and an inquiry will be started that will cover the retail trade.

"The field for working out reductions in prices is much larger among the retailers than among the packers. What the packers make out of meat sales is only a small percentage of what is made before it reaches the consumer. There are practically no middle men to be considered, as the packers almost always make their sales direct to the butchers."

3,000 Affected Here.

About 3,000 dealers in meat in Chicago will be affected by the new price regulating plan, according to Sol Westerfeld, president of the Retail Grocers and Butchers' association.

"The number of meat dealers who have been forced to go out of business during the last year indicates that the retailers have not been making money," said Mr. Westerfeld. "Butchers and grocers who have carried meat in connection with their regular business have not been making any large profits. For some time the profits have been less than normal. There are some exceptions, but not many."

Thanksgiving Birds.

Turkey and chicken are at their top prices. They will not soar between now and Thursday—Thanksgiving day. This is the assurance given out by Horace C. Gardner of the price interpretative committee of the food administration. If anything, he sees a weakening tendency in the price of cold storage turkeys. Chickens are steady, but showing no signs of going higher.

Four Chicago concerns failed to obey the order of the food administration forbidding all "combination sales," excepting only where sugar and cornmeal are "combined." They were ordered peremptorily to discontinue the practice yesterday.

Grain Controller Named.

Herbert C. Hoover has appointed John J. Stream to take charge of the coarse grain department, which includes corn, oats and barley. Mr. Stream is vice president of the board of trade and is a member of the firm of Shaffer & Stream. Mr. Stream will leave for Washington Friday or Saturday and will make his headquarters in New York.

Regulations governing the cracker industry are to be drawn up by a commission which has been appointed by Mr. Hoover. The commission is made up of R. E. Tomlinson, president of the National Biscuit company; Brooks Morgan, president of the Independent Cracker Bakers' association, and John H. Wiles, treasurer of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company.

The milk commission, which has just been appointed by Harry A. Wheeler, is to organize today.

Mr. Wheeler will start east today to spend Thanksgiving with his son, who is at Langley aviation field, in United States service.

COUNTY'S COAL TO COST $1.73 MORE A TON

Cook county may have to pay $1.73 more a ton for its coal.

This became apparent yesterday at the meeting of the county board when counsel for four local coal companies supplying fuel to county institutions announced that unless the board grants an increase of 70 cents a ton above the present rates the companies will cease delivering the coal, regardless of contracts now existing. The incerase, it was said, it necessary because of war tax, higher pay demanded by miners, and higher freight rates.

Peter Reinberg, president of the board, said it would not grant the increase for fear the precedent set would lead other companies having contracts with the board to present demands.

He announced that if the companies fail to keep their contracts he will purchase the necessary coal from outside firms at government fixed rates, which are now $1.73 higher than the rates fixed in the contracts.

U. S. Aids Candy Makers Despite Sugar Shortage

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The federal government during the sugar shortage crisis is doing all that it can to aid and encourage the candy manufacturers of the country.

Far from wishing to discourage the makers of confectionery, officials of the food administration declare they are doing everything they can to aid the manufacturers in holding together their organizations and to keep up their output while limited to a 50 per cent sugar basis.

Case Eggs in Storage Show Gain in October

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Cold storage holdings of case eggs were larger by 697,673 cases on Nov. 15 than they were a year ago. Total stocks reported today by the department of agriculture amounted to 3,693,940 cases. Holdings decreased 17.3 per cent from Nov. 1 to 15, compared with a decrease of 21.7 per cent during that period last year.

FIX PAPER PRICE, FINE MAKERS, BREAK UP TRUST

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Attorney General Gregory announced today the settlement of the suit for the dissolution of the news print paper trust filed by the government last April. Under the terms of the agreement reached between the government and the defendants, the trust has promised to dissolve and abide by prices on paper fixed by the federal trade commission for the period of the war.

Until that body has made the necessary investigation into the cost of producing news print paper, the manufacturers will not charge in excess of $3 per hundred pounds in carload lots and $3.25 per hundred pounds in less than carload lots.

The statement of the attorney general follows:

"With two exceptions, the defendants in the news print paper case today pleaded nolo contendere to the indictment against them under the Sherman act and fines were imposed as follows:

"On the defendants, Dodge, Backus, Chahoon, and Mead, $2,500 each; on the defendant, Sensenbrenner, $1,000.

"At the same time the indicted manufacturers and three others consented to the entry of a decree adjudging that through the news print manufacturers' association and other means they have unlawfully restrained trade, and ordering that the association be dissolved and that the parties be perpetually enjoined from entering into or engaging in any like combination having for its purpose or effect the elimination or restriction of competition in news print paper or the working for materially higher prices for news print paper, or the establishment of uniform prices, terms or conditions for the sale of news print paper or the working to discourage others from manufacturing news print paper."

15,000,000 Pounds of Sugar on Way to New England

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26.—Fifteen million pounds of sugar, a quantity sufficient to break the backbone of the shortage, now is on the way to New England, according to a statement tonight from the office of the state food administrator, Henry B. Endicott.

High Prices Rob Babes of Milk, U. S. Bureau Finds

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—High prices of milk in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and other congested cities have curtailed the consumption among the poorer classes until many children under 6 years of age are being given tea and coffee by their parents, according to information made public today by the children's bureau of the department of labor. Owing to the rising cost of milk, families of small means have been forced to stop its use entirely or buy only half the quantity they need. A warning that serious harm will result from omitting milk from a child's diet was issued by the bureau.

Fixing of Bread Prices Fills Pockets of Farmer

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Farmers of the United States are reaping the financial rewards occasioned by stabilization of bread and flour prices and the elimination of hoarding and speculation incident thereto.

According to statistics worked out by the federal food administration, the farmer today is receiving 40 per cent of the money paid for the loaf of bread, whereas last year he received less than 20 per cent of the price of the loaf.

Burning Itching Pimples Covered Forehead and Face for 3 Months When Cuticura Healed.

"Pimples covered my forehead and face for nearly three months. They were hard and a deep red and some festered, but most came to a head. They were scattered over my face and forehead and caused great disfigurement. They itched and burned and many times I woke up in the night and could hardly go to sleep with scratching and digging at them. Soon they became big eruptions.

"A friend asked me why I did not use Cuticura so I took her advice and in a week great relief came, and I used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and four cakes of Cuticura Soap when I was entirely healed." (Signed) Miss Ruth McElwain, 302 Sycamore St., Normal, Ill., January 22, 1917.

Cheap soaps, harsh soaps, coarse, strongly medicated soaps are responsible for half the skin troubles in the world. Use Cuticura Soap exclusively for all toilet purposes.

WHY SOCIETY WOMEN WASH THEIR OWN HAIR

They do, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. They have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only. Many of our friends say they get the best results from a simple home-made Canthrox mixture. You can use this at a cost of about three cents a shampoo by getting some Canthrox from your druggist, and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head, as with most preparations. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear in the rinsing water. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you.—Advertisement.

SANTA STORK HAS PROMISED DOLL; IT NEEDS CLOTHES

Sister Ethel Writes for Good Fellow Not to Forget.

Santa Claus is going to stop at Ethel's house—an upstairs, rear flat on the south side—and leave a doll. But Ethel and her three smaller sisters cannot play with it and it won't even have clothes if some Good Fellow doesn't come to the front to substitute for St. Nick.

"I hope you would try and not forget us four little girls," Ethel wrote to Santa Claus. "Papa is not working and mamma said she can't get us anything this year. If you would leave us warm stockings, mitts, underwear, or warm hats or something nice to eat I would be very happy. If not, dear Santa Claus, please don't forget us anyway.

"Mamma said Santa Claus would sure bring us a little baby anyway that would make us happy, but mamma said she won't have any clothes for it to wear, so if you will please don't forget to get the little baby something to wear. I will watch for you at the front door."

Alice Still Wants Dolls.

Some Good Fellow may have the privilege of giving Alice her first—and her last—doll if he is so inclined. She is growing up with her passion for dolls never satiated by one.

"If you could only hear my brothers and little sister say, 'Will Santa Claus be here, Alice?' Please don't disappoint us.

"My daddy don't work much and he has the rheumatism. There are six children in our family. My little baby brother, James, is 1 year old. He is not very strong. If he just had warm shirts and clothes. I am Alice. I am the little mother and I am 12 years old. Mamma says I am too big for a doll, but I want one so bad. Please let me have one for my last doll. Mamma can't make ends meet. Mamma says you won't come way out here, but I know you will, so good bye."

Father Dead, Mamma Working.

A boy with two small brothers needs the help of some Good Fellow, if Christmas for him is to be anything more than bitter disappointment. His father died last May, and his mother is working.

"I asked my mother about Christmas" he said, "and she cried and said some time things will get better. But that time is a long time off. I am going to the war when I get big and I can have everything that I want. But don't tell my mother, for then she will cry some more."

Perhaps some one will enlist in the ranks of the Good Fellows to help this young patriot.

Shoop to Aid Work.

Supt. John D. Shoop will start a movement today to enlist children in the Good Fellow work. At the meeting of high school principals today he will suggest that the school children be urged to take gifts to poor families for the spiritual inspiration they will get from the experience.

"Wherever possible," he said, "children ought to be permitted to help work out the Good Fellow project. Those who intend to mail their gifts or to send the chauffeur should permit their children, or other children, to deliver the Christmas baskets. It will have 10,000 times greater effect in building up the Christmas spirit.

"Let children be the messengers. They will get the benefit of the joy of the poor children who receive the gifts and it will react in a wonderful way to make their own Christmas a joyful one. I have seen children come back from such visits with sparkling eyes and faces that picture the inspiration they received."

Fill Out the Blank Today.

Good Fellows, fill out the blank today. You will be supplied with names of families known to be in need. Your own Christmas cannot be complete without that joyful experience. Follow Supt. Shoop's suggestion. Don't miss the opportunity to visit your "poor family," but take your children with you.

Fill out the blank. Mail it to the Good Fellow bureau, room 1106 Tribune building. Four weeks from today is Christmas, and there is no time to lose.

PROMOTER SUES FOR $50,000.

Suit for $50,000 damages was filed in the superior court yesterday by Henry F. Baker against William L. Phillips, William D. Sprague, Arra H. Makyes, and Joseph Belles. Baker charges the defendants with conspiracy to shut him out of a promoting scheme in which he had been induced to sink between $15,000 and $20,000.

GOOD FELLOWS!

Here's a Form for You to Fill Out—It Will Aid You in Stating Your Plans for Helping the Poor Kids.

If you will be a Good Fellow on Christmas to some family of poor children in Chicago, please fill out the attached blank and send it to "The Tribune," Good Fellow department:

I live at No. ..... street. I will be Santa Claus to.....children (as many as you wish). Please give me the names of children in..... .....(State what section of city you prefer to have assigned to you).

'SOLID SIX' PLANS TO RAISE A PLUM CROP, LOEB HINTS

Talks of School Taxes and of "Big Bill's" Senate Hopes.

Jacob M. Loeb, leader of the school board minority, issued a statement yesterday calling attention to the plan of the "solid six" to secure more money for the board's majority to spend, through an increase in taxes. He discussed school matters and also "Big Bill's" campaign for United State senator, and said the move of the "solid six" may become a "nation-wide scandal."

President Edwin S. Davis has asked that he be permitted to appoint a committee to go to Springfield for the purpose of getting the tax rate increased by the legislature if there should be a special session.

Loeb's Statement.

Mr. Loeb's statement reads, in part:

"When two years ago a similar step was contemplated, I opposed action until after a committee on efficiency and economy had been appointed. After investigation of expenditures it was found that savings were possible so that a sum less than that originally fixed was asked from the legislature.

"If the business of the Chicago public schools were administered in a businesslike and efficient manner, our children would receive a better education, employés would receive larger salaries, with sick benefits, insurance and pensions, besides which, taxpayers would pay less taxes and the board of education would have a surplus at the end of the year.

"In May, 1915, the tax rate was raised by legislative enactment from $1.05 to $1.20. One and one-half millions of dollars additional became available annually for school purposes. Since 1915, by decisions of the courts in the contested lease cases, $840,000 is to be paid the school board for back rent and $350,000 annually added to its income.

Questions New Levy.

"If the tax levy of 1914 was sufficient for every legitimate requirement and if upwards of $2,000,000 more are available this year, what can be the purpose of asking for an additional levy now?

"The friends and advisers of the great 'pro-American' are actively grooming him for the United States senate. The campaign has begun. The contest presently will become spirited and perhaps frenzied.

"That under the régime of the Thompson-Lundin 'solid six' inefficiency has run rampant—that political intrigue has flourished and that some one has senatorial aspirations—these things are known exactly. Hence it may not be amiss for part of an already taxridden public temporarily to divert some of its attention from international events and to keep a vigilant half eye, at least, on the 'steam roller.'

CITY GETS LAST CHANCE TO PAY JACKIES' FARES

Fund to Assure a Real Thanksgiving Will Close Today.

The jackie transportation fund books will close today, and indications are sailors who can leave the Great Lakes station Thanksgiving day will enjoy thousands of dinners prepared in their especial honor in the homes, hotels, and clubs of Chicago.

Yesterday's contributions to THE TRIBUNE fund totaled $253, bringing the grand total sent to pay fares to $744. This and other arrangements made as a result of the appeal will assure 1,000 jackies railroad transportation, in addition to the thousands who will be taken care of by societies and clubs.

Shoop Sends Snowballer Back to Her Principal

Jennie Fortes, the 13 year old girl who was suspended from the Marquette school last week for snowballing, made a visit to Supt. Shoop's office yesterday in an effort to get back to school. Mr. Shoop told her to return to the principal, Miss Mary E. Tobin, and adjust the matter with her. Then he wrote to Miss Tobin stating that he was sure she would do the right thing. The matter is in Miss Tobin's hands, and Jennie will see her today.

Excellent Laxative For Elderly People

As we pass the prime of life the various organs of the body have a tendency to weaken, especially the bowels. Regularity in this important function is so essential to good health that old folks should be very careful to avoid constipation. A congestion of stomache waste in the bowels occasions dizziness, headache, drowsiness after eating, billiousness, belching, bloat, piles, etc., and should be corrected immediately; it is the direct cause of much serious disease.

The most effective remedy for constipation is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs only fifty cents a bottle, is mild in its action, does not gripe or strain, and brings relief quickly in an easy natural manner. Get a bottle of it from your druggist and keep it in the house; it is the ideal family remedy. A trial bottle can be obtained free of charge by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois, for whom this advertisement is published.

GOING TO DROP BOMB ON DAD'S OLD BERLIN HOME

LLOYD LEHRBAS

Lloyd A. Lehrbas, of the editorial staff of THE TRIBUNE, leaves this morning for the east to become one of Uncle Sam's birdmen. He will learn aviation at the Cornell University aviation school, Ithaca, N. Y., but that's only a part of the story.

The Lehrbas home is in Pocatello, Idaho, and his father, L. A. Lehrbas, is one of the best known sporting men of the northwest, holding many records for trapshooting and marksmanship. The elder Lehrbas was born in Berlin and was brought to this country by his parents when 4 years old.

Lloyd, some weeks ago, indited a letter to his father, in substance like this:

"Dear Dad: I've been thinking things over and have bought a couple of Liberty bonds. Also, I have just taken my examination for the aviation corps, which will be news to you. I'm going to fly back to Berlin, where you came from, dad, and drop a bomb somewhere near your old house."

A few days later Lloyd got a letter postmarked Pocatello. It read something like this, "God bless you, son, I'm proud of you." And he inclosed clippings from the Pocatello daily paper which showed that his pride had led to a glorious story in the old home town. A "P. S." to the letter added, "If you need anything wire."

MONTENEGRIN EDITOR ARRESTED.

C. M. Popovich, editor of a newspaper published for Montenegrins in the United States, has been arrested in Detroit, according to a telegram received last night. He is charged with inciting a riot a short time ago at Indiana Harbor while a patriotic meeting was being held.

Boston Garter

Velvet Grip

For your safety, security and comfort, garter fittings of metal are most essential. In the "Boston" these parts are highly nickeled, have smooth, rounded corners and edges and are so protected that they do not come in contact with the skin.

You'll like the "feel" of the smoothly finished metal fittings—they are stout, strong and extremely light.

The Office Boy Takes Your Dictation

You slip the cylinder off The Dictaphone and pass it to him. He carries it to the operator while you are slipping on a fresh cylinder. While the girl starts to type your first letter you continue your dictation. Thus it goes—you dictating—she typing—until your morning mail is completed.

You find that you've reduced the human equation to a minimum; that you have cut out one whole operation in letter-writing—shorthand, a wasteful and costly mode of transcription.

Your letters have to be written only once—on the typewriter. The cost of each letter is cut one-third. No stenographer kept waiting at your desk. All her time goes into typing or other productive office work. She produces at least 50 per cent more each day, yet she finds her work easier than before, because the chief causes of the nerve-strain and eye-strain—shorthand and its transcription—are eliminated.

If your business requires only one stenographer, the saving of time, labor, and money and the facilitation of your correspondence are marked. If you employ a large stenographic force, the all-round savings which are effected by The Dictaphone truly amaze you.

Whenever you make up your mind to take these facts into serious consideration, telephone for a demonstration. Or write to THE DICTAPHONE.

METHODISTS TO RAISE A THREE MILLION FUND

Chicago's Immediate Drive to Be for $500,000.

An immediate drive for $500,000 with an ultimate goal of $3,000,000 for the building of new churches and the reconstruction of others to conform to institutional church work was decided on yesterday at a special meeting of the Chicago Methodist ministers in the First Methodist Episcopal church, Clark and Washington streets. The meeting was held at 9:30 preceding the union ministers' meeting at the same place.

"Keep the Home Fires Burning" will be one of the slogans of the campaign. It was urged that the work to be undertaken was in no sense in contradiction to President Wilson's suggestion for a restriction in building enterprises because the maintenance of efficient administration of the home base in church work is essential for every kind of service.

Need New Churches.

"We need at least twelve new English speaking churches and eight among the foreign populations," said Bishop Thomas Nicholson. "The Negroes have come to Chicago in such large numbers we must have at least two new churches in which to house them.

"To show this increase I refer to a canvass of a certain district eighteen months ago when we found the population was 23 per cent Negro. Last May the canvass was made again and the population was found to be 50 per cent Negro. Two weeks ago the canvass was made again with the result the population was found to be 80 per cent Negro.

"We have sections in Chicago where small churches must be consolidated. In the Humboldt park neighborhood there are four churches which ought to come together and make one strong church. The same may be said of other sections of the city.

Private Solicitation First.

"The plan for rasing the $500,000 is to conduct private solicitation for funds until Jan. 13 and on that Sunday and the following Sunday, Jan. 20, to make an intensive public canvass in all the churches. The larger sum of $3,000,000 is a part of the five year program of $75,000,000 to be undertaken by the home and foreign missionary societies as a centenary offering."

George W. Dixon, Frank Nay, and Perley Lowe are three of the laymen who will coöperate with the ministers in the conduct of the $500,000 campaign.

SALVATION ARMY THREE DAY DRIVE TO RAISE $200,000

The Salvation army announced yesterday a war fund drive which will be made on Dec. 6, 7, and 8. The goal has been set at $200,000.

The drive will be directed by Mrs. Charles Frankenthal, active in the last Liberty loan drive and the allied bazaar, who will be associated with a committee of volunteers composed of prominent citizens.

The State Council of Defense has issued a license for the war fund campaign. The statement of purposes outlined in the license reads:

"The money is to be used for the purpose of erecting hutments at concentration camps; ambulance units to be sent to France, and in addition towards promulgation of the Salvation Army War Service league, whose purposes include:

"(A) Relief of widows and orphans.

"(B) Accommodations for soldiers on furlough and leave of absence.

"(C) Legal aid and general advice department for soldiers and dependents.

"(D) Emergency service to meet any needs which may arise."

STARS OF OPERA GIVE $1,400 FOR NEW AMBULANCE

Campanini Acts to Honor Memory of Brother, Noted Singer.

A great impetus was given the Italian ambulance campaign yesterday when Sig. Cleofonte Campanini, director of the Chicago Opera company, began work in that organization for an ambulance to be named for his brother, Italo Campanini, the world famed tenor of the last generation.

Sig. Campanini has been watching THE TRIBUNE'S campaign to supply ambulances [three have already gone and a fourth fund is just about completed] for his embattled country, and he communicated with the newspaper a few days ago saying that he contemplated assisting by a subscription, to be headed by himself, and circulated among the members of the Chicago Opera company.

$1,400 Subscribed.

This he has already done, with the result tabulated here:

Cleofonte Campanini	$200
Amelita Galli-Curci	200
Rosa Raisa	200
Lucien Muratore	200
Nellie Melba	200
Giulio Crimi	200
Riccardo Stracciari	200

Signor Campanini wishes it understood that the subscription is to be a popular one. He wants the general public admitted with the artists of the company to a share in the enterprise and to that end those who desire to subscribe may send their checks to him at the Auditorium theater.

Whatever sum is subscribed over the cost of the ambulance Signor Campanini will devote to the relief of the Italian refugees from the invaded districts. The checks sent to him will be acknowledged in THE TRIBUNE.

The Joseph Garibaldi ambulance fund is being pushed by a group of Italians with headquarters in the Eli Bates house.

Legler Fund Assured.

The Legler ambulance fund will be complete next week when the Chicago Library club makes good its pledge. It will be held open to enable the club's contribution to reach the object for which it was intended. A subscription of $50 was received yesterday from the Società Figli di Calvello, the officers of which are Giuseppe Masinelli, Nicholas M. Larocco, Michael Salemme, and Michael Larocco. One for $10 came from J. Moffei, president of the Società di Mutuo Soccoso, Maria SS. di Constantinopoli.

In a recently published item it was stated that A. Zaphirio, a manufacturer of cigarets, has not been seen since he went to Turkey for tobacco two years ago. It is now explained that it was Demetrie Zaphirio, buyer for the company, who disappeared, but that the company has in no way suffered by his absence. A. Zaphirio, president of the company, is residing in Athens, Greece, and Peter, his younger brother, is conducting the business of A. Zaphirio & Co.

COUNCIL SHOWS CABARETS WAY TO BETTER LIFE

To Put O. K. on Warbling, but Frowns on the Dance.

Cabarets are to be allowed to live improved lives, but dancing by patrons in cafés is to be barred.

This was presaged yesterday at a meeting of the city council when a proposed ordinance prohibiting all except orchestral entertainment in places where liquor is sold was rereferred to the license committee with instructions to revise it.

The ordinance in question was drawn by the Chicago Brewers' association and is supposed to have the backing of 95 per cent of the saloonkeepers in Chicago. Ald. John Toman, chairman of the license body, announced that the committee wanted to reconsider its approval of the measure and make some changes in it.

To Modify Ordinance.

Ald. Toman said that the committee, which meets this morning, probably would recommend a modification of the brewers' measure. He declared the principal things to be provided for in a new ordinance were:

Prohibition of dancing by patrons.

Elimination of professional hosts and hostesses.

Having all entertainment by professionals to be given from stages.

Permission of ice skating and vaudeville by professionals.

Licensing of all cabarets, fees ranging from $250 to $1,000 annually. Cash bonds of double the license fees to be deposited.

Would Stop Pianos.

"The brewers' measure," said Ald. Toman, "would have stopped mechanical pianos in barrooms."

"They are a nuisance and should be stopped," said Ald. Walkowiak.

"We are trying to get some revenue for the city," said Ald. Toman. "The city has lost about $1,600,000 a year now from the falling off in saloon license fees. I am told that about 1,000 more saloons will go out of business next year."

Fight Over Cab Stand.

The council got into a verbal combat over an amendment to the public cab stand ordinance. The amendment creates twenty-three new and relocates eight public stands in the downtown district.

Ald. John J. Coughlin opposed the amendment, saying he and Ald. Michael Kenna had been denied the right to have property owners heard on the matter.

Ald. William E. Rodriguez and John C. Kennedy, Socialists, declared that the amendment favored only the Shaw and Yellow taxicab companies. Ald. Henry D. Capitain, chairman of the local transportation committee, which recommended the amendment, denied this, saying that the amendment was designed to open up all public stands to all concerns and individuals.

The amendment was rereferred to the local transportation body after a move to transfer the question to the streets and alleys committee was defeated.

To Pass on Improvements.

All questions of public improvements were ordered referred to the home defense committee. Several of the aldermen were opposed to this, saying it would stop all street and alley improvement work. Ald. W. P. Lipps, chairman of the committee, declared that the committee wanted to find what improvements could be dispensed with during the war. To this committee also was referred the scheme of the Chicago plan commission for the improvement of South Water street.

The council was informed that the officials of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad had withdrawn their request for an ordinance to build a fruit and produce terminal at Archer avenue and South Clark street.

Bomb Hero Is Thanked.

Mayor Thompson appointed a committee consisting of Ald. R. H. McCormick, chairman; John A. Richert, M. A. Michaelson, Edward F. Cullerton, Ernest M. Cross, John C. Kennedy, and James Rea to represent the city at the Illinois centennial celebration.

An order was passed asking the city librarian to gather data on what other municipalities are doing toward providing penny lunches in schools.

Resolutions commending Battalion Chief M. J. Corrigan for his activities when a bomb was found at the Auditorium theater were adopted.

Two Postal Clerks Held as Jewelry Thieves

Two clerks in the Canal street substation of the Chicago postoffice were arrested yesterday on charges of stealing jewelry from packages which passed through their hands. It is claimed that they got more than $700 worth of loot, much of which was recovered in their homes. The men arrested are Wardell McCafferty, 838 North Hoyne avenue, and Louis De Leon, 2046 Rice street.

U. S. May Print Theater Tickets with Tax Coupon

Uncle Sam may soon go into the business of printing theater tickets. The object of the government would be to furnish a protection to the public against the boosting of prices by motion picture houses and theaters. The method would be to print the regular ticket with war tax coupon attached. Julius F. Smietanka, collector of internal revenue, told of the plan for advisement yesterday.

MR. ARLISS AS ALEXANDER HAMILTON

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

MR. ARLISS' previous attempts to give a soul to history seemed to be but conventional façades behind which nothing much existed save the orthodox vacuum of the costume theater.

His "Disraeli" was merely a bit of histrionic virtuosity enframed in the transparent devices of the showhouse —"American breakfast food," its author, Mr. Parker, called it. His "Paganini" was similarly an adroit silhouette without dramatic substance. One earned a fortune, the other added to Mr. Arliss' prestige as a brilliant player, and both confirmed him in his passion for biography.

Pursuing this predilection to body forth the tangible heroes of the library, Mr. Arliss is now seen at the Blackstone in an edition of the life of Alexander Hamilton. That picturesque statesman is caught and high-lighted at the period when he was fathering the waif of American finance, battling against Jefferson, Monroe, and several minor Continental figures, to centralize the government of the ramshackle nation, and to make stable the unsteady basis of federal economics. The result is more than an interesting biographical play, possessing the essential mediocrities. It is also spicy memoirs peopled, strange to say, by characters so credible that "they who live in history only, seem to walk the earth again."

The above impression is recorded, of course, with the usual reservations. There is no feat of acting so difficult as that which calls for the impersonation of a character imbedded by tradition in the popular mind. Mr. Carl Anthony's picture of Thomas Jefferson thus may be regarded as too showy an exhibition of excessive democracy, and Mr. John D. Ravold's idea of the less familiar Gov. Giles, may be looked upon as a suspicuously actorial delineation of rascality.

The governor's proud Virginian progeny, at any rate, believed it to be so, for they protested with great asperity against a defamation of their ancestral memories, only to be put down by the wily Mr. Arliss with copious extracts from the historians. Considering, however, that the characters are acted by actors, they are to be commended as well done—particularly the sympathetic rôle of Talleyrand by Mr. Dudley Digges and that of James Monroe in prudent outline by Mr. Hardee Kirkland.

To give action to the tale of "Hamilton," clay feet have been dug up by authentic research and put upon the hero. It seems that, Mrs. Hamilton being abroad, the lonely and romantic Alexander was ensnared by his enemies into an intimacy with a Mrs. Reynolds, a blonde and placid vampire of the early days. Knowledge of this intrigue was used by his opponents in the controversy over the Assumption bill, and in that over the site of the Capital, to bring him to terms.

So we have the little lion's claws explicably extracted in a winning scene between him and the nice adventuress, seductively portrayed by an opalescent Miss Jeanne Eagels, who has marvelously improved since she used to be the heroine of the androgynous exploits of Mr. Julian Eltinge. Later we see Hamilton at bay, surrounded in his home by such imposing giants as Chief Justice Jay, Jefferson, Monroe, his father-in-law, Gen. Schuyler, the rowdy and malicious Giles, confessing his transgressions and sacrificing wife and reputation for what he believes to be the good of his native land.

Here, as elsewhere, Mr. Arliss is the finished actor of a well considered rôle, giving it the urbane ardor, the capacity, resourcefulness, humor, energy, and enthusiasm believed to be the attributes of the gigantic stripling. He is eloquent enough in pointing the qualities of the character to make unnecessary the mawkish and theatrical interpolation of the starving soldier's wife and babe, though that dejected female is most discreetly played by Miss Elsa Frederic. His lines are human, for a hero, indicating his patrician nature, and they are spoken with Mr. Arliss' facility for giving verisimilitude to the written word. Mrs. Arliss is pleasant as Mrs. Hamilton, who, though hurt and angry at her husband's little liason, is forbearing at the end. This end is a grand chorus of eulogy for the soiled idol, showing Hamilton admired by his adversaries and his measures triumphantly approved.

In quite the wittiest curtain speech of many seasons Mr. Arliss benignly chided the members of the Hamilton club who were in attendance, and spoke in defense of the history in the play which is by him and Mrs. Mary P. Hamlin.

GOODWIN ADMITS BILL FROM WIFE; NOT DIVORCE BILL

But, "Presuming" That He Should Lose Fifth, He's Through.

For it came to pass, when Solomon was old, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods.

Nat Goodwin and his mansion of many goddesses is in the public prints again. It is the obvious subject. Mr. Goodwin is playing in Chicago and the most recent of the Mmes. Goodwin is in the east. Mr. Goodwin says she is in their apartment in New York. Kind friends say she is in Maine.

The present Mrs. Goodwin is Miss Marjorie Moreland of the stage. She is the fifth of her title as they say in Burke's Peerage, and Mr. Goodwin is 60 years old. Last night he declined to permit an interview "back stage" in the theater in which he is appearing. But he was intercepted at his hotel.

He was reminded that the public for many years has considered his matrimonial affairs proper breakfast food. With a sage wag of his head he said he knew it only too well.

Questioned as to Divorce.

"Have you heard anything of a rumor that you are about to be sued for divorce—again?" he was asked.

"I really can't answer that," he replied. "I haven't heard from Mrs. Goodwin since last night. I had a telegram." This last was uttered dolefully.

"Was the news bad?"

"Very bad," he said. "It was the statement of my household expenses for the month."

"Then diplomatic relations are not strained?"

"Not in the last twenty-four hours. But women are highly temperamental. Many things may happen in twenty-four hours."

"If it is fair to presume, Mr. Goodwin, let us presume the story of the projected divorce is true. Would you marry again?"

He's Had Enough.

Mr. Goodwin wagged his head again. "Never," he said, "I have had enough. I am a simple, trusting man who knows when his cup is full."

He smiled a gentle little smile and then stuck out his hand and warmly shook that of the interviewer. "But," he said, "I'll let you know if anything happens. So long." And he was gone.

Attempts to reach Mrs. Marjorie Moreland Goodwin were unsuccessful last night. While she was said to be in her New York apartment, telegrams were unanswered.

Council Espouses Cause of Striking Children

The city council yesterday came to the defense of the children of the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades of the Jones school who went on a strike when the school board sent them to the Haven school. It approved a resolution submitted by the mothers of the children asking the board to rescind the action of the superintendent. A copy of the resolution will be sent to every school board member. The question is to be considered by the school administration committee at its next meting.

"All the children are at the Haven school," said W. L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education, "and the affair seems to be settled."

Five Sisters Seek Home for Eight Year Old Girl

Five sisters of little Georgia Beatrice Wilson, 8 years old, are willing to sacrifice the greater portion of their interest in the little girl if she may have a permanent home and grow up in a domestic environment.

Georgia lives in Des Moines. Miss Miriam Wilson, 5009 Grand boulevard, Chicago, is leading in the effort to provide her younger sister with a permanent home.

All her life the little girl has been passed from sister to sister every few months. For this reason the sisters asked THE TRIBUNE to locate a childless couple in Chicago who might wish to adopt a little girl.

MOVIE OF A CERTAIN KIND OF PATRIOT

4 BANDITS ROB SALOON OF $700; SHOOT OPPONENT

Four thieves drove up in an automobile yesterday to the saloon of William Mitchell, 1472 Indiana avenue, relieved him of $700 and shot one of the patrons who showed fight.

Abraham Meyers of 1615 South St. Louis avenue grappled with one of the thieves as they were leaving the saloon. Meyers had his man down when one of the other thieves shot him twice—in the head and in the abdomen. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital and then to his home. He will recover, it was said, last night.

Apparently the thieves knew considerable money was on hand to cash checks for employés of the Illinois Central railroad, and where it was kept. They went behind the cigar case to a box in which it was hidden. After the robbery they drove away in an automobile.

A coroner's jury yesterday commended Detective Sergeant Michael Twohig of the Hyde Park station and also exonerated him of all blame in connection with the shooting and killing of Claude McGillicuddy of 2101 West Fifty-fourth street. McGillicuddy and two others attempted to hold up Twohig last Wednesday.

Automobile thieving spread to all parts of the city Saturday and Sunday, twenty-three cars being stolen.

May License Ice Cream Parlors Same as Saloons

Ice cream "parlors" should pay the same license fees as saloons, Ald. Herman Krumdick declared yesterday before a subcommittee of the city council license committee. It was stated that there are 14,000 "parlors" in the city.

The subcommittee directed the law department to draw up an ordinance licensing ice cream places. The plan is to have the larger of these places pay $1,000 annual license fees.

Drug stores which have soda fountains also may be taxed.

Attorney Joseph Burres Still Critically Ill

Physicians said last night that only a slight improvement had been noted during the week in the critical condition of Attorney Joseph R. Burres, ill in his apartments at the Del Prado hotel. He is suffering from acute rheumatism.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis., is among the schools tributary to Rockford, Ill., that are authorized by the war department to prepare and recommend men for the third officers' training camp.

This school was omitted from the list of such institutions printed in a Camp Grant dispatch in THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 11.

The issue of Nov. 21, telling of the Gemmill-Cermak inbroglio, quoted Alexander Bromberg, 3637 South Halsted street, as testifying that Butler Brothers had levied on his store for a debt of $238.

Mr. Bromberg says that what he testified was that he and Butler Brothers levied on the store of Julius Weinstock, 3631 South Halsted street—he for $48, and Butler Brothers for $238.

WHEED'S BATTLE WITH POLICE IS TOLD AT TRIAL

First Deputy Superintendent of Police Wesley Westbrook took the stand yesterday in the trial of Edward T. Wheed, Charles Carrao, and Walter Therien, charged with murdering two express messengers in the Winslow Brothers pay roll robbery Aug. 28, and told the story of Wheed's fight against 200 policemen.

"Wheed, barricaded in the cottage in Thomas street, called to me before he surrendered," said Westbrook, "and made me promise that he would not be hanged. He said, 'My mother's a good woman and I don't want to hang on account of her.'"

Several times during the day Wheed leaped from his chair as though to attack witnesses and had to be restrained by the bailiff who has sat beside him constantly since the trial began.

William L. Sullivan, secretary to First Assistant State's Attorney Michael F. Sullivan, testified that in reply to a question put by him as to why Wheed had so many rifles, shotguns, and ammunition, Wheed had answered:

"I kept these so in case the flying squadron ever got after me I could blow their engine to pieces and if that didn't work I could kill a policeman at a mile distant."

LIBRARY BOARD HEAD HONORED.

Alfred E. Barr, president of the Chicago public library board, was presented with a gold star by the members of the board at their meeting last evening. A dinner to the members followed the presentation.

BROTHER'S CRY IS JUST IN TIME TO STAY KNIFE

When one nods politely to the Stygian boatman and takes one's seat in his transpurgatory skiff one has an alternative; either one's friends shed a patient tear and then see which can get back from the cemetery first, or one passes unwept and wends his unshriven way to the dissecting room. Amos Esparion passed unwept.

A thoughtful Aesculapian, seeking to become learned in the healing art, stood yesterday in the dissecting room of the anatomy department of the University of Chicago. In his hand he held poised a keen knife. A thoughtful cast adorned his classic phiz and he observed first the keen edge of his blade and then the veiled mystery of the cosmos. Slowly the hand yielded to the erudite design of science and descended.

"Hold!!!" Three exclamation points emphasize the vigor of the word. Framed in the doorway stood George Esperion, brother of Amos, who died more than a week ago in the Oak Forest infirmary.

Amos Esperion will be regularly buried today.

Mystery: Of Course SHE Wasn't the Casus Belli

Loophounds will be piqued to know that:

Last night in the drug store of the New Morrison hotel, at Clark and Madison, there were two young fellows and a pretty girl. The one who was not with the pretty girl approached the other quite unexpectedly with a haymaker to the jaw.

Haymakers, uppercuts, etc., thereupon waxed with great abandon until a 4-11 call for the house detectives brought abatement. One of the young fellows was lifted out to the sidewalk on the toe of a house detective's No. 13 and the other was spirited into the inner recesses of the hotel. No names were obtainable.

Merry Christmas Awaits Baby Who Can Be Spared

Mrs. Jack Fred Waif of 6641 South Peoria street wants to know if there is a girl of 2 or 3 years old who could be spared for the holidays. Mrs. Waif wants to give such a young person a merry Christmas and she wants the recipient of the entertainment to remain until her hostess completes the Yuletide entertainment planned.

OWL

Husband Who Stayed Out All Night Also Termed Ananias.

LILLIAN R. KOFERTS, 595 Hackett avenue, Milwaukee, ascended the witness stand in Judge Fitch's court yesterday and told the court of her marital troubles with Ben Koferts, haberdasher, at 51 Jackson boulevard. Mrs. Koferts said Ben stayed out all night.

"He told such beautiful, beautiful lies," she said. Two detectives related stories of pajama parties. Judge Fitch signed a decree.

Lenora Huebner, 2116 Melrose street, sat on the witness stand.

Q.—What happened between you and Frank? A.—He struck me.

Q.—Where? A.—In the closet.

Judge Fitch signed a decree.

New suits filed:

Marie Potgiesser, 1522 Cleveland avenue, asserts Alexander "blackened her eyes."

Clara L. Eddy charges Phillips with infidelity.

Ella Alexander Sheeley avers that Thomas "kept her hungry."

PATRIOTISM TO MAKE CITY DRY, LEADER THINKS

Patriotism, the support of the dry Chicago movement and the Billy Sunday revival campaign were linked together in an address last evening by Daniel A. Poling, associate president of the United Societies of Christian Endeavor, in the Sixth Presbyterian church, Vincennes avenue and Twenty-sixth street. At the conclusion of the address thirty-five new volunteers were secured to circulate petitions to put the dry question on the ballot next spring.

"If we get enough names to put the question on the ballot and educate the people until next March, Billy Sunday will do the rest," said Dr. R. R. Bigger, pastor of the church.

"Patriotism begins at home," said Mr. Poling. "I feel suspicious of the man who talks about international relations but who is not ready to spring to the defense of his own country. To save the world we must first save America."

GIRL MOURNS MISSING DOG.

Miss Adelaide Slipmer, 1406 Hood avenue, is mourning over the disappearance of "Bill." "Bill" is a fox terrier, black and tan, with four white feet, and a white star on his breast. He disappeared Nov. 1.

MAJOR IS SURE HEALEY KNEW OF VICE IN CITY

Funkhouser Testifies He Talked Over Reports with Ex-Chief.

Charles C. Healey had a direct knowledge of vice conditions in Chicago while he was head of the police department, according to evidence offered yesterday in Judge Sabath's court. Mr. Healey and two co-defendants are on trial there on the charge of conspiring to accept bribes from resort and gambling house keepers.

Maj. M. L. C. Funkhouser, second deputy superintendent of police, testified that his former superior was informed of vice law violations. Although the trial is entering its seventh week, this is the first testimony indicating that the chief had complaints of violations drawn to his personal attention.

With the appearance of the major the former chief laid aside the lethargy that has characterized him since the beginning of the hearings, and was an alert listener.

The Major's Statement.

The defense again took the tack of placing the responsibility on Mayor Thompson. The major appeared to be no unwilling witness. He said he had forwarded daily reports upon vice conditions to Healey. When Attorney John J. Healy, of counsel for the former chief, tried to get Mr. Funkhouser to say he did not know Mr. Healey had personally seen these reports, the major told of discussing some of them with Healey.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Johnston Jr. succeeded in having read into the record many of the vice reports which the major stated he had forwarded to the chief. Attorney Charles E. Erbstein objected to their introduction on behalf of Detective Sergeant Stephen J. Barry and William R. Skidmore. The court sustained this objection and instructed the jury the reports should be admitted as evidence against the former chief alone. The reading of these reports required hours and a night session was held to let the jury hear them.

Identifies Reports.

The major identified the reports of his investigators, which he swore were sent to former Chief Healey. He also testified that police officers were taken away from him and that experienced investigators were replaced by inefficient men.

Attorneys Clarence S. Darrow and Erbstein stopped their questioning only when Judge Sabath refused to allow them to drag forth the movie censorship skeletons.

When Mr. Erbstein asked who was the final arbiter of films, the major retorted, "The chief of police." The hottest tilt came when Attorney Erbstein asked the witness if it was not true that he had drunk liquor at Vogelsang's and the Bismarck garden after closing hours.

Mr. Johnston was on his feet shouting objections, Erbstein was repeating his query, the court was voicing remonstrances, but the major paid no attention. High above all the turmoil came his explosive answer: "No; absolutely, no."

Cross Examination.

Attorney Healy was the first to take the witness on cross examination. He questioned the witness as follows:

Q.—When your old investigators were discharged were the new appointments made by Mr. Healey? A.—Yes.

Q.—Don't you know that the appointments were made under the orders and by the direction of the mayor? A.—No, I didn't know that.

Q.—Didn't you learn that all of those men who succeeded the discharged inspectors were named by the mayor? A.—No. He always said he was the general superintendent and was running the department.

Q.—Didn't you know that City Attorney Francis was the political sponsor for one man? A.—Yes, I know he spoke to me about one man.

Q.—Didn't you know that other men were political appointees? A.—I strongly suspected it.

Investigator Takes Stand.

Israel Buckowsky, an investigator in Maj. Funkhouser's office, was the only other witness of the day. On Saturday he testified on vice conditions during the incumbency of the former chief. He was cross-examined for hours, chiefly by Attorney Erbstein.

The witness readily admitted that he was wise when it came to vice conditions in Chicago, that he liked to shake an occasional dice game, and that he was not averse to taking a hand at hearts in a cigar store after he had knocked off his vice inquiry labors. He also admitted a fondness for attending prize fights, and said he knew by sight 95 per cent of Chicago's women of the streets.

The witness admitted he had been arrested in a gambling raid after he had been discharged from the morals squad during the former chief's régime. He added that it was a raid on a stud poker game at Sol Von Praag's at 2222 South Wabash avenue.

Lookout Fell Asleep.

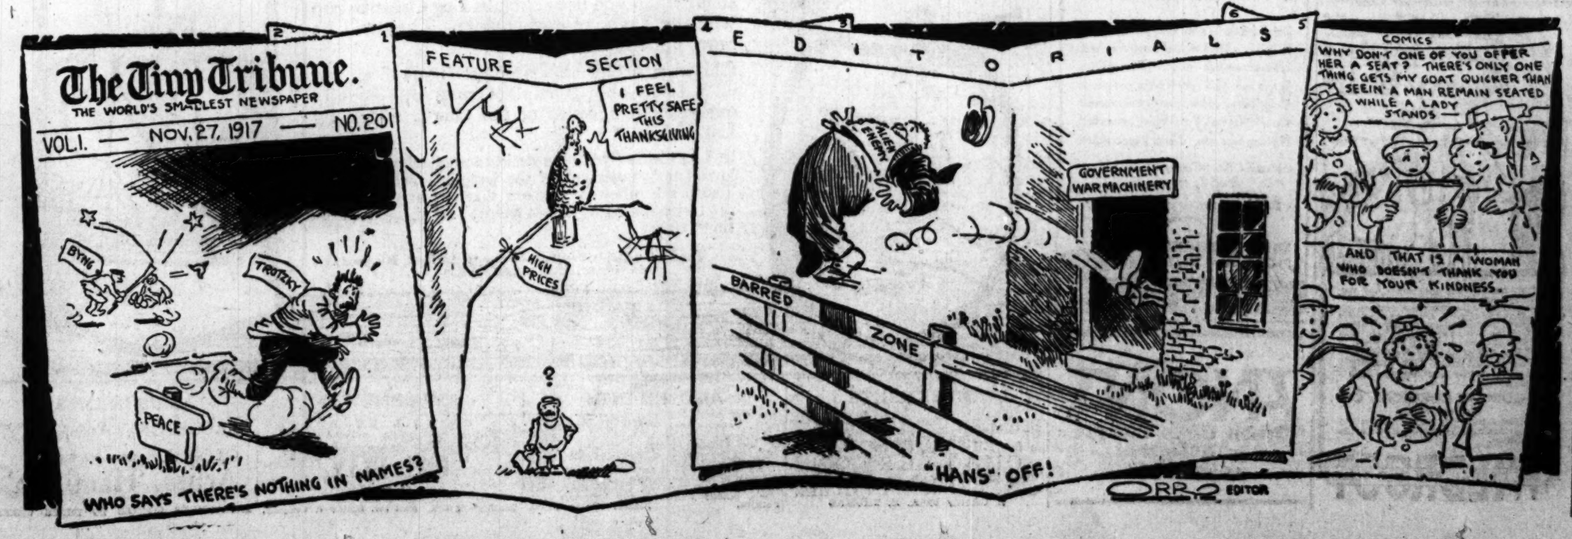
"How did the police get in? Did they knock the doors down, or what?" asked Erbstein.

"The lookout went to sleep," Buckowsky said, in a disgusted tone.

Q.—Were you tried in court? A.—No, I forfeited my bonds.

Q.—Who furnished your bond? A.—Ike Roderick.

Mr. Erbstein asked the witness if he had not lost $400 recently gambling. Buckowsky eyed the attorney for nearly a minute with a surprised look and said, "Why, I never had that much money."



FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Describing a new gown nowadays depends so largely upon whether you stand on the east or west side of the wearer. Here in this gown, for instance—a charming creation of Premet's—there is a strong inclination of the right hand not to let the left hand know what it is about.

Take the collar. Narrow on the left side, it bursts out on the other like a rose that has just sniffed the sun. Take the bodice. That in most frocks of this character would be of a solid material. Here the blue satin opens to divide the front panel of gray serge. For the rest, the model contents itself with sleeves which are the same on both sides and these are the three-quarter ones of which we have seen so much this year. Blue braid is used as the sole decoration, and at the crossing of the girdle there hangs a long tassel of blue silk.

Altogether, here is a frock which will fit in all sorts of occasions. It may be worn in the morning or in the afternoon and it is none too elaborate for the business girl.

Nowadays skates rattle against the knitting needles of those capacious bags which every woman carries. And one sees a wonderful variety of new skating blouses. These are intended for wear over the ordinary blouse and, as they are really much more decorative than the sweaters which they supplant, the rinks record any number of such choices.

One of such concoctions is of wool jersey in iron gray with a shoulder yoke, high collar and cuffs of crocheted wool in ever so many gay colors. It is made on straight, loose fitting lines and is confined by a girdle of jersey with crocheted edges.

Just in Time.

I was born in London and brought up in a well-to-do English home with parents who were most anxious for me to make a good match. According to a custom prevalent among Europeans, they engaged me early in my teens to a wealthy and titled German who, although of high birth and good breeding, was almost twice my age. Try as I would, I could not bring myself to love him.

The idea of such a marriage began to prey on my mind so much that I decided to come to America on a visit in order to fight it out for myself. The impatient lover followed, and, to please my family, I reluctantly consented to a wedding here.

A week before it was to have taken place England declared war on Germany, and that, coupled with the terrible stories of the invasion of Belgium, made me realize that I could never be happy with a member of the race that could do such things, especially as my fiancé insisted that Germany was right "and would never fail in her undertaking to conquer."

One evening, at a dinner given for us, I met a fine young American, who seemed horrified at the step I was about to take, and he talked to me so kindly and convincingly that I was soon fired with enough courage to risk all displeasure and break the engagement.

I became engaged to the American shortly afterward, and I am soon to have the honor of proving my loyalty to the allies and the Stars and Stripes by lending my husband to Uncle Sam for service in the aviation corps.

Better Days Are Coming.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 16, in love with a boy who does not care for me. Please find me a nice, steady friend to take his place, as I am very lonesome. L. V."

I am very sorry that I cannot find "a nice, steady friend" for you, but I think you have a good deal of sense to look for the cure of unrequited love in another. However, my dear child, you have all the time in the world to wait. I am sure some one will turn up one of these days, and that everything will be rosy for you again.

Sunshine Breath of Life to the Hair; Use it A-Plenty!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

M. B. S.: GIVE YOUR HAIR A SUN bath whenever possible, for sunshine is the breath of life to the hair, and more especially so when the locks are blonde. The following shampoo is also an effective means of preserving the golden tint: Shave a small cake of pure white castile soap into a pint of boiling water and let it stand until thick. Add a few drops of rosewater before it thickens. Wet your hair so that the jelly will adhere. Then rub until a lather forms. To the first water add a raw egg well beaten and the juice of half a lemon. Rinse the hair thoroughly. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall mail you the directions for facial massage as well as the formula for an excellent skin food.

CLUB NOTES

The drama as a cure for juvenile delinquency was the subject discussed at a meeting of the junior department of the Drama league in the county building yesterday. Joel D. Hunter, chief probation officer, urged the need for plays for children to combat the restless spirit of the times and provide for the natural histrionic taste of the child.

"The children take the war fever as well as their elders," he said. "The legislature has repealed the law forbidding them to purchase firearms. Juvenile delinquency has increased at least 25 per cent since the war began. Anything which will keep them interested and provide them with safe and wholesome recreation should be encouraged. All children love to dress up and act and I think that what the Junior Drama league is attempting is of the greatest value."

A fireless and meatless luncheon will be served to the members and friends of the Tuesday morning citizenship class at the Woman's City club at 12 today.

There will be a meeting of the Chicago Political Equality league committee on war letters, of which Mrs. Jean Wallace Butler is chairman, in the Congress hotel at 2 o'clock today. Mrs. Butler will arrange to have every soldier and sailor on her list have a Christmas letter from some member of this committee.

The pageant "Times and Manners" by Ella W. Peattie will have two presentations at the Studebaker theater, Dec. 4 and 6, under the auspices of the Chicago Woman's club.

Cream of Carrot Soup.

Milk or cream soups are not quite a universal panacea for all distempers, but nearly. When one is fatigued there is nothing better for them than a cream soup. Cream soups are invaluable when one has a cold or any other mucous trouble. Cream soups give the best sort of nourishment when we have but weak digestive powers, no matter what the occasion.

This is all said with the proviso, "if they are well cooked." Most of the cream soups are thickened in making, but not all need be. To save butter when we are using a good whole milk we may use a teaspoon of granulated tapioca to each cup of milk, cooking the two together until the tapioca is clear or gelatinized before adding the strained or mashed vegetable for a finish. A little butter or cream finally enriches the soup to taste, and calorically.

A cream of carrot soup is easy to make because the milk does not need to be thickened. Plain hot milk added to the mashed carrot is all that is necessary. But the carrot must be cooked in the most agreeable sort of a way. It may be steamed and mashed or cooked in the way glazed carrots are. When carrots are to be steamed they do not need to be scraped first, since when they are cooked the skin may be so easily slipped off with the back of the knife. Mashed carrots seasoned with a little butter, salt, and pepper, and possibly a little onion juice, are a superfine vegetable.

To glaze carrots for no end of different services scrape, wash, and slice thin a bunch of carrots, add a tablespoon of sugar, a tablespoon or two of clarified beef dripping if you cannot afford butter, and a half cup of cold water and cook until tender over a minimum of fire after the water once boils. People do add as much as a pint of water and cook it all away in a half hour with the cover off. For some uses a meat stock replaces the water.

Simply mash these carrots and add milk until they are of the right consistency for a soup of the right thickness. Much more milk can be added if the whole of the carrot is used, but a soup of perhaps finer appearance can be made if it is finally put through a strainer.

On meatless days we will be well fed if we eat cream soups and good solid starchy dishes like rice with vegetables. The potato dishes are less solid, but with cream or cheese can be brought up to a high nutritive power.

To try to get on by eating a greater bulk of vegetables on our meatless day if we do not know how to combine them is not satisfactory. "A dinner of herbs" may mean a sleepless night, without a realization of why, if the herbs are not judiciously combined. With milk or rice ideally comfortable as well as nourishing dishes can be made.

Any man or woman who has a sleepless night should think over what he had to eat the day before, perhaps for several days before. But people who keep themselves in good trim do not need to think back far. Too bulky an intestinal content is a frequent cause of sleeplessness. No one needs to try the experiment more than a few times to avoid such dinners.

By Mae Tinée.

She married a scientist, readers, mind;
Not Christian, my dears, the other kind.
He was well set up, wore tailored clothes,
And tied his ties in the proper bows.
Had nice manners and loved her true:
I think he sounds pretty good—don't you?
Well, so did she—his brand new wife—
And she wanted to share with him his life,
Not just be petted—as in a story.
She wanted to work in his lab'ratory
And stew and measure and stir and fuss
And muss in the way that chemists muss.
But her husband—an old fashioned man—
Simpally could NOT see this plan.
He told her—she thought him most inhuman—
That he wanted a wife who was "just plain woman."

The years passed by, and the baby came.
He looked like dad and had daddy's name.
Then into her life there came another,
A man—and the man looked good to mother.
Because from the moment she shook his hand
She felt here was ONE who COULD understand. (He did!)
Well, things got into an awful tangle,
Resolving into the old triangle;
Till finally, pleading a "hungry heart,"
Wife told husband they twain must part.
They did. But once the divorce was granted,
The two were by old memories ha'nted.
So, calmly ejecting the erstwhile lover,
They decided to once more try each other.

Of domestic tangles there are many,
And this kind is just as good as any
To umpire.
Miss Frederick, beautiful to see,
Agonizes artistically.
Her husband, the scientist, knows his duty
And does it well—although no beauty.
The villain with him does not compare,
The little kiddie I thought a "bear."
It's pretty well acted most of the time
—Which is all I can say, as I've run out of rhyme.

WOMEN IN WARTIME

Registration reports are still coming in at the headquarters of the woman's committee, and still the line of registrants forms each morning before the window on the first floor of 120 West Adams street.

The women were jubilant yesterday over the registration record of a Swedenborgian community at Glen View, where every able bodied man in the town volunteered, so that there was no one to go when the draft came, and every woman registered and signed the food pledge. The men whose physical condition made it impossible for them to join the army or navy are all serving the country in other ways, it is stated, and everybody in the town has a garden.

The latest registration statistics are: Chicago, 127,402; downstate, 146,874.

The downstate reports come from 282 units. There are in all 1,036 units, leaving 754 to be heard from.

Registration collections:

Chicago	$12,657.85
Illinois outside of Chicago	10,742.22
Total	$23,399.97

Almost everybody is entertaining jackies for Thanksgiving. Among the clubs entertaining is the Chicago College club, which has asked fifty men from Great Lakes to dinner at 6 p. m. in the Stevens building.

The Stage Woman's War Relief, with headquarters in the Illinois theater, has been secured by the Drama league for an entertainment at Great Lakes.

Miss Harriet Vittum will leave Saturday for Clinton, Ia., to address the woman's committee of the State Council of Defense of Iowa on the work of the Illinois committee. Miss Vittum speaks today at the morning meeting at the Woman's City club and at the Swedenborgian parish house, Forty-sixth street and Woodlawn avenue.

The volunteer department of the Central Council of Social Agencies has merged with the social service department of the Council of National Defense, so that in future all volunteer work will be handled by the one committee. This announcement was made at a meeting at the Woman's City club yesterday.

Dr. Rachel Watkins will speak on food conservation at the Altgeld school at 2:30 today, and Miss Estelle Ward will address the Herbert Spencer school at 2:30 p. m.

The finance committee of the woman's committee is to have from four to eight booths at the Coliseum Christmas festival, Dec. 14 to 24. The proceeds will be used to finance the work of the woman's committee.

To meet the demands of the many workers who have registered for service, the Red Cross auxiliary of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnæ will keep open its rooms, in the Atlas building, on Mondays and Tuesdays, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Mrs. James D. Murphy is chairman of the knitting committee, and Miss Lydia Donoghue of the sewing committee.

The Red Cross Junior Auxiliary of the Burroughs School, 3542 South Washtenaw avenue, is doing some excellent work, having turned in recently forty-eight garments for refugee children, and it reports that some 200 garments will soon be ready for delivery.

Mrs. Philip Schuyler Doane, director of the department of surgical dressings of Chicago chapter, Red Cross, will leave for Washington, D. C., on Thanksgiving day to spend a week with her husband, Maj. Doane, who is the head of a sanitary board in connection with the United States shipping board.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Billy's favorite toy is a little battered dog made of cloth which is called Sport. This dog's permanent occupation is sitting on his hind legs. The other day I was about to take Billy for a walk. We had just started when he asked if he might go back to get Sport. Sport having joined us, the three of us had gone scarcely a block when Billy seeming to notice for the first time that his pet was forever seated, said: "O, I guess I'll take Sport back; no use of him going with us, he's only got two walkers." C. C.

"Henry, did you go to the dentist this morning?"

"Yes, mother, but the dentist is out of town; his accomplice filled my tooth." H. A. T.

My little niece, who has always bemoaned the fact that her hair is straight, inquired of her mother last night, "Mother, why didn't you order me with curly hair." C. H. C.

Thrill in Report of Work Done for Little Invalids.

BY CINDERELLA.

One doesn't very often get thrills, does one, from reading annual reports of institutions and things? But just now I was reading Mrs. William Chalmers' annual report as president of the Country Home for Convalescent Children at Prince's Crossing and, really, was quite as 'xciting as fiction.

When you come to think of a place way out in the country, started only six years ago, for little sick cripples and what it has become in those few years you realize that somebody has done a lot of hard, untiring, never ending work.

The buildings now cover the space of a city block and have ninety-six acres of farm besides. Twelve fine cows attend to their knitting, and the vegetables and fruits have not only fed the little invalids all summer but are now standing in soldierly conservational rows on the storeroom shelves in glass.

Personally, I was interested to hear about all the benevolent millionaires who've been putting up annexes and new buildings for the Country Home this year: Dick Crane has built a most lovely manual training school in memory of Eliza Prentice Crane. Here it is that the crippled boys are making all the wonderful things you'll see next Tuesday at the Congress in the Elizabethan room.

Then Ogden Armour has put up a perfect modern isolation hospital to prevent the spread of germ diseases among the children. Mr. Armour has named it "Lolita Armour cottage."

Miss Clara Cudahy and Miss Marion Ward have collaborated on a girls' playroom and sun parlor, very lovely indeed. A large fund, raised eighteen months ago, when they had the old war songs and dances at the auditorium, has been turned into a separate heating plant and laundry, for safety.

Mrs. Chalmers, evidently a believer in youth, has gathered together a youthful board, full of ideas and energy. Some of her trustees are Mrs. Philip Armour III., Miss Lolita Armour, Miss Birch, Miss Edith Blair, Mrs. John Borden, Mrs. John Carpenter, Mrs. Frederick Countiss, Miss Conover, Mrs. Hugh Johnston, Mrs. Joseph Cudahy, Mrs. George Griffin, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Howard Spaulding Jr., Mrs. Mark Willing, Mrs. Norman Williams and Mrs. Schweppe.

These women and p'raps twenty more who make the full board, have arranged a Thanksgiving sale next Tuesday at the Congress, when the children's work is to be sold. The girls embroider and sew and knit charmingly.

Mrs. Jim Thorne says their output is as beautiful as the woman's exchange work, which, as everybody knows, is Mrs. Thorne's pet hobby. This year, however, the boys have also themselves proud, having the new Crane Manual Training school to work in.

Three extraordinary submarines have been made by them, submarines that are submersible and stay under three minutes. Then there's an aeroplane that really flies. Men of the board are already offering huge sums like $25 apiece for these miniature war machines—but nothing will be sold before next Tuesday.

The boys make animals, too, and wagons and dolls' furniture and boxes and lots of nice things. Last year it was all sold in the forenoon, everything was so nice.

The children themselves bank a fifth of the proceeds, while the remainder goes towards supplies for another year.

Three of these boys at the home, half paralyzed, are now fully self-supporting.

Sometimes I think this is the age of miracles after all. And what a great day for the boys when Leftenant Thomas Chalmers writes them from the front in France!

Marriages.

The marriage of Miss Fannie Beatrice Meyers, daughter of Mrs. John James Meyers of Oak Park, to Ernest Braman Norton will take place on Thursday evening in Grace Episcopal church.

Miss Madeline Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jennings Smith of 44 East Schiller street, will be married Saturday evening to Dr. Frederick Christopher at the residence of her parents. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. John Timothy Stone. Dr. Christopher is a lieutenant in the medical officers' reserve corps.

Book Shower for Soldiers.

Books and periodicals for soldiers in cantonments were given by members of the Chicago Culture club at a book shower in the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

Miss Leonora Hoyne

Leonora Hoyne to Wed Instructor at Fort Sheridan

The betrothal of Miss Lenora Hoyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Hoyne of 120 East Twenty-first street, to Capt. Raymond Seward Anderson of Detroit, became known to their friends yesterday. Miss Hoyne has been active in Red Cross work in Highland Park, where the family summer place is, and has for years been a member of the Service club, of which she was president for a year.

Capt. Anderson was at the first reserve officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan and was instructor at the second camp at the fort. Plans for the wedding are uncertain and depend on the orders Capt. Anderson will receive. But it probably will take place within a few days at Highland Park.

Mrs. John A. Orb of 2901 Michigan avenue will be hostess this morning to a group of literary women to meet her sister-in-law, Mrs. William S. Young, whose poems are published under her maiden name, Ruth Comfort Mitchell. Mrs. Orb will serve luncheon to her guests.

Miss Lolita Armour entertained a small number of guests yesterday at luncheon at the Blackstone hotel; other luncheon parties were those of Charles L. Freer of Detroit, Mich., who is in the city with the Chinese paintings now on exhibit at the Art institute; Mrs. Herbert E. Schwarz and Mrs. Orville E. Babcock. Maj. and Mrs. W. C. F. Nicholson, the latter formerly Miss Ermina Carey, were dinner hosts at the Blackstone in the evening. The Second battalion at Fort Sheridan held a banquet last evening at the hotel, when there were 100 guests.

A benefit bridge party will be given this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick of 631 Rush street. The proceeds will be used for the purchase of waistcoats made of kid, which are to be sent to American aviators in France.

Mrs. E. W. Pardridge of 3200 South Michigan avenue has taken the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Carry at 1100 Lake Shore drive.

An informal dance will be given by the Phi Gamma sorority at the Lincoln park casino tomorrow evening.

A ball will be given on Friday evening at the Virginia hotel for the members of base hospital unit No. 11, who are awaiting their call to service, which is expected to come soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Peabody have returned to Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Worth Jackson are in Washington for the winter.

The annual pound party for the benefit of the Home for Destitute Children will be held today from 10 until 5 o'clock.

Moose Thanksgiving Ball.

The Albany Park lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, will give the first of a series of balls at the Huntinghouse academy, Kedzie avenue, near Lawrence, on Thanksgiving night.

Camp Football Boxes Will Be Sold at Opera

Intermissions at the opera tonight will be marked by clamorous biddings for boxes for the football game to be played on Saturday afternoon at Stagg field between the football teams of Camp Grant and Camp Custer. The game will be played for the benefit of company and athletic equipment funds.

George Ade will utter complete fables in slang from the narrow stage strip between footlights and curtain, and Mme. Galli-Curci will use her particularly persuasive way in emphasizing his requests for higher and higher bids for boxes. A committee of men from the Chicago club will assist Mr. Ade and Mme. Galli-Curci.

The game will be attended by Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas H. Barry and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Joseph T. Dickman, fifteen generals with their staffs, many more colonels and their staffs, 8,000 men from Camp Grant, who will come on twenty special trains, and most of the leaders of Chicago society. The men from Camp Grant will parade through the loop, when for the first time the city's inhabitants will see so large a part of our national army on the march.

Members of the Junior league are now selling tickets to the game through the city. Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick is chairman of the Illinois group of patronesses, including Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Mrs. H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, Mrs. E. C. Dudley, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, Mrs. Alfred H. Gross, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, Mrs. Henry Hooper, Mrs. Samuel Insull, Mrs. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. Henry N. Tuttle, Mrs. Hathaway Watson, Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth, Mrs. Harley E. Whiting, Mrs. Francis E. Williams, and Mrs. G. F. Swift.

Set of Colors for Great Lakes Band

The largest band of musicians in the world, that made up of cadets in the Great Lakes Naval Training station, is now in possession of a set of battalion colors. Chicagoans saw the band grow from 20 or so enthusiastic young trombonists and drummers into 200 or more, and then, under the stimulating baton of John Philip Sousa, into more than 400; but that the boys did not have colors was not observed until they went down to New York City for the great Red Cross pageant.

When the omission was called to their attention a committee of women went to work, raised the money, and obtained the set—a large American flag of silk and a big blue silk standard with the appropriate naval device. Mrs. Sousa was asked to present the colors. In doing so she said:

"The women of America are back of you! That means that if you honor the flag the flag will honor you. Nothing can shake our faith and loyalty."

Lieut. Sousa has for some days been laid up with a cold out in the Moraine hotel, Highland Park.

"THE HUGUENOTS" REVIVED

BY FREDERICK DONAGHEY.

Genevieve Vix reached Chicago yesterday, a little more than two weeks late. A minor consequence of the delay was a revival, at night, of "The Huguenots." That is, I assume that the opera would not have been given for the Monday subscription thus early in the season had the normal schedule not been blown to shreds when Campanini found himself without a French soprano, and, so, unable to rotate his crops.

The performance was given with virtually the cast heard when this operatic prototype of the Winter Garden shows was put on in the final week of last season: the only important change was of Huberdeau, his voice still clouded, for Journet as Saint-Bris. When sung last winter, Raisa as Valentine and Arimondi as Marcel stood out so far that the others were a mere background. They stood out last night, too; but they were joined in front by Crimi, whose striking betterment was carried into Raoul, which he sang as well, perhaps, as any Italian tenor ever did. It is not a part for an Italian, just as the piece itself, is not at its brassy best when put on for anything outside Meyerbeer's design of a musical variety-show with the aspect of opera.

You have doubtless heard Mr. Frank Tinney compound a wile with the chef-d'orchestre when the latter, observing the bagpipes, suggests that they play something—something from "Il Trovatore," say. "Yes," replies Mr. Tinney—"we'll play something from 'Il Trovatore'; or, if we don't, we'll fix it so that nobody else can play it."

That, I suspect, is what the late Maurice Grau had in mind when he added two dollars to the cost of a seat and gave "The Huguenots" with all the De Reszkes, an assortment of Nordicas and Scalchis, and with such other bravura, tenor, baritone, mezzo, and basso-profundo celebrities as happened to be around the Metropolitan when he made up his cast. If he didn't fix it so that nobody else could play it, he certainly made the going hard for any other manager bent upon doing the opera for what there is in it as an incident of a season's répertoire.

Yet, had Campanini been there to conduct it as well as he did in the January performance, the revival would have possessed most of the merits of Mr. Grau's hip-hip-hurrah; while it had points that were better. Raisa's Valentine, for one. I recall nobody else so good as she is in this part, which she makes seem important in spite of the handicap of bad, uninteresting music. This gifted young Russian belongs in any competent reply to a query concerning the great opera-singers of today. Maguenat, the De Nevers, had a cold, but went through in a fashion; Miss Christian reappeared to sing Marguerite de Valois; Miss Sharlow was less of a puritan than before as the page, and sang the famous aria brightly and truly, if not with the right touch of davitry. The opera is scheduled again for next Tuesday, and will by then, perhaps, have Campanini back to point it up. It held the Monday audience till midnight.

Tonight, "Romeo and Juliet," with Muratore and Galli-Curci for the second time this season. The third will be next Monday.

The bill is changed for Sunday afternoon, when Galli-Curci and Stracciari will team again for the first "Traviata" of the season. She says that his elder Germont in this opera is, like Rigoletto, one of his best conveyances.

"The Jewels of the Madonna" with Raisa is put off, in present plans, till Sunday, Dec. 16. She, Crimi, and Rimini are new to it; and Campanini's idea is to hold it back until he is well enough to look after the rehearsals. Wolf-Ferrari's score is one of his specialties.

Fritz Kreisler, so far as the Opera management knows, will come for the second of Campanini's concerts next Sunday night. No word has been received from Kreisler to indicate that this date is affected by his announced cancellation of his season's bookings. He is billed to share the program with Carolina Lazzari, the contralto who made a definite personal success in both performances so far given of the "Dinorah" revival.

SOCIETY AT THE OPERA

Maj. and Mrs. Solbert chaperoned a party last night at the opera in which were Miss Betty Hoyt, Miss Gladys High, and Capt. Bertrand. Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Scott in their box. With Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver D. Grover, Mrs. Robert A. Millikan, and J. W. Hutchinson.

Count and Countess Bolognesi and Miss Grace Tuttle were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. McGann. Mrs. George M. Pullman was in her box with her granddaughter, Miss Florence Lowden, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Cary, Miss Cox, and Mr. Brant.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wight Neumann had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Clifford and Mr. and Mrs. Eli Mayer. Mrs. Paul Bartlett, Miss Alice Roullier and A. Barthélemy were together. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde's guests in their box were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Adams and Col. and Mrs. William Stephenson. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Neilson were in their box and had with them Mrs. Nielson's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. William Scott Bond and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Proctor Smith were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Heckman.

Mr. and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Logan, and Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carr were together. Mrs. E. S. Worthington, Mrs. F. S. Eames, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Boyd, Mrs. Joseph Winterbotham Jr., and William Prescott Hunt were in a box together.

NAVY BALL

North Shore to Turn Out at Station Tomorrow Night.

One of the feature social events of the year will take place tomorrow night at the Great Lakes Naval Training station when the jackies give their Thanksgiving ball.

Already the tars are practicing the new steps. In the drill hall yesterday all those who could fox trot and tango were initiating the newer recruits.

North shore society is preparing to turn out in numbers, according to advance announcements.

OBITUARY.

William A. Meehan Killed by Auto Truck

William A. Meehan, 52 years old, for fifteen years Chicago sales manager for the National Biscuit company, was killed late Sunday at Wauwatosa, Wis., when hit by an automobile truck. Because of a curve in the street Mr. Meehan failed to see the approaching truck. He died ten minutes after the accident on the way to the hospital. He is survived by his widow and 14 year old daughter. He resided at 4729 Washington boulevard.

Mr. Meehan had not taken a vacation for several years. Recently his health became poor by reason of overwork and physicians ordered a rest. He went to Wisconsin last Friday.

Mr. Meehan was born in Chicago. He was assistant treasurer and paymaster at the World's Fair in 1893 and served four years as city paymaster under Mayor Hopkins.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at the Church of St. Thomas Aquinas. Burial in Calvary cemetery.

MILTON E. HOLTON of 625 Milburn street, Evanston, who died Saturday, was born April 24, 1836, at Leroy, N. Y. He had been a resident of Chicago and Evanston since 1874, and almost all the time had been identified with the Deerings in the farm implement business. He was executor of the estate of William Deering.

ORLANDO METCALF CONE, 7702 Eastlake terrace, died Sunday. He was born on Nov. 12, 1873, in Chicago. He leaves a widow. Mr. Cone was secretary and manager of Edwin F. Daniels & Co., 20 West Jackson boulevard, wholesalers and retailers of coal and coke.

THE REV. ROBERT STRACKE, 55 years old, formerly pastor of the Second German Baptist church, died yesterday. He is survived by his widow and seven children.

Evanston Allied War Shop.

A group of Evanston women, under the leadership of Mrs. David R. Forgan, will open an allied war shop tomorrow at Oak avenue and Davis street. The object is to make clothes for the French and Belgian children from the invaded districts, many of whom are orphans, and all of whom are homeless.

Resinol heals sick skins quickly

Don't wait for time to heal that eruption. "Oh, it will get well anyhow!" you say? Perhaps it will, and perhaps it won't. Maybe it will get worse instead. And think of the discomfort and embarrassment it causes you even now. Isn't it better to get rid of the trouble by using Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap? Doctors prescribe the Resinol treatment constantly, so you need not hesitate to use it. Resinol usually stops itching instantly.

All druggists sell Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. For a free sample of each, write to Dept. 10-N, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. You'd better try them!

CAMP ELEVENS IN LIMELIGHT FOR BIG GAME

Stars Play Thursday in Sheridan-Great Lakes Contest.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

With the 1917 college football season a matter of history, with Pittsburgh champion of the east, Ohio State champion of the Big Ten, and Nebraska supreme west of the Mississippi river, football fans will watch with interest the results of camp games to be played on Thursday and Saturday.

Teams representing the Great Lakes Naval Training station and the Fort Sheridan officers will meet at Stagg field Thursday, while officers' elevens from Camp Grant at Rockford and Camp Custer at Battle Creek will meet at Stagg field Saturday.

Those who attend the Army-Navy game Turkey day will see some of the greatest football players who ever donned the moleskins. Benbrook, all-American guard in 1909 and 1910, will play one of the guards for Fort Sheridan.

List of Star Players.

H. S. Ofstie, Company 9, All-Western end, will be on one end of the line; John E. Thomas, Company 22, Phillips Exeter, will play one of the tackles, and P. H. Des Jardiens, Company 20, an All-American man, will play center. Alimendinger of Michigan, another All-American player, will play guard. Verwibe of Harvard, considered one of the best back field men who ever donned a Crimson uniform and who was another All-American player, will play full back. Henning of the Michigan Aggies, Battery 5, will play end, and H. M. Wheaton of Yale will start at half back.

Des Jardien in Squad.

Paul Des Jardien, former Maroon center and also picked as All-American material, with a host of others of almost equal fame, is included in the following list of material:

H. S. Ofstie, Wisconsin, All-Western, end.
John E. Thomas, Phillip Exeter, tackle.
E. L. Alimendinger, Michigan, All-American, guard.
E. F. Verwiebe, Harvard, All-American, full back.
R. B. Henning, M. A. C., All-Western, end.
H. M. Wheaton, Yale, half back.
J. S. Pliska, Notre Dame, All-Western, half back.
B. C. Craig, Michigan, All-American, half back.
Jesse Spalding, former Yale captain, half back.
Springer H. Brooks, Yale, end.
George T. Walker, Virginia, full back.
C. G. Sauer, Chicago, All-Western, half back.
L. W. Gray, Chicago, All-Western, half back.
James A. Turner, Northwestern and Dartmouth, All-Western, end and quarter back.
H. J. Liston, Lewis tech, full back.
W. H. McGay, Amherst captain, full back.
A. H. Hutchinson, Cornell, end.
F. W. Hartwig, Tulane, tackle.
A. W. Zimmerman, Missouri, guard.
W. N. Grien, Louisiana, tackle.
Robert S. Harris, Chicago, All-Western, guard.
Phil T. Harrison, University H. S., tackle.
George Van Studdeford, end.
G. D. Arnstein, Cornell Hamburgs, tackle.
H. C. Larsen, Wisconsin, quarter back.
George P. Hironus, end.
P. G. Millard, Michigan, guard.
Vincent M. Reed, Northwestern, guard.
William C. Pope, Northwestern, center.

Soldier Team Strong.

A visit to the practice field at Fort Sheridan yesterday revealed that the soldiers have great material. Under the tutelage of Jimmy Turner the soldiers are a strong looking aggregation. They execute the close and open formations with the accuracy and precision of a college team, and it will take the best defense of the Jackies to stop them.

The exact lineup could not be announced yesterday. At least twenty players were used in practice, and Coach Turner said he was undecided as to the opening lineup. The team will be sent through a long scrimmage and signal drill at Stagg field today and tomorrow.

Lineup of Navy Team.

The tentative lineup of the Navy team was announced as follows: Ends, Loucks of Michigan and Hiltner of Michigan; tackles, Allen of Illinois and McCauley of Geneva college; guards, Robins of Missouri and Laswell of Texas; center, Pottinger of Wisconsin; quarter back, Conzelman of Washington; right half back, Proctor of Nebraska; left half back, Raymond of Michigan; full back, Smith of Michigan.

THE GUMPS—POOR OLD ANDY! HE CAN HARDLY WAIT FOR CHRISTMAS.

CAMP GRANT PLAYERS GREET COACH STAGG

BY PARKE BROWN.

Camp Grant, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Two noted generals arrived here today and went into a secret conference, at which plans for an attack upon a formidable enemy were laid.

Gen. A. A. Stagg and Gen. Fred Murphy, leaders of the Maroon and Purple forces, were the visitors. What they advised has not been disclosed, but there is joy in the camp over their coming, for until now the Camp Grant officers' team has been without the services of a professional coach. Big stars of several years ago have given their best efforts to the eleven, but the visit of two up to the minute teachers was glorious news.

Will Practice Here.

In order to have adequate training facilities, the Camp Grant team leaves here Wednesday night bound for the South Shore Country club in Chicago, so that it will have two days of practice on Stagg field before Saturday's big contest with the officers' team from Camp Custer.

Coach Murphy returned tonight and may help out some during those last two days. But Coach Stagg is here on the job and will remain as the chief preceptor of the team right up to and through the game.

Camp Custer Here on Thanksgiving.

The Camp Custer team is expected to arrive in Chicago Thursday and will be quartered at the Chicago Beach hotel. A short signal drill will be held on Friday at one of the local parks.

FAMOUS COACHES GRID OFFICIALS

Never before in the history of football have three such prominent coaches as Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, John Richards of Wisconsin, and Fred Murphy of Northwestern volunteered their services to act in one football game. Richards will referee the Army-Navy game on Stagg field Thursday. Yost will act as umpire and Murphy will be head linesman. Walter Eckersall of THE TRIBUNE will act as field judge.

MARQUETTE FIELD SHUT TO BADGERS

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Marquette university has refused to allow the University of Wisconsin to use its football field for a game with the team from Camp McArthur for the benefit of a fund for the boys at camp. Father Herbert Noonan, president of Marquette, tonight said that the University of Wisconsin has refused to play with Marquette because the latter played freshmen, but later played Notre Dame. He contends that the university has continually refused to play Marquette, although it now wants to play a team composed partly of professionals on Marquette ground. He can see no reason for granting any favors.

Detroit Player Added to Gridiron's Casualty List

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 26.—Ellis Hamilton, 17 years old, who was injured in a football game yesterday, died early this morning.

Woods and Waters

QUESTIONS THEY ASK.

CHICAGO.—[To the Editor.]—1. I have an old twelve gauge Belgian made shotgun. Would it be safe to use smokeless powder in this arm? 2. Is the price of shotgun shells likely to come down soon?

O. F.

Answers: 1. Belgian guns are nearly always "proofed," or tested, with about four or five drams of black powder, so the gun probably will be safe with smokeless. Better use bulk smokeless, however. 2. Possible but most improbable.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—1. Why is the .22 long considered inferior to the short or long rifle? 2. The dictionary says that the cormorant is "a large web footed sea bird." Why are they listed on the back of Illinois hunting licenses? 3. Is there any difference in the effect on the bore of a .22 caliber rifle if Lesmoke or smokeless powder is used? 4. Why is it recommended that smokeless powder ammunition be outside lubricated, while this is not so of the Lesmoke ammunition?

E. W. G.

Answers: 1. Its trajectory is extremely high, and it simply will not perform like the other two. A maverick that has no excuse for existence except that the misguided sometimes buy them. 2. Your dictionary is very indefinite. Cormorants are more than plentiful along the Illinois river. They call 'em "nigger geese" down there. 3. The disadvantage of smokeless is not the effect on the bore but the great difficulty, one might say impossibility, of cleaning the residue from such a small bore as the .22. Lesmoke and semi-smokeless is much cleaner, and every rifle nut knows that any .22 is dirty enough. 4. A matter of manufacturing technique, we suppose.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—Where can I get some squirrel and rabbit hunting within forty miles of Chicago?

G. S.

Answer: There is little hunting so near Chicago. You may run into a squirrel or rabbit now and then, but they are not plentiful enough to warrant going after them unless you can find some farmer's wood lot that has been posted and guarded closely for some years. There are a few nearby places where some small game may be found, but they are scarce, and those who know about them are keeping it to themselves.

Illini Ready for Action in Camp Funston Clash

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Bob Zuppke's Illini took their final practice on Illinois field tonight. Tomorrow they entrain for Camp Funston, Kas., where they will arrive on Wednesday for their Thanksgiving day battle with Potsy Clark and his soldier boys. The Illini came out of the Minnesota game in good shape, but the edge is off and it is expected they will have an uphill struggle against the soldiers.

Hoosier Team Off Today for Game at Camp Shelby

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 26.—Indiana practiced as usual today, Coach Stiehm sending his men through signal drill and a general limbering up workout, so as to take out the kinks they received in the battering game with Purdue on Saturday. The squad of twenty players will leave here in a special parlor car tomorrow night for Hattiesburg, Miss., where the Hoosiers will clash on Thursday with the soldiers' team at Camp Shelby.

Former Indiana Grid Men Join Flyers in Florida

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—"Dutch" Krause, assistant coach of the football team, and Harrison Kesterson of the 1913 Indian university eleven, have enlisted in the aviation service training at Tampa, Fla.

WRESTLING MATS FOR SAILOR BOYS

The plan of holding wrestling shows, taken up by turner societies and other organizations of the city, for the purpose of equipping Camp Grant for the mat game this winter, has been extended to include the Great Lakes Naval station boys as beneficiaries.

The Chicago Hebrew institute, which was first to schedule a war charity mat show, originally for the Rockford soldiers, changed its plan when Ben Reuben visited his old club from Great Lakes and reported that for 20,000 jackies in seven different camps at the naval station there were only two worn out mats.

The following wrestling meets have been scheduled for the soldiers and sailors:

Dec. 15—Hebrew institute.
Dec. 20—[aproximate date]—Illinois Sportsmen's club.
Jan. 12—Logan Square A. C.

THORNS PLAY TWO GAMES.

The Pullman Thorns have two hard battles scheduled for this week. They play the Tornadoes at Pullman Thanksgiving day for neighborhood supremacy. Sunday the Thorns-East Chicago Gopher contest at East Chicago will be the attraction. The Gophers are champions of the Northern Indiana Football league. Special trains will take Pullman fans to the scene of action.

TENNIS MEN IN RUSH FILE APPLICATIONS FOR HOSPITAL UNIT

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

With a dozen of Chicago's tennis playing war volunteers already in service at the Allentown training camp for hospital units, the lists of the all-Chicago section of forty-five men will be closed this week or next. Half the forty-five men needed to fill the quota of this city's section already have sent in their applications.

A rush of twelve applications in the last five days was credited by Secretary J. C. Stewart of the Western Tennis association to THE TRIBUNE, which printed the news of the recruiting move. Heath Byford, this city's best known net star, who dropped out of the game at the close of 1916 as champion of the northwest, Great Plains, and Missouri valley sections, besides enlisting himself, persuaded three of his friends to follow suit. Byford could not meet all tests of the regular army examination.

Exempted, But Wish to Serve.

Three of the new batch of enlistments are men who were exempted by their army draft boards, but were unwilling to stay home.

One of the new volunteers is Fred B. Cheney, former star in several sports, who is 43 years old. Following are the new volunteers:

Hugh C. Austin.
B. Autolls, 5533 Indiana avenue.
Fred B. Cheney, 613 North Troy street.
William Christensen, 5948 West Superior street.
James A. Cook.
Julian Freeman, 3806 Grand boulevard.
Robert Gisel.
B. L. Goldberg, 3332 Palmer street.
Robert S. Hipp.
A. R. Johnson.
William D. Murray.

Discuss Plans Today.

An open meeting of the board of directors of the Chicago Tennis association has been called by President C. R. Pierce for noon today at Marshall Field's men's grill. Plans for increasing Chicago's contribution to the tennis men's ambulance service, both in men and in money, will be the chief topic.

CHICAGO PIN MEN PRIZE WINNERS

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 26.—In the midwest bowling tournament which closed tonight Chicago rollers were prominent. Mackin and Welu of Dubuque took first place in the doubles with a score of 1,223. Their showing was made possible by a 298 game which Mackin shot as his final effort, making eleven straight strikes and getting an eight pin count on his final ball. C. Collier of Chicago went into a tie for second place in the singles with 639. Final standings:

Five man teams—Alvarez, Chicago, 2,920; Blouin-Bretcks, Chicago, 2,904; Minerallites, Chicago, 2,833; L. & G., Chicago, 2,830; Marion Handleys, Milwaukee, 2,822; Logan Squares, Chicago, 2,811; Marquettes, Minneapolis, 2,802; Garry Herrmanns, Cincinnati, 2,797; Birk Brothers, Chicago, 2,796; Bobbie Byrne, St. Louis, 2,785.

Doubles—L. Mackin-N. Welu, Dubuque, Ia., 1,223; W. Nation-C. Ashley, Sioux City, 1,222; Schuttenberg-Schmidt, St. Louis, 1,217; G. Rankin-J. F. Ford, Fort Dodge, 1,210; C. Hippee-H. Meinhardt, St. Louis, 1,204; Simodynes-Huntington, Omaha, 1,187; McKinley-Latiner, Kansas City, 1,885; J. Blouin-P. Wolf, Chicago, 1,183; L. Spencer-Lemphuhl, Chicago, 1,183.

Singles—A. Toemmel, Chicago, 651; W. Tang, Fort Dodge, Ia., 639; C. Collier, Chicago, 639; A. Karlicek, Chicago, 637; A. Wartchow, Omaha, 625; A. Rodee, Milwaukee, 624; E. George, Chicago, 620.

All events—G. Wilke, Minneapolis, 1,852; J. L. Illinger, Chicago, 1,836; M. Blouin, Chicago, 1,811; H. Deen, St. Louis, 1,803; H. Lempuhl, Chicago, 1,799; E. Wetterman, Cincinnati, 1,793; J. Larson, Chicago, 1,788.

TOOMEY STAR ON PIN CIRCUIT.

Charley Toomey, with an average of 230 1-3, brought the Garfield Bowling league into the limelight. He toppled the pins for counts of 241, 237, and 213, his first game hoisting the team score to 1,027 for the Benedicts' lone victory over the Metcalfs. Burke, with 203 1-3, was high for the winners, while Kane anchored 201 flat for the same club.

HARRYS WIN PIN MATCH.

The Harrys won a special bowling match at Baier's alleys, beating the Reuters 2,958 to 2,919, in three games, with total pins counting. Gus Schaid set the pace for the winners with 628 pins.

TIE IN HIGH SCHOOL CHESS.

Hyde Park's chess team won another tie in the Chicago High school league, getting a draw at McKinley. The result left three teams still tied for first place, as Marshall tied at Austin in their recent meeting. Hyde Park-McKinley matches:

Zolotkops, Hyde Park, beat Mead. McKinley, 2 to 0. Stein, Hyde Park [c], beat Gladina, McKinley, 2 to 0. Maser, McKinley, beat Hirsch, Hyde Park, 2 to 0. Rosenthal, McKinley, beat Rosenblatt, Hyde Park, 2 to 0.

THREE CUSHION LEAGUE.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, turned the tables on Clarence Jackson, 50 to 44, in 68 innings. It was Reiselt's first victory on his trip. High runs: Jackson, 6; Reiselt, 5.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Harry Cooler [40], got away to a flying start with George Moore, but the New Yorker won, 50 to 35, in 67. Cooler made a run of 8 in the second inning. Moore's high run was 5.

BANK EMPLOYES TO HIKE.

Chicago chapter, American Institute of Banking, will hold its annual hike Sunday to Highland Park. The starting point will be Northwestern University building, Lake and Dearborn streets, at 8:30 a. m. All bank men are invited. Registrations close with F. H. Raddatz, Room 466, 208 South La Salle street, Friday.

In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

PERSONALS.

Mr. F. H. Yost and family of Ann Arbor were week-end guests of the Fred Murphys at Evanston.

Messrs. Masker and Migidsohn, who officiated at the Illinois-Minnesota game in Urbana, were given a cigar apiece by Dr. Williams, coach of one of the contending teams, after the contest. At their next meeting the Big Ten representatives are expected to take action eliminating this evil.

Messrs. Lambert and Weston, Michigan ineligibles, were lunching together at the Edgewater Beach hotel Saturday. "There's our offense and defense," observed Assistant Coach Prentiss Douglass of the so-called Wolverines.

* *

Mr. Eckersall said in his story that Michigan alumni, some of whom had traveled miles to see the game, were satisfied with their team's showing, from which it may be gathered that Michigan alumni are among the most easily satisfied of mammals.

There may be doubt as to the usefulness of Cliff Sparks' legs, but their ornamentalness is vouched for by Mr. F. Murphy. "He has the prettiest kicking motion I ever saw," remarked the Purple coach after the game.

If we were as liable to injury as Mr. Sparks, we wouldn't tempt fate by being numbered 13.

Mr. Evans Stone wrote to the effect that Albert Benbrook was a participant in the historic 2 to 0 1905 pastime. Beg your pardon. Old Albert's last game for Michigan was in 1882. Among his teammates were Pa Henninger, Jim Duffy, Jack McLean, and Noah.

* *

Persons who saw both the Iowa and Michigan games on Northwestern field are convinced that Center Lynch was camouflaging in the former. Messrs. Underhill and Ellingwood suffered severe injuries to their toenails from his passes in that conflict.

Even if the game be deadly dull, you are always sure of some diversion at Northwestern. You buy a reserved seat and amuse yourself for half an hour trying to find it. When you find it, you amuse yourself another half hour trying in vain to convince its occupant that it's yours.

* *

With the Purple leading, 21 to 6, Michigan scored its second touchdown and a Michigan sympathizer, a beautiful young blonde, begged Mr. Welman to kick the goal. She was bitterly disappointed when he didn't, in spite of the fact that his missing it made exactly as much difference as the Pope's peace message. Girls will be girls.

Miss Mae Tinée writes that Miss Soand-So—we never can remember reel stars' names, though we know their faces—is looking forward to the football games. We hope for her sake that the authorities will start the season before the weather gets too cold for the spectators' comfort.

Last year Northwestern beat Chicago and played Ohio for the conference championship. This year Northwestern beat Michigan, which won decisively from Nebraska and Cornell. We are not in the habit of giving unsolicited advice, but if we were running athletics at Northwestern, we'd seriously consider hanging onto the present football coach.

Cut out the booze before it gets you! See what Brandy did to Washington and Jefferson!

Cochran Away in Lead in Match with Mayer

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Welker Cochran defeated Joseph Mayer, former amateur champion, in the first block of their 1,500 point match at Daly's rooms, 300 to 210. Cochran's high run was 85, with an average of 17 11-17. Mayer's high run was 42 and average 13 11-16.

FULTON AND GUNBOAT THREATEN EACH OTHER WITH K. O. TONIGHT

"Tribune" Decisions

Decisions of "Tribune" fight representatives are:
At New Orleans—Kid Roster knocked out Knockout Eggers [24].
At Philadelphia—Patsy Cline knocked out Eddie McAndrews [3]; Joe Lynch stopped Eddie O'Keefe [4], O'Keefe breaking hand.
At Hot Springs—Johnny Greeley knocked out Jack Ryan [3].

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Whether Fred Fulton is master of Gunboat Smith or Smith is master of Fulton will be decided tomorrow night when these heavies turn loose their wallops in a ten round bout. Everything is set for the mixup. Smith, accompanied by his new manager, Jimmy Johnston, arrived this morning and immediately began talking about swinging his right on Mr. Fulton's "tummy." He says that if he does that successfully Fulton is sure to drop.

Fulton Is Favorite.

But there is another argument regarding this fight. Fulton undoubtedly will be a heavy favorite, due to the fact that he outolasses Gunboat in weight, reach and height. The Rochester giant tips the scales at 230 pounds, while the best Smith can total is 175.

While Smith was talking about what he intended to do to Fulton, the latter was pulling a lot of conversation along the same lines. He indicated that he didn't think he would have to go the full distance of ten rounds to be returned the winner, and he expects to score a knockout.

Mike Collins Staging Show.

Judging by the advance sale of tickets the house will be a good one, it being the first show Mike Collins, manager of Fulton, has staged at the club he recently purchased.

PUGILISTIC POINTERS.

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, who boxed Sailor Kirke at Denver next Thursday packed up his tent after a short visit here and yesterday departed for the Colorado town. Leonard was accompanied by his manager, Jimmy Gibson. Gibson, acting as mouthpiece for his scrapper, stated before leaving that any one in the lightweight class, "big or little," could have a crack at Leonard if clubs could be found to stage the bouts. Asked if that meant Charley White, too, Gibson said:

"Yes, that goes for White, too. But Charley is Leonard's most dangerous rival. Some club will have to put up real money, but if does that there will be a scrap."

Charley Scully, the local lightweight, leaves today for Waterloo, Ia., where he mixes with Neal Allison in a ten rounder tomorrow night. The boys are to weigh in at 135 pounds at 3 o'clock. Scully has been making good in his bouts of late and reports of his performances against Allison will be awaited with interest.

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

Frank White, playing 44, went too fast for John Moore [50], at Mussey's, winning, 44 to 31, in forty-eight innings.

At the Casino room Barr won the opening game in the balkline tournament from Henry, 150 to 83, averaging 6 1-5.

At Sutton's room Nashrent [28] won from Shore [35], 28 to 30. Senf and Collom play tomorrow night.

Root [30] defeated Starr [30], 30 to 20, in the three cushion tournament at Burdick's. Shove and Seabrook tonight.

Snow [33] defeated Campbell [40], 33 to 29, in the three cushion tournament at Foley's. Tonight Howe will play Barnes.

Farrell defeated Orr, 100 to 90, in the Ambulance fund balkline tournament at Bensinger's Monroe street room. Orr won from Brown, 100 to 80.

Dave McAndless won from O. M. Stone, 150 to 70, in their balkline match at the Twentieth Century room for the Ambulance fund. They will play at Forty-eighth street and Madison avenue tonight.

Burton [42] defeated Hyatt [42], 42 to 36, in their Chicago Billiard league match at Howe's room in eighty-four innings. Burton, who led all the way, had high run of 4. Barrett and Mannassau will play at Schuenemann's tonight.

Augie Kieckhefer won both of his Ambulance fund games, defeating Frome [31], 50 to 16, in sixty-seven innings at Monroe street and Newlander [21], 50 to 11, in fifty-nine innings. In the night game Augie made thirty-seven points in thirty-nine innings.

William Huey, former world's champion; Augie Kieckhefer, former interstate champion; Jim Shea, and C. Burton will play a three cushion match at the Dearborn room tonight for the benefit of the Ambulance fund. Percy Collins and R. I. McGinnis will play at balkline.

Exhaust Echoes

By SHEPPARD BUTLER

GOOD roads trains, motor caravans, old fashioned spellbinders holding forth at every county fair, and a variety of other picturesque campaign devices will be used next year in convincing the voters of Illinois that they should authorize the proposed $60,000,000 bond issue for highway improvement at the November election.

Preliminary plans for the undertaking were made at the Hotel La Salle yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Illinois Highway Improvement association. By way of a semi-official campaign slogan this was adopted:

"Pull Illinois out of the mud.

"Shout good roads for Illinois throughout the state, and

"Give Illinois the finest state highway system in America."

* *

"Good roads are absolutely necessary at all times," said William G. Edens, president of the association, "and more than at any other time they are demanded now, for with good roads America's part in the war will be accentuated, and in their building every citizen will be doing his or her part."

Among those who attended the meeting were S. E. Bradt, state superintendent of highways; Clifford Older, state highway engineer; Homer J. Tice of Greenview, author of the Illinois good roads law; R. R. Meents of Ashkum, W. F. Crossley of Cairo, Arthur R. Hall of Danville, and J. G. Melfuish of Bloomington.

No motor racing next year because of the war; automobile prices mounting skyward because of the war; passenger car production to be curtailed because of the war—what next? Well, for today we have with us the food conservation movement. It has hit the Chicago Motor club, which announces for the first time in its history it will hold its quarterly meeting tonight without a dinner as the piece de resistance of the program.

The foodless clubmen will consider among other things an amendment to the bylaws admitting women to membership. Assistant State's Attorney Marvin P. Barnhart will speak on the perplexing topic of "Stolen Automobiles" and John M. Zane will discuss "Torpedoing the Ten Commandments."

Rowland Given Banquet by the Fans at Peoria

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—More than five hundred Peoria baseball fans greeted Clarence Rowland, manager of the world's champion Chicago White Sox, at a banquet tonight. It was the first visit of the leader of the world's champion since he managed the Peoria team of the Three Eyes league in 1914. At a local vaudeville house following the banquet Rowland almost stopped the show, the fans cheering him fifteen minutes before he was able to start his act.

TWO BIG LEAGUE VIEWS CLASH ON DOUBLE HEADERS

Nationals Plan Numerous Twin Bills; Ruination of Game, Ban Says.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Double headers will be the leading by-product of the National league's attempt, at the suggestion of Garry Herrmann, to compress a schedule of 154 games into five and a half months. Double headers, according to President Johnson of the American league, have done more to injure professional baseball than any other one thing.

The minor leagues, he says, have played the double header card to the limit, and owe most of their financial troubles to that fact. Playing two games for one admission has cheapened the sport and created in the minds of the fans the belief they were not getting their money's worth out of a single game of nine innings.

Twin Bills Hurt Cincy Club.

Cincinnati has been injured as a baseball town by the predilection of its club officials for double headers, every little excuse having been grabbed by them to postpone a regularly scheduled game so as to make a bargain day for Saturday or Sunday, to attract the fans from surrounding territory.

President Johnson is in favor of expanding the schedule so as to include more open dates than heretofore, if the National leaguers insist on retaining the 154 game schedule. Primarily he is in favor of reducing the major league season to 140 games next season, but declares a majority of the National league club owners are opposed to the shorter chart. In that case it will be necessary for the American league to continue playing 154 games, in order to avoid conflicting dates in the cities which are represented in both major leagues.

Comiskey Wants No Favors.

President Comiskey of the White Sox returned yesterday from Hot Springs, where he has been with his family for ten days. He came back earlier than he intended to attend the funeral of a relative, which occurred in the afternoon.

"We will have baseball next year if the country wants it," Comiskey said. "It will make no difference how many of my players the government takes. I wish I could go to the front myself. I am not in favor of asking the government for any special dispensation for baseball."

Prendergast a Hustler.

Mike Prendergast was a caller at Cub headquarters on the north side. Since the season ended the Cub hustler has been hunting near his home in Arlington, this state, and reported a full larder every day. Mike is back in Chicago for the winter, and expects to stay here. To avoid the appearance of being a slacker, Mike is looking for a job, and the indications are he will find one.

Deel Gainer Joins Boys at Boston Navy Yard

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26.—Del Gainer, substitute first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, enlisted at the Boston navy yard today as a first class yeoman. He will report for duty on Monday. Jack Barry, Duffy Lewis, Chick Shorten, and Ernie Shore of the Red Sox have enlisted, as has Rabbit Maranville of the Boston Braves.

LAKE VIEW BEDS WIN, 29-0.

Lake View Beds displayed better basket shooting form and won from Pilgrim Lutherans at the latter church's floor, 29 to 0. Hockey at forward caged five field goals, and G. Carlson, formerly of Lane, played finely at guard, holding the home forwards and putting four baskets himself.

RAVENSWOOD, 23; N. S. TIGERS, 2.

Ravenswood Church five defeated the North Shore Tigers at Lake View parish house by a score of 23 to 2.

LIBERAL EXPORT SALES OF OATS; BULGE IN PRICES

New High Points on Crop Reached; Corn Futures Higher in Sympathy.

Buying against export sales lifted oats futures to new high levels for the crop yesterday. There was excellent demand for December oats from houses that usually act for the seaboard and this future finished with a gain of 1¼@1¾c for the day while May was up ¼c. The December-May spread widened to 1¾c premium for the former at one time during the session and there was 1c difference at the close. Offerings for December oats were light and best price was seen at the finish. Demand for May was encouraged by the December strength, with shorts and commission houses taking the offerings. Armour sold May oats freely.

Export sales of cash oats from here were reported at 400,000 bu, and there was a liberal business at outside markets. Buyers advanced their bids to 1¼c over December price, track seaboard, and sales were made at this basis. Domestic shipping sales were 90,000 bu. Prices in the sample market were steady to ½c lower. Receipts here were 336 cars. Primary markets had 1,545,000 bu oats, against 1,340,000 bu a year ago. North America shipped 2,858,000 bu oats last week, against 2,067,000 bu a year ago.

Distant Corn Futures Higher.

Corn futures were weak early, but rallied with oats and closed ½@¾c higher for active months and ¾@⅞c lower for December. Commission houses and shorts absorbed the offerings. The weakness in the cash market was offset by the strength in oats. Best buying was by one of the elevator concerns while Bartlett-Frazier sold quite freely.

The unfavorable weather over sections of the belt with forecast for generally unsettled conditions also encouraged buyers. The promise of an increased movement as a result of the order to furnish more cars for loading grain was the principal depressing factor. Corn is showing improvement in quality every day.

Cash corn was 5@15c lower, the better grades again displaying the most weakness. Good No. 3 corn sold at $1.82. Local shipping sales were 25,000 bu. Receipts here were 385 cars and primary markets had a total of 912,000 bu, against 1,537,000 bu a year ago. North America shipped 145,000 bu corn last week, compared with 372,000 bu a year ago.

Rye Market Firmer.

Rye was firmer. Cash No. 2 sold $1.79@1.80 and No. 3, $1.78. Receipts were 36 cars.

Barley ruled easy. Malting was quoted $1.25@1.41 and sold $1.31@1.40; feed and mixing quotable $1.05@1.31, and screenings, 60c@$1.10, with latter selling 95c@$1.00. Receipts were 89 cars.

Timothy seed was steady. March sold $8.45 and closed $8.35 bid and $8.45 asked. Cash lots quotable $5.50@7.50. Clover seed held unchanged with cash quoted $20.00@26.00, and spot prime $26.50.

Flax closed unchanged with cash quoted $3.20½@3.23½.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—COFFEE—The circulation of Dec. notices estimated at slightly over 20,000 bags, caused a renewal of liquidation and active switching in the market for coffee futures today. The opening was 3 to 6 points lower and the more active months sold about 5 to 12 points net lower during the early trading, with December touching 6.82c and May 7.26c. The market steadied at this level on covering and scattered trade buying, however, and later recovered part of its losses, with the list closing at a net decline of 1 to 5 points. Dec., 6.81c; Jan., 7.00c; March, 7.16c; May, 7.32c; July, 7.50c; Sept., 7.66c. Spot coffee was steady; Rio 7s, 7½c; Santos 4s, 9½c. Cost and freight offers were about unchanged, including Santos 4s at 9.40c and Rio 7s at 7.45c to 7.50c. London credits. The official tables reported no change in the primary markets except Santos futures, which were 25 reis lower to 25 reis higher; later advances 25 to 100 reis. Brazilian port receipts, 53,000; Judahy, 47,000. Rio exchange, 3.324; lower.

PIT PARAGRAPHS

PERSONS whose only transactions in grain are made in the pit need not take out licenses, whether deliveries are made on such contracts or not. On the other hand, a person cannot sell grain outside of the pit which was bought in the pit without taking out a license. This is the substance of a ruling by Robert A. Taft, assistant counsel, United States food administration, as received by President J. P. Griffin of the Board of Trade. The officers of the Board of Trade will at a later date make public the ruling affecting those who are engaged in handling cash grain as commission merchants or merchandisers, but in the opinion of Attorney Robbins this latter class will doubtless be obliged to secure a license from the food administration.

J. J. Stream, vice president of the Board of Trade, who has been appointed chairman of the coarse grain division of the food administration, expects to take up his new duties next Monday. His headquarters will probably be in New York, and the movement, storage, and exportation of corn, oats, and barley will come under his jurisdiction. Mr. Stream will confer with Mr. Hoover the latter part of this week. It is likely that he will resign as vice president of the Board of Trade. The trade is much pleased with the appointment of Mr. Stream because his expert knowledge of the grain trade will eliminate chance of mistakes and misunderstandings which might have resulted had some inexperienced man been placed in the position.

At a meeting of the shippers of the Chicago Board of Trade held yesterday the following resolution was adopted: "In order that there be uniformity of action between all markets on all sales made on and after Wednesday, Nov. 28, 1917, sellers of grain for shipment out of the Chicago market shall make allowance for the freight war tax on the invoices."

Visible supply of wheat in the United States this week increased 1,649,000 bu, while corn increased 411,000 bu, oats decreased 535,000 bu, rye decreased 34,000 bu, and barley decreased 156,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	This wk.	Last wk.	Last year.
Wheat	21,281,000	19,584,000	71,990,000
Corn	1,655,000	1,244,000	1,696,000
Oats	17,998,000	18,533,000	47,845,000
Rye	3,580,000	3,614,000	2,077,000
Barley	3,608,000	3,764,000	4,222,000

Receipts inspected yesterday: Wheat, 89 cars; corn, 385 cars; oats, 336 cars; rye, 36 cars; barley, 89 cars. Hogs estimated for today, 33,000 head.

Canadian millers will be allowed to grind a certain percentage of oats with wheat, according to Winnipeg advices to Logan & Bryan.

Omaha advices are to the effect that with good weather Nebraska farmers will ship plenty of No. 3 and No. 4 corn in January.

LIQUIDATE, U. S. ORDERS GERMAN RISK COMPANIES

Life Insurance Firms Only Are Allowed to Do Business.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Secretary McAdoo today decided that under the trading with the enemy law the business of all insurance companies incorporated in Germany or "ally of enemy coutries" is to be liquidated, with the exception of life insurance companies, which are allowed to continue existing contracts.

The insurance companies are expected to wind up their affairs immediately either by transferring risks to other concerns or canceling outstanding policies by refunding part of the premium.

Their aggregate business is estimated at less than 1 per cent of the total insurance business in the United States, however, and the liquidation probably will not materially disturb the insurance situation.

The principal direct writing enemy companies doing business in the United States and their risks are:

Aachen and Munich Fire Insurance company	$264,000,000
Hamburg-Bremen Fire Insurance company	207,000,000
Nord Deutsch Insurance company	129,000,000
Prussian National Insurance company	225,000,000

Leading Reinsurance Firms.

The leading reinsurance companies, enemy and ally of enemy, are:

Balkan National Insurance company, Bulgarian, with risks of	$261,000,000
Bulgaria First National Insurance company	238,000,000
Cologne Reinsurance company, German	204,000,000
Frankona Reinsurance company, German	138,000,000
International Reassurance company, Austrian	110,000,000
Munich Reinsurance company, German	864,000,000
South German Reinsurance company, German	111,000,000

The total assets of these companies is $28,000,000 and their total risks $2,853,000,000.

In a recent hearing before Secretary McAdoo insurance men opposing the enemy companies argued that they have facilities for obtaining information on the construction of many industrial plants of value to enemy agents in placing bombs or starting fires.

Profits Aid to Enemy.

It also was argued that profits of the enemy companies go to maintain enemy interests, either in the United States or neutral countries, and that much valuable information to the enemy can be gathered by the companies and forwarded through neutral countries to Germany.

Officers of the foreign companies scouted the suggestion that they were dangerous to the nation's safety and cited the records of their leaders to show that they were patriotic American citizens.

Specific action in the cases of the various companies will be taken within a few days by the war risk bureau of the treasury department, to which Secretary McAdoo assigned the administration of the enemy insurance features of the trading with the enemy act.

SEE NO DISTURBANCE.

Fears expressed in some quarters last night that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's order to German fire insurance companies to liquidate will cause a grave disturbance in the insurance world and throw thousands of Americans out of employment were discounted by local agents of Teutonic companies last night.

"We have anticipated Mr. McAdoo's action for some time," Fred S. James, Chicago agent for the Nord Deutsch Insurance company, said. "In fact, German companies have gradually been liquidating ever since the war began. They have been unable to stand up against the popular prejudice against everything German.

"As for thousands of Americans being thrown out of employment, I don't have any such fear. They will be absorbed by other companies whose staffs have been depleted on account of enlistments."

Hog receipts at Chicago yesterday, estimated at 55,000 head, were the largest reported here in nine months, and prices were largely 10c lower than on Saturday. Quality was exceptionally good, but the supply included a liberal proportion of lightweight animals, many of which were left unsold at the finish. Strong weight hogs sold readily, with tops at $17.95, and the bulk, all grades, at $17.50@17.90. Pigs sold $1.00 lower for the day, with good grades at $15.00@15.50.

Cattle trade was slow and steers sold mostly 10@15c lower, with some as much as 25c off. Cows and heifers were 10@15c lower, while calves held steady. Total receipts were 36,000, of which 5,000 were western rangers. The latter sold unchanged to 15c lower. Best native steers sold at $14.90.

Sheep and yearlings were without change in prices, while lambs were unchanged to 50c lower, with buyers discriminating against heavy animals. Receipts were 27,000. Lambs topped at $16.85 to killers and $17.50 to feeders. Packers bought most of the good killers at $16.50. A band of western wethers sold at $12.10@12.30.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—COTTON—There was a further sensational advance in the cotton market here today, old bull predictions of 30c being more than realized as December contracts sold up to 30.50c, or more than $4.00 per bale above Saturday's closing figures. The general list closed steady at a net advance of 46 to 62 points. The market opened firm at an advance of 15 to 28 points and reached the best point during the middle of the afternoon, with the general list showing a net advance of 71 to 88 points. All old crop deliveries this side of July sold above the 29c level, while near months reached the highest prices touched in the local market since the autumn of 1869. Few December notices had been expected, but even fewer were issued, the amount being estimated at not over 500 bales. There seemed to be sharp competition for this small amount of cotton, and the strength of the near positions was felt in the late months. Closing prices were several points off from the best under realizing. Port receipts today, 28,615. United States port stocks, 1,166,286. Exports, 21,398, making 1,641,565 so far this season. NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 26.—COTTON—Higher prices ruled in cotton here today as the result of a buying wave which carried the active months to the highest levels ever recorded in this contract market. December sold up to 28.90c and at the highest levels the active months were 45 to 76 points over Saturday's close. Last prices showed net gains of 35 to 66 points. Futures:

COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—COTTON—There was a further sensational advance in the cotton market here today, old bull predictions of 30c being more than realized as December contracts sold up to 30.50c, or more than $4.00 per bale above Saturday's closing figures. The general list closed steady at a net advance of 46 to 62 points. The market opened firm at an advance of 15 to 28 points and reached the best point during the middle of the afternoon, with the general list showing a net advance of 71 to 88 points. All old crop deliveries this side of July sold above the 29c level, while near months reached the highest prices touched in the local market since the autumn of 1869. Few December notices had been expected, but even fewer were issued, the amount being estimated at not over 500 bales. There seemed to be sharp competition for this small amount of cotton, and the strength of the near positions was felt in the late months. Closing prices were several points off from the best under realizing. Port receipts today, 28,615. United States port stocks, 1,166,286. Exports, 21,398, making 1,641,565 so far this season. Total sales of stocks, 450,000 shares.

Total sales of bonds [par value], $5,455,000.

INDUSTRIALS SHOW WAY.

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Wall street was much confused today as to the influence on railroad earnings of the plan to pool the freight movements on the great trunk lines. This uncertainty was reflected in a hesitating market for railroad stocks, although here and there among them were exhibitions of firmness.

The majority of the industrial shares, under the leadership of United States Steel and Bethlehem issues, showed aggressive strength, and the accumulation was impressive. United States Steel common rose from 96⅞ to 99⅛, closing with a net gain of 1⅝ points for the day.

Bethlehem Steel B made a corresponding advance, and the forward movement was continued in Republic Iron and Steel, whose earnings are now the most satisfactory in the history of that corporation.

American Can Dividend.

American Can common was strong. The principal buying was attributed to a stock exchange house frequently engaged in active operations in the issue. This accumulation was explained after the close of the market when the directors, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, declared another of 3.75 per cent, which cleans up all the accumulated dividends on that issue and puts the common stock in line for disbursements.

The present earnings undoubtedly warrant such a payment in the near future, but the company is engaged in enormous construction work and has nearly $60,000,000 of government contracts on hand, in addition to its undertakings for the regular trade. It will, therefore, require a large amount of working capital.

One of the directors said after the meeting that the earnings for the present year would show a 50 per cent increase over last year, when the net income, after all deductions, was $7,962,982. The company last year earned 12.31 per cent on the common stock. During the current twelve months it has paid 8.96 per cent in back dividends on the preferred stock. In 1913 it paid 24 per cent on account of these accumulated dividends. The company, it is announced, will spend $4,000,000 in new construction work.

Brooklyn Transit Strong.

One of the strengthening influences in today's market was the declaration by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company of the regular dividend of 1¼ per cent quarterly. This is another case where the course of a stock in the market has not accurately forecast the dividend policies of the directors.

For several months Brooklyn Rapid Transit has been steadily declining on a persistent report that the dividend was to be cut or passed altogether. The stock was selling today at 44⅜ when the announcement was made. It rose rapidly to 46, closing at that level, a net gain of 2½ points over the close of Saturday.

Ætna Explosives October Net Earnings $682,803

The following statement was issued by B. B. Odell and George C. Holt as receivers for the Aetna Explosives company, Inc.:

"Operation of receivership of Aetna Explosives company, Inc., for October shows, before amortization charges and ware excess profits tax are deducted, net earnings of $682,803.

"These net earnings, aside from charges mentioned, are the largest in the history of the Aetna company and have been made possible by fuller operations of its various plants and increased capacity resulting from the rebuilding of the plant at Gary, Ind.

"Total net earnings before amortization and excess war profits tax are provided for from April 20, 1917, the date of receivership, to Oct. 31, 1917, have been $3,489,246, which added to profit as shown up to April 20, 1917, of $236,252, make a total for ten months to Oct. 31 of $3,725,498."

N. P. Heath Wins U. S. Commission in West

Nathaniel Pinckard Heath, son of W. A. Heath, chairman of the board of directors of the federal reserve bank of Chicago, who has been at the officers' training camp at Fort Winfield Scott, San Francisco, for three months, has just received his commission as first lieutenant in the coast artillery. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois. His home is at 1365 East Forty-eighth street.

ON THE BROAD STREET CURB

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—There was a strong tone to the market on the Broad street curb, with many issues showing a strong tone and making substantial gains. Aetna Explosive had a far broader market than it has enjoyed for a long time, dealings being on a large scale at prices ranging from 9⅜ to 8⅝, the highest point touched in several months. Cities Service was another strong feature, advancing from 209 to 212.

A feature of the trading was the large business in General Electric rights to subscribe to new stock at par. These rights, which sold at 4 on Saturday, were traded in at 2¼ to 1⅞. The notes sold in moderate amounts at 99¼ to 99⅝

Oil stocks were fairly active. Standard Oil shares were strong, with sales of Anglo at 18½, South Penn at 275 to 285, Ohio Oil at 300, and Standard Oil of New Jersey at 518 to 520.

Nixon-Nevada was the most active of the mining group, being traded in on a large scale at 1 7-16 to 1⅝, a new high record. Magma dropped from 46¼ to 44½. There was initial trading in Copper Valley at ⅜@1.

In Foreign Stock Markets

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The war news stimulated business in most directions on the stock exchange today and the market commenced the week distinctly strong and cheerful, oils, shipping, and Peruvian shares leading the improvement. Argentine rails were buoyant on the proposed purchase of Argentine grain by the allies, while gilt edged securities were benefited by an accumulation of week end orders and the prospects of the reinvestment of dividends at the end of the month. American securities were quiet. Money was in increased request. Discount rates were quiet. Bar silver, 42¾d per ounce. Money, 4 per cent. Discount rates: Short bills, 4⅝ per cent; three month bills, 4⅝ per cent.

MARKET COMMENT

ACCORDING to Dow-Jones, the Republic Iron and Steel company's report for 1917 will be the strongest earnings statement ever issued by the company. It is expected there will be shown a balance of $27,191,000 for the common stock, equal to approximately $57.00 a share after all charges, including federal taxes. This is based on the assumption that operations during the remainder of the year will not be interrupted.

Republic Iron and Steel is one of the few companies that will show larger earnings after federal taxes this year than in 1916. From present indications it is declared the company will earn more for its common stock than any other large steel company. Its showing will be from $10 to $20 a share better than any of its competitors.

Last year the company earned a balance of $47.95 a share, applicable to the common. In the two years of 1916 and 1917 the company will have earned a total of $105 a share, available to the common stock.

Some of the leading holders of United States Steel are telling their friends that the company's business after the war will be on a sounder foundation, and that thereafter its earnings readily will reach a new high record. This statement is based partly on the construction policy of the company, which now includes the completion of what will be the largest plant in the Chicago district and another on the Pacific coast.

Confidence is still expressed in Wall street that the interstate commerce commission will hand down a ruling on rate advances before the end of the week, and it is insisted that the manner of the railroad stocks all through last week indicated a belief that the ruling would be favorable.

FEDERAL RULING INFLUENCES THE PACKING STOCKS

Effect on Earnings Under U. S. Control Not Yet Figured Out.

While there was rather heavy selling of packing house stocks at the opening of the exchange yesterday, it appears that the packers have not finally figured how their earnings will be affected by the food administration's ruling that profits shall be limited to 1⅞ per cent of the gross business or 9 per cent on the investment.

There are exemptions under the ruling which favor the packers, but other features which are necessarily against them. It is understood that in one organization there is a difference of opinion as to whether under the ruling the concern will earn 9 per cent on the investment. Earnings last year on the investment of this company were much better than 9 per cent. But it will require further time to determine what the outcome will be. There is no doubt, however, that earnings will be large and in any event the credit of the packers will not be impaired.

Swift & Co. stock, which closed at 128¼ on Saturday, opened yesterday at 128. The market had the impression that profits must be less on account of the government ruling. The low price was 124. But as the session wore on opinion changed and the final quotation was 128, or ½ below the previous close. Cudahy, opening at 111, was 3 points below the previous close. The final quotation was 112. The stock was moderately active. Wilson & Co. sold off 1 point and closed at the low quotation.

Carbide-Carbon Strong.

The general list was irregular, though Carbide-Carbon was strong. At the closing price of 54¼ it was up 2¾ points. There was good buying by several houses.

Peoples Gas again sold off, closing at 81½. Commonwealth Edison held about steady at 107¼. Stewart-Warner closed 1 point below Saturday. Sears-Roebuck was 1½ points higher, based on no special information. Booth Fisheries was firm.

Chicago City and Connecting Railways preferred was not very active, but the price held fairly steady, closing at 18.

In the bond department there was not a great deal doing. City Railway issues again below 90, selling at 88⅜. Commonwealth Edison 5s held at 93.

Rail Pool Not a Market Factor.

The policy of pooling railroad equipment was not received in the market with any particular demonstration. While greater efficiency will result, it was not figured that the railroads would be much better off in the matter of profits.

But there is an important phase—that of a better understanding between the railroads, the government, and the people. The willingness shown by the roads to fulfill every wish of the government has been brought about by war conditions and probably will advance the roads in public estimation twenty-five years.

While concretely the railroads have suffered from lack of consideration, this condition has been brought about by railroad policies of a previous generation. It should not be expected that acts of past managements contrary to public policy should be readily forgotten, otherwise there would be no penalty for wrongdoing.

Show Their Patriotism.

What the present generation of railroad managers has been seeking is desirable from an economic standpoint but has been denied for other reasons. Now the roads are given an opportunity to demonstrate their patriotism and good citizenship. Without the war this would not have been possible in such an effective way. After the war it is reasonable to predict the status of the roads will be entirely different in the public mind and therefore in the mind of government authorities.

Money and Exchange.

Money rates in Chicago firm at 5½ to 6 per cent on collateral; four months commercial paper, 5½ per cent; six months, 5¾ to 6 per cent; 5½ to 6 per cent over the counter. New York exchange, par. Chicago bank clearings, $80,888,142.

MORE BANKS JOIN RESERVE.

Seventeen new state banks and trust companies have been admitted to the federal reserve system within the last week. This makes the total of state institutions admitted 169.

WEEK'S FAILURES LESS.

Failures during the last week as reported to Dun number 217, as compared 252 for the week previous, 237 the preceding week, and 213 the corresponding week of last year.

Spending $20,000,000,000

Few people realize to what extent industrial activity will follow the vast expenditures planned by our government for the coming year. This activity should be accompanied by an increasing demand for high grade bonds, especially those exempt from various forms of taxation.

FINANCIAL NOTES

TRUSTEES of the Colonial Oil company, under process of liquidation, have declared a dividend of $50 a share on the outstanding $250,000 capital stock. Payment of the dividend will be made upon presentation of certificates of stock at the offices of the company in New York. This makes the second payment in liquidation by the company. The first was paid on May 1, 1916, and amounted to $100 a share.

It is announced the Belle and Diamond mines of the Anaconda Copper company, closed down since last June, owing to strikes, will begin operations next Monday, employing 600 men on daily and night shifts. With the resumption of mining at the Belle and Diamond the Anaconda will be running 92 per cent of capacity.

The tax warrants bearing 4 per cent and due June 25, which the treasury department is issuing are popular with the banks. Some local institutions were not able to get all they wished. Applications, it is announced, were closed Saturday.

The treasury department has called for redemption on $700,000,000 United States treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing Dec. 15 next. Of this amount, $300,000,000 will be redeemed on Dec. 6 at par and accrued interest, and $400,000,000 on Dec. 1, on the same basis.

The American International Shipping corporation has placed orders for the fabrication of 200,000 tons of steel plates and shapes, and is negotiating for 135,000 tons additional.

Continental Motors Gets $150,000,000 Truck Order

Continental Motors corporation has within the last few days received one of the really big war orders placed by the government. It is understood that this order involves approximately $150,000,000, and is for motors for 40,000 trucks. The trucks are to be equipped with the Liberty motor, which corresponds to the Liberty motor designed for aviation service. Two styles of trucks are to be made. Style A will cost between $4,000 and $5,000 each, and style C between $3,500 and $4,000. Of the first style, 28,000 trucks are to be made, and 15,000 of the second.

ARMOUR MEETING POSTPONED.

TEN PAYMENT PLAN To Increase Your Income

Intrinsic values are not reflected in existing prices, which, in our opinion, may not be witnessed again for a long time, if ever.

This fact is recognized by the cautious and thrifty hunter of market bargains who, through the easy terms of The Ten Payment Plan can buy a year's supply of stocks now, getting anywhere from 8% to 15% on the investment.

Orders for any active security accepted upon an initial deposit of 20%, the balance to be paid in nine equal monthly payments.

Write for booklet describing the advantages of the plan which will be sent on request together with copy of our weekly market analysis.

United Fuel Gas.

O. G.—The United Fuel Gas company controls large tracts of oil and gas land and is engaged in the production and sale of natural gas and gasoline. It has outstanding $9,000,000 of stock. At last accounts it had issued $9,997,800 of first mortgage bonds and was preparing to issue $1,502,500 more. Owing to the high price of coal, natural gas companies are unusually prosperous now, and this company is earning interest charges five or six times over. A mortgage on natural gas wells cannot be considered so safe as one on many other kinds of property, and therefore these bonds are entitled to no more than a medium rating.

Premier Motor.

L. McM.—The Premier Motor corporation has been reorganized twice within two years. After the second one, which occurred a year ago, the company had outstanding $1,000,000 of preferred stock, $1,000,000 of convertible notes, and 25,000 common shares of no par value. This common stock was issued at $20 a share. Next week stockholders will vote on increasing the common to 50,000 shares. Preferred stock is offered through brokers at $75 and common at $12, but there are no bids. No reports have been issued. Indications are that the common stock is purely speculative.

United Cigar Stores.

F. M., Racine, Wis.—United Cigar Stores of America earned 9½ per cent on its $27,162,000 of common stock in 1916, compared with 7.69 in 1915 and 7.09 in 1914. Earnings this year are showing a large increase. The company is a holding corporation, owning the stocks of various subsidiaries. It has outstanding $4,527,000 of preferred stock and no bonds. It is probable that the ultimate value of the tangible assets under its common stock is much less than the par value of those shares, but as the reports of subsidiaries are not available there is no way of determining this point.

Brief Answers.

H. N.—The Pennsylvania Kentucky Oil and Gasoline Refining corporation has an authorized capital of $1,000,000. It reports that it is paying 4 per cent quarterly and earning twice as much, but furnishes no details. Indications are that the stock is highly speculative.

C. F. S.—The controller of the currency is charged with the duty of supervising national banks. Your other questions are not quite clear. Please explain them and send stamped envelope for answer.

J. C.—Stock of the Swastika Oil company is purely speculative. It may find oil on its 4,700 acres of leases or it may not.

C. E. S.—Stocks you are interested in have been reviewed. Send stamped envelope for clippings if you wish them.

S. C.—One of your stocks is listed as dead. We can find nothing about the other. It is probably dead.

J. A. McQ.—Wright-Martin Aircraft is a specnulation, not an investment. It was reviewed recently.

Continental Can to Hold Special Meeting on Dec. 4

A special meeting of the directors of the Continental Can company has been called for Dec. 4, at which time, according to Wall street, dividend action on the common stock will be taken. The scheduled meeting of the board is to be a full one, and this is taken to indicate that more than the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent will come up for consideration.

JOBS!
JOBS!
JOBS!

If you but realized the dandy jobs we have on hand—realized how many we have on hand—you surely would make it your business to be at our office the first thing this morning, ready to grab one.
We simply can't get enough clean cut young fellows to fill all of these bunches of openings we have for bookkeepers, office clerks, stock clerks, junior clerks, and a raft of openings for beginners. Also splendid openings for young fellows who want to get started in the right place, who realize that success depends almost entirely upon the proper start.
Did you see the list of jobs we had in Sunday's ad? Well, practically all of them are still waiting for men. Make your business to be in our office the very first thing this morning.
Let's show you how to get that job today. Costs nothing to talk it over.

JOBS!
JOBS!

If you but realized the dandy jobs we have on hand—realized how many we have on hand—you surely would make it your business to be at our office the first thing this morning, ready to grab one.
We simply can't get enough clean cut young fellows to fill all of these bunches of openings we have for bookkeepers, office clerks, stock clerks, junior clerks, and a raft of openings for beginners. Also splendid openings for young fellows who want to get started in the right place, who realize that success depends almost entirely upon the proper start.
Did you see the list of jobs we had in Sunday's ad? Well, practically all of them are still waiting for men. Make your business to be in our office the very first thing this morning.
Let's show you how to get that job today. Costs nothing to talk it over.
